Reds Use Time to Get Troops Prepared for Action, Is Report

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Communist propaganda treatment of the Kaesong truce talks was described by top officials today as evidence that the outlook for peace in Korea is far from bright.

They held this view even before a new incident led to at least temporary breaking off of cease-fire talks.

The caution with which official Washington approached the opening of the negotiations earlier this week has been deepened by the Red use of publicity as a weapon at the bargaining table.

One informed source who may not be named told a reporter the present situation gives no cause for optimism. In fact, he said, if any emotion is justified as to the eventual outcome it is pessimism.

Adding to this feeling was the temporary snag the Reds threw into the talks today by barring 20 allied newsmen from going to Kaesong. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, said the talks have been broken off temporarily because allied newsmen were not allowed to pass a Communist roadblock.

No Agreement

Washington authorities emphasized that nothing has been agreed on so far except some procedures for future meetings, that the Communists are already fixing their negotiating position by public statements and that meanwhile the military buildup in the field continues.

State Department authorities have been most deeply disturbed by the Pyongyang and Peiping radio broadcasts of a three-point demand for a cease-fire agreement which the Red negotiators assertedly introduced at Kaesong.

The terms thus presented call for a buffer zone on the 38th Parallel, reestablishment of the conditions existing just before the war started (the division of Korea) and withdrawal of all "foreign troops."

These specific points are all the subject of negotiation, or will have to be negotiated. It has been understood that the United Nations side has had in mind a buffer zone not on the 38th Parallel but along the present battle line north of the parallel. Furthermore there is no intention to withdraw all "foreign troops" and leave South Korea open to another attempt at conquest.

Plan to Wreck Parley

But the significance of the Red statement is not so much in the specific issues as in the general implication that the Reds are trying by publicity to bring into the negotiations pressures which may in th end wreck the talks.

Police, Fire Lists Are Announced By Civil Service

Nine Men Are Designated for Firemen Jobs; Police Roll Has Seven Names

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today released the names of men on eligibility lists for the appointment of two men each to the local police and fire departments.

The police list is expected to be submitted to the Board of Police Commissioners at its July 19 meeting. The regular meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners is scheduled for July 31, but it is possible that the board will call a special meeting before that date to fill the department vacancies.

A delay in compiling the fire department list resulted of the failure of some men to indicate veterans' credits. The fire department list now has nine names and the police department seven. Two names from the latter were selected to fill prior police department vacancies.

The following are the names on the lists released today by Martin F. Kelly, secretary of the civil service commission, of which the top four from each will be submitted to the boards for appointments:

Fire List

Donald J. Williams, 187 Hasbrouck avenue.
Fred H. Blankschen, 25 Lindsley avenue.
Herebert H. McElrath, 12 Brown avenue.
Conrad H. Remus, 22 Farrelly street.
Water H. Miller, 112 Farrelly street.
Donald R. Hammond, 128 O'Neil street.
Raymond W. Radel, 50 Adams street.
John E. Gillen, 78 Cedar street.
Edward A. DuBois, 63 West Union street.

Police List

Philip McGowan, 21 Presidents Place.
Douglas V. Eckert, 88 Broadway.
Myer Levy, 22 Stuyvesant street.
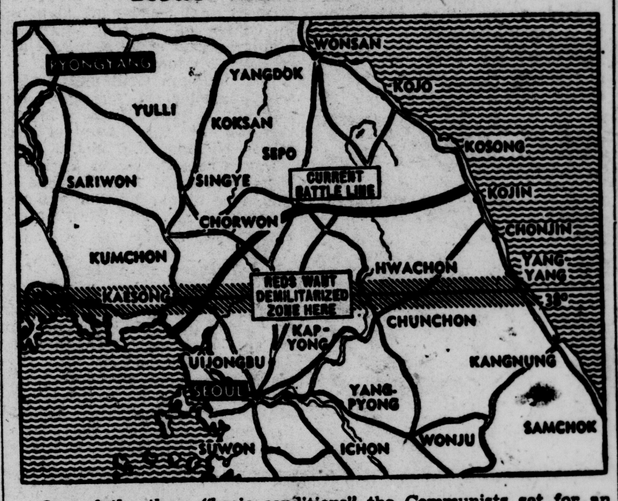
Kenneth W. Gaffney, 47 Manor Place.
George W. Dohnken, 47 Hone street.
William J. Norton, 69 S. Manor avenue.

Traffic Mishap

Josephine Stocknow, 17, of 334 Abeel street, suffered a cut on the head in a traffic mishap on Abeel street yesterday. The police report at 6 p. m., by Officers James Burns and Thomas Tomshaw, said the girl was crossing the street and was injured when she came in contact with a sedan owned and operated by Manfred Wertheim, Kew Garden Hills, Flushing, L. I., who was headed east on Abeel street. The girl, accompanied by her mother, was taken to Kingston Hospital by the driver, the report said.

Reds' 'Basic Condition'



One of the three "basic conditions" the Communists set for an armistice agreement is the establishment of a buffer zone approximately six miles to the north and south of the 38th Parallel. Shaded area on the map shows such a zone. According to the Communist radio, the Reds also want an immediate cease fire and the withdrawal of all foreign troops. Heavy black line is the present battlefront. (NEA Newsmap).

Convoy Returns

General Van Fleet Is Surprised Talks Are Interrupted

Munsan, Korea, July 12 (AP)—The United Nations broke off cease-fire negotiations today over the question of press representation at Kaesong after Red guards challenged part of a UN convoy.

The allied command put the next move up to the Communists.

Up to 10 p. m. tonight (7 a. m., EST), a U. S. Eighth Army communique said, the Reds had not replied to an allied ultimatum that UN peace convoys pass unchallenged.

There was no indication when talks would be resumed.

Sessions scheduled for today were cancelled after Communist guards refused to let a truck load of 20 newspapermen pass a check point with a UN convoy.

Convoy Turns Back

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN delegate, said there would be no more cease-fire talk until the Reds agreed that "my convoy, bearing the personnel of my choosing, including such press representation as I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

Joy ordered the entire 17-vehicle convoy to turn back from the Red check point where the newsmen were halted.

The UN commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, said it was "all or nothing."

The five allied armistice negotiators did not leave Munsan Thursday for their scheduled sessions in Red-occupied Kaesong, 12 miles away.

They won't return, Joy announced, until the Reds permit the UN party, as selected by UN representatives, to proceed intact.

Joy so informed North Korean Gen. Nam Il, head of the Communist cease-fire delegation, in a strongly worded dispatch sent to Kaesong by helicopter.

Right to Attend

General Ridgway informed the Communists Wednesday that the "presence of a selected number of newsmen at a conference of such major importance is considered an inherent right by members of the United Nations."

At that time he said flatly they would be "an integral part of the United Nations command delegation to any and all future sessions beginning 12 July."

Thursday morning the Communists replied that they would like to have press representatives—but not yet. The convoy, including newsmen, already was on its way.

Labor Says Price Line Necessary

Green Insists That AFL Will Not Agree on Plan for Wage Ceiling Alone

Conference Held

Reasonable Controls Are Needed to Save U. S. Economy

Washington, July 12 (AP)—AFL President William Green told Democratic congressional leaders today that labor unions "will not and cannot" submit to wage ceilings without effective price controls.

Green attended a Capitol Hill conference of House members backing the Truman administration's request for strong anti-inflation controls.

James Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, said the "whole labor movement" was behind Green's declaration.

"If an unworkable controls bill is made law labor will not support wage controls," Carey said.

The session was in the nature of a strategy meeting on how to save the administration's wage-price controls program from threatened total defeat.

Also sitting in was Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Green, Carey, Wilson and T. V. Anderson, chairman of the Railway Union Executives Association, all pleaded for a strong controls program.

Face Emergency

Green told newsmen afterwards he had stressed that the nation is "facing a great emergency filled with uncertainty, and that it was up to Congress to pass a 'reasonable" controls bill."

"Labor agreed to wage controls and is submitting to them now," Green said, "but we cannot continue if Congress refuses to pass a defense production act which does not give the government authority to exercise price controls in a reasonable and adequate manner."

Today's session was the second labor union leaders have had with Congress members backing strong anti-inflation controls.

The first meeting was at Blair House Tuesday night when CIO president Philip Murray, and James E. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, met with President Truman and Democratic congressional leaders.

For the moment, Mr. Truman's lieutenants in the House were playing for time in the hope an aroused public opinion would swing some votes to their side in the controversy over controls.

They admitted it was a long-shot gamble. Congressional mail—Capital Hill's barometer of grass roots feeling—has failed to date to reflect any groundswell of popular support for continued controls.

With a legislative slow-down already in evidence, Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts announced publicly late yesterday that House debate on controls would continue into next week.

'Release Time,' Crime Commission Are Favored

Court of Appeals Gives 6-1 Decision on Pupils Leaving School for Religious Study; 5-2 Vote Upholds Dewey's Crime Bureau; Judges Recess for Summer

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has upheld the constitutionality of New York State's Crime Commission and "released-time" for religious education.

The state's highest tribunal split on both decisions and on two others handed down yesterday.

In a 6-1 decision, the court held valid the state's law permitting public schools to give pupils an hour a week off to attend religious classes, away from their schools.

Associate Judge Charles W. Froessel wrote in the majority opinion:

"The constitution does not demand that every friendly gesture between church and state shall be discountenanced."

In upholding Governor Dewey's section of a State Crime Commission, with power to subpoena the court returned a 5-2 decision.

In the majority opinion, Associate Judge Albert Conway said the statute under which the commission had been created was "sufficiently broad to encompass an investigation such as the one here involved, the principal purpose of which is to determine whether there exists a relationship between organized crime and any units of government in the state."

Other Decisions

The court also:

1. Affirmed, 6-1, the death sentence for Bernard Stein, convicted of slaying a man during a holdup in a New York city bar five years ago.

2. Killed, 4-3 a $20,000 action against the New York Telephone Company by a phone user, who said that he put a receiver to his ear and was knocked unconscious by electric shock.

After handing down the decisions, the court adjourned for its summer recess.

In the opinion on the Crime Commission, Conway wrote:

"We agree with petitioner that there is no statutory authorization for the creation of a 'New York State Crime Commission' as such. That phrase is unknown to any statute in this state.

"Our inquiry does not end there, however, for the governor, after purporting to constitute such a commission and stating the scope of the investigation in his executive order, went further * * * and directed the attorney general * * * 'to inquire into the matters here in above set forth involving the public peace, public safety and public justice' and 'and 'requested' the attorney general to do so by appointing the members of the commission."

Was Dewey's Request

Conway added that the Governor "did not direct" Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein "to appoint the named individuals, but merely requested him to do so."

Alex Di Brizzi of Staten Island, president of Local 920, AFL Longshoremen's Association, had challenged the Commission's right to subpoena him in its investigation of waterfront crime.

He contended the Governor had no authority to create a commission of that type and could not delegate powers of subpoena to it.

Di Brizzi claimed his personal constitutional rights were violated in the Commisison's subpoenaing him.

The state's "released-time" law was challenged by Tessim Zorach and Mrs. Esta Gluck, both of New York city. They claimed "the systematic release of children from compulsory attendance at a public school system, upon condition that they attend religious classes, constitutes aid to religion."

They also argued that the system helped provide pupils for religious classes through use of the state's compulsory educational system.

Never Offensive

In a concurring opinion upholding the system's constitutionality, Associate Judge Charles S. Desmond held that governmental aid to and encouragement of religions generally, as distinguished from establishment or support of sects, never had been considered offensive. He added:

"If they are inimicable to our fundamental law then every president has offended by invoking the deity in his oath of office, by issuing thanksgiving proclamations, in calling on our people to pray for victory in war, or for peace, or for our soldiers' safety.

"If petitioners are right, then the Pilgrims were wrong, as was every president who officially urged our people to train themselves in, and practice, religion."

Associate Judge Stanley H. Fuld said a dissenting opinion that the Court of Appeals was bound by the U. S. Supreme Court's decision in the McCollum case to throw out the released-time program.

In 1948, the nation's highest tribunal decided that religious instruction on public school property was unconstitutional.

Judge Desmond maintained that the McCollum case, instituted by a mother in Champagne, Ill., did not control the New York case.

Creek Waterfront Is Set For Bigger Production

Work along the Rondout waterfront is moving gradually toward bigger production days in the near future, a brief survey revealed today.

Island Dock Inc., has laid keel for the building of its first coal barge for Sargent Barge Line Inc., and yesterday received an order to build another. The yard also reported layout work in progress to start on fulfilling its government contract for 21 barges.

The C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., also reported preliminary work progressing for the production of mine sweepers for the government and the Reliance Marine Transportation & Construction Corp. is working on a new steel tug that will bring its towing fleet to five.

A 600-horse-power Diesel engine is being installed in the tug at the Reliance yard. Work on this started in February and is expected to be completed by Aug. 1, after which the tug will join four others of the company in towing barges on the canal and Great Lakes. The tug will be named the "Phillip Feeney." It is being entirely rebuilt at the local yard. The company operates a fleet of 33 barges.

The Hiltebrant company, along with preparing to start major construction on the mine sweepers is also doing repair work on commercial barges and similar work is in progress at the R. Lenahan yard.

AP Head Holds Truth Vital As Foundation for Peace

Says Understanding of World Problems Is Realized Through Free Press

London, July 12 (AP) — Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, said last night the peoples of the world will better understand each other's problems if their newspapers, free of government control, give them the truth.

Cooper was the principal speaker at a banquet marking the 100th anniversary of Reuters News Agency. Truth, he declared, is a foundation for international peace, and nations get the truth when a free press cooperates to disseminate the news.

Both the AP and Reuters gather and distribute news on a cooperative basis under newspaper control.

Cooper said the AP, which marked its 100th anniversary three years ago, developed "a method by which the people assuredly can get the truth while freedom lasts."

"This method," he said, "is the control of the collection and dissemination of the news by the newspapers themselves, rather than by opportunists or by governments."

"Such widely distributed sponsorship of a news agency by the newspapers means it is supported by a large group of individuals who hold diversified views and suspicions on every proposal under the sun. As the news service is their own responsibility and with each newspaper jealous of its own individual views on matters of public interest, the more quickly will untruth be recognized and measures of correction be taken."

Public Is Benefited

The public, Cooper said, gets the benefit from this method. He added:

"The development is of profound importance, since all peoples can best advance the welfare of their home lands with vigorous

Kingston Woman Held for Shooting Into Athens Auto

Mrs. Bertha Bangs Faces Assault; 8 Children in Car Driven by Mrs. J. Hyer

Mrs. Bertha Bangs, 58, whose address was listed as Jewett, when she was arrested Sunday by Trooper Charles Crommie, of the Windham State Police sub-station on a second degree assault charge, is a resident of Kingston, it was learned today.

Trooper Crommie said Mrs. Bangs was arrested after firing a shot from a Smith & Weston revolver into a car driven by Mrs. James Hyer, wife of Attorney Hyer, of Athens who was driving over a road in Jewett to the Hyers' summer home.

The address on Mrs. Bangs' permit to carry a revolver, the trooper said, is given as "off North Manor avenue, Kingston." She has the summer place at Jewett.

The woman, he said, is free on $5,000 property bond and is awaiting grand jury action on the charge.

Eight Children in Car

Mrs. Hyer told the trooper that she was returning from North Lake where she had picked up eight children, ranging in age from two years and 10 months to 19 years and was driving them to the summer home.

A short distance from the house, she said, she stopped the car because there was a dog in the road. She said she sounded the horn and then a shot was fired into the car from a distance of about 15 feet to the right front of the car.

The bullet, the trooper said, pierced the front of the car, went

Jet Plant Explosion Fatal To at Least Four Workers

Indianapolis, July 12 (AP) — At least six men were killed and another was injured seriously in an explosion and fire today in the huge General Motors Allison plant where jet engines are being made for the Air Force.

Major Harold E. Wilber, Air Force public information officer, said:

"There are six known dead. Possibly two more were killed."

Major Wilber made the announcement after an inspection of the tangled debris.

Robert D. Beckmann, the plant's civilian public information officer, said he believed the death toll would be seven as eight men were known to have been working in the building.

Two mangled bodies were brought out about three hours after the blast.

Maj. Wilber said it may take hours to recover some of the other bodies, buried beneath tons of concrete.

Maj. Wilber attributed the explosion to gas vapor but he could not say what set off the blast.

"There was positively no sabotage," he said.

He added that a leak had been reported in a gas line and its source was being sought shortly before the explosion.

Maj. Wilber said he could give no estimate of the damage.

The outside walls of the small building in which the explosion occurred appeared to be intact, but the interior was wrecked.

The explosion was in a jet engine testing cell for GM's Allison Division.

The division is working on a big contract from the Air Force for engines for thunder jets.

The explosion occurred about 4 a. m., (EST) and was heard for several miles.

The plant is being operated under Air Force control. Plant employes said they were instructed to give out no information about the explosion.

A detachment of military police was sent to the plant, which sprawls over several acres five miles west of Indianapolis near the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Scottsboro Case Negro Faces Rape Charge in Albany

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—A negro, who identified himself as one of the "Scottsboro boys," was held here today on a first-degree rape charge, and Alabama authorities said they would list him as a parole violator.

The man, booked as James Wright, 39, was accused of raping a 13-year-old Negro girl in her home here. He pleaded innocent in police court yesterday, and was jailed pending an examination July 19.

Wright told police he was one of the nine Negroes involved in the notorious rape cases involving two white girls in Alabama two decades ago. He was paroled June 9, 1950, from a 99-year prison sentence. He was the last of the nine to be freed.

Wright and eight others were charged with raping the white girls March 25, 1931, in a freight car near Scottsboro, Ala. Their convictions were carried to the U. S. Supreme Court several times.

Albany police said the 13-year-old girl had told her mother Tuesday night that she had been raped in her home July 3, and that her assailant had threatened to cut her throat if she informed her parents.

The girl and her foster-mother told police they were acquainted with Wright.

As Wright was led from police court, he told detectives:

"Well, I've been through this before."

Other Decisions

The court also:

1. Affirmed, 6-1, the death sentence for Bernard Stein, convicted of slaying a man during a holdup in a New York city bar five years ago.

2. Killed, 4-3 a $20,000 action against the New York Telephone Company by a phone user, who said that he put a receiver to his ear and was knocked unconscious by electric shock.

After handing down the decisions, the court adjourned for its summer recess.

In the opinion on the Crime Commission, Conway wrote:

"We agree with petitioner that there is no statutory authorization for the creation of a 'New York State Crime Commission' as such. That phrase is unknown to any statute in this state.

"Our inquiry does not end there, however, for the governor, after purporting to constitute such a commission and stating the scope of the investigation in his executive order, went further * * * and directed the attorney general * * * 'to inquire into the matters here in above set forth involving the public peace, public safety and public justice' and 'and 'requested' the attorney general to do so by appointing the members of the commission."

Was Dewey's Request

Conway added that the Governor "did not direct" Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein "to appoint the named individuals, but merely requested him to do so."

Alex Di Brizzi of Staten Island, president of Local 920, AFL Longshoremen's Association, had challenged the Commission's right to subpoena him in its investigation of waterfront crime.

He contended the Governor had no authority to create a commission of that type and could not delegate powers of subpoena to it.

Di Brizzi claimed his personal constitutional rights were violated in the Commisison's subpoenaing him.

The state's "released-time" law was challenged by Tessim Zorach and Mrs. Esta Gluck, both of New York city. They claimed "the systematic release of children from compulsory attendance at a public school system, upon condition that they attend religious classes, constitutes aid to religion."

They also argued that the system helped provide pupils for religious classes through use of the state's compulsory educational system.

Never Offensive

In a concurring opinion upholding the system's constitutionality, Associate Judge Charles S. Desmond held that governmental aid to and encouragement of religions generally, as distinguished from establishment or support of sects, never had been considered offensive. He added:

"If they are inimicable to our fundamental law then every president has offended by invoking the deity in his oath of office, by issuing thanksgiving proclamations, in calling on our people to pray for victory in war, or for peace, or for our soldiers' safety.

"If petitioners are right, then the Pilgrims were wrong, as was every president who officially urged our people to train themselves in, and practice, religion."

Associate Judge Stanley H. Fuld said a dissenting opinion that the Court of Appeals was bound by the U. S. Supreme Court's decision in the McCollum case to throw out the released-time program.

In 1948, the nation's highest tribunal decided that religious instruction on public school property was unconstitutional.

Judge Desmond maintained that the McCollum case, instituted by a mother in Champagne, Ill., did not control the New York case.

Creek Waterfront Is Set For Bigger Production

Work along the Rondout waterfront is moving gradually toward bigger production days in the near future, a brief survey revealed today.

Island Dock Inc., has laid keel for the building of its first coal barge for Sargent Barge Line Inc., and yesterday received an order to build another. The yard also reported layout work in progress to start on fulfilling its government contract for 21 barges.

The C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., also reported preliminary work progressing for the production of mine sweepers for the government and the Reliance Marine Transportation & Construction Corp. is working on a new steel tug that will bring its towing fleet to five.

A 600-horse-power Diesel engine is being installed in the tug at the Reliance yard. Work on this started in February and is expected to be completed by Aug. 1, after which the tug will join four others of the company in towing barges on the canal and Great Lakes. The tug will be named the "Phillip Feeney." It is being entirely rebuilt at the local yard. The company operates a fleet of 33 barges.

The Hiltebrant company, along with preparing to start major construction on the mine sweepers is also doing repair work on commercial barges and similar work is in progress at the R. Lenahan yard.

AP Head Holds Truth Vital As Foundation for Peace

Says Understanding of World Problems Is Realized Through Free Press

London, July 12 (AP) — Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, said last night the peoples of the world will better understand each other's problems if their newspapers, free of government control, give them the truth.

Cooper was the principal speaker at a banquet marking the 100th anniversary of Reuters News Agency. Truth, he declared, is a foundation for international peace, and nations get the truth when a free press cooperates to disseminate the news.

Both the AP and Reuters gather and distribute news on a cooperative basis under newspaper control.

Cooper said the AP, which marked its 100th anniversary three years ago, developed "a method by which the people assuredly can get the truth while freedom lasts."

"This method," he said, "is the control of the collection and dissemination of the news by the newspapers themselves, rather than by opportunists or by governments."

"Such widely distributed sponsorship of a news agency by the newspapers means it is supported by a large group of individuals who hold diversified views and suspicions on every proposal under the sun. As the news service is their own responsibility and with each newspaper jealous of its own individual views on matters of public interest, the more quickly will untruth be recognized and measures of correction be taken."

Public Is Benefited

The public, Cooper said, gets the benefit from this method. He added:

"The development is of profound importance, since all peoples can best advance the welfare of their home lands with vigorous

Mrs. Bertha Bangs Faces Assault; 8 Children in Car Driven by Mrs. J. Hyer

Mrs. Bertha Bangs, 58, whose address was listed as Jewett, when she was arrested Sunday by Trooper Charles Crommie, of the Windham State Police sub-station on a second degree assault charge, is a resident of Kingston, it was learned today.

Trooper Crommie said Mrs. Bangs was arrested after firing a shot from a Smith & Weston revolver into a car driven by Mrs. James Hyer, wife of Attorney Hyer, of Athens who was driving over a road in Jewett to the Hyers' summer home.

The address on Mrs. Bangs' permit to carry a revolver, the trooper said, is given as "off North Manor avenue, Kingston." She has the summer place at Jewett.

The woman, he said, is free on $5,000 property bond and is awaiting grand jury action on the charge.

Eight Children in Car

Mrs. Hyer told the trooper that she was returning from North Lake where she had picked up eight children, ranging in age from two years and 10 months to 19 years and was driving them to the summer home.

A short distance from the house, she said, she stopped the car because there was a dog in the road. She said she sounded the horn and then a shot was fired into the car from a distance of about 15 feet to the right front of the car.

The bullet, the trooper said, pierced the front of the car, went

Jet Plant Explosion Fatal To at Least Four Workers

Indianapolis, July 12 (AP) — At least six men were killed and another was injured seriously in an explosion and fire today in the huge General Motors Allison plant where jet engines are being made for the Air Force.

Major Harold E. Wilber, Air Force public information officer, said:

"There are six known dead. Possibly two more were killed."

Major Wilber made the announcement after an inspection of the tangled debris.

Robert D. Beckmann, the plant's civilian public information officer, said he believed the death toll would be seven as eight men were known to have been working in the building.

Two mangled bodies were brought out about three hours after the blast.

Maj. Wilber said it may take hours to recover some of the other bodies, buried beneath tons of concrete.

Maj. Wilber attributed the explosion to gas vapor but he could not say what set off the blast.

"There was positively no sabotage," he said.

He added that a leak had been reported in a gas line and its source was being sought shortly before the explosion.

Maj. Wilber said he could give no estimate of the damage.

The outside walls of the small building in which the explosion occurred appeared to be intact, but the interior was wrecked.

The explosion was in a jet engine testing cell for GM's Allison Division.

The division is working on a big contract from the Air Force for engines for thunder jets.

The explosion occurred about 4 a. m., (EST) and was heard for several miles.

The plant is being operated under Air Force control. Plant employes said they were instructed to give out no information about the explosion.

A detachment of military police was sent to the plant, which sprawls over several acres five miles west of Indianapolis near the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Scottsboro Case Negro Faces Rape Charge in Albany

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—A negro, who identified himself as one of the "Scottsboro boys," was held here today on a first-degree rape charge, and Alabama authorities said they would list him as a parole violator.

The man, booked as James Wright, 39, was accused of raping a 13-year-old Negro girl in her home here. He pleaded innocent in police court yesterday, and was jailed pending an examination July 19.

Wright told police he was one of the nine Negroes involved in the notorious rape cases involving two white girls in Alabama two decades ago. He was paroled June 9, 1950, from a 99-year prison sentence. He was the last of the nine to be freed.

Wright and eight others were charged with raping the white girls March 25, 1931, in a freight car near Scottsboro, Ala. Their convictions were carried to the U. S. Supreme Court several times.

Albany police said the 13-year-old girl had told her mother Tuesday night that she had been raped in her home July 3, and that her assailant had threatened to cut her throat if she informed her parents.

The girl and her foster-mother told police they were acquainted with Wright.

As Wright was led from police court, he told detectives:

"Well, I've been through this before."

Cruiser Runs Aground On Hart's Island

New York, July 12 (AP)—The 20-foot cabin cruiser "Thomas W. 2d", with four men aboard, ran aground on the north end of Hart's Island last night.

Its hull was undamaged by the relatively soft bottom. Its occupants, said by police to have been George M. Gioven and Walter Neave, owners, both of 56 Howard street, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and two guests, chugged ashore in the cruiser's outboard-powered dinghy and went home.

Somebody on Hart's Island saw the vessel aground and telephoned to police. A harbor precinct launch, a police helicopter, and a coast guard patrol guard were sent, but all was pronounced safe. The owners, reached by telephone, said they would get a tow sometime today.

About 2400 physical and mental disorders have been found to be common afflictions of people throughout the world.

Will Burn Buildings In Bombing Test

New York, July 12 (AP)—Civil defense officials will set the torch to abandoned buildings to add realism to a mock bombing Saturday of Rochester.

It will be an all-out effort on the part of New York state civil defense authorities to learn just how to meet the emergency of an atomic attack when and if it should come.

The Rochester test will be the largest yet attempted in New York state.

Previous drills were held at Utica and Niagara Falls, but they were on smaller scales than the test planned Saturday for Rochester.

Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, New York state defense director, who announced the Rochester project yesterday, said it is proof that civil defense in New York state "is well beyond the planning stage—and is actually operating."

In the Rochester test, 10 counties will go into action with their civil defense units — Allegany, Genesee, Livingston, Monroe, Ontario, Orleans, Seneca, Steuben, Wayne and Wyoming.

All except a few types of birds adhere to their original mates for years, or a lifetime.

Says Body Won't Last, Sues Undertaking Firm

Boston, July 12 (AP)—A Boston importer has brought a $20,000 suit against an undertaking firm on the claim he had been promised his son's body would look for 75 years like it did when the boy was alive.

The suit was entered in Suffolk Superior Court yesterday by Domenico S. Previte, head of an olive oil importing firm, whose son, Frank, died at the age of 16 in March, 1948.

Michael and Joseph Pennacchio of Hyde Park, named defendants, have not yet filed an answer.

The petition said that some time after his son's death Previte visited his body—lying in a glass-topped casket in a vault—and "its poor condition was readily visible."

Previte contends he had entered into an agreement to have "the defendant do a special embalming in a modernistic method and he would purchase a bronze casket with a glass inner cover and bronze outer cover; and if the body of his son was placed in the casket the body would remain intact for a period of at least 75 years."

The petition added that the agreement specified the body "would be intact and appear in the same manner which it did when the boy was alive."

Previte said he spent $4,075 for the casket, $3,000 for a cemetery lot and $10,000 for a granite mausoleum.

Has Polka Dot House

Warwick, R. I., July 12 (AP)—Now if anybody asks where Emery H. Jernquist lives they'll be told: "You can't miss it—it's the house with polka dots." Jernquist just finished painting his house a solid black interspersed with five-inch polka dots in turquoise blue, red, orange, yellow, cream and coral. He says he doesn't know what gave him the idea.

Cruiser Runs Aground On Hart's Island

New York, July 12 (AP)—The 20-foot cabin cruiser "Thomas W. 2d", with four men aboard, ran aground on the north end of Hart's Island last night.

Its hull was undamaged by the relatively soft bottom. Its occupants, said by police to have been George M. Gloven and Walter Neave, owners, both of 56 Howard street, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and two guests, chugged ashore in the cruiser's outboard-powered dinghy and went home.

Somebody on Hart's Island saw the vessel aground and telephoned to police. A harbor precinct launch, a police helicopter, and a coast guard patrol guard were sent, but all was pronounced safe. The owners, reached by telephone, said they would get a tow sometime today.

About 2400 physical and mental disorders have been found to be common afflictions of people throughout the world.

THE EXPERT NEIGHBOR

Though less damaging than fire, pestilence and disease, the all-knowing neighbor rates high on the list of things a community can well do without. There is in almost every neighborhood a self-styled expert on every subject from paleontology to pinball machines. Start to make improvements around the house and he will appear out of nowhere with all sorts of dandy advice on how you should do them in the most efficient manner.

This is the neighbor who greets you as you move into a new house and asks you how much you paid for it or what rent you will be paying. If you tell him he will smile knowingly as if to say that some landlord or real estate man has recognized you for the simpleton you must be. If you are too polite to cut him short immediately he will have established a beachhead and you are in for real annoyance.

This is the sort of man who owns nothing that is inferior—just ask him. His three-year-old automobile is better than your new one, his children are brighter than yours, his wife is a better housekeeper and his dog would chew yours up if it came to a fight. He probably even owns a cigarette lighter which never fails to work.

There isn't much that can be done about him. Fortunately there are enough considerate, intelligent people in any neighborhood to over-balance this nuisance. Building a drawbridge and digging a moat around your property wouldn't discourage him. He would swim across and scale the wall to tell you that the wall could have been built better if you had asked his advice.

Learn to live with this sort of person and you will be better for it. Like the thorn that helps you to appreciate the rose, he will make you more aware of the fineness of good neighbors.

VALUE OF I. Q. TESTS

Many educators have said that there is danger in putting too much stress on intelligence tests, such as are often given in the schools. Dr. W. Allison Davis of the University of Chicago recently said that these tests are not always indicative of the child's real learning ability, because they are often couched in language which is familiar to some children but strange to others.

Measuring the intelligence of an individual, child or adult, is always an uncertain business. It is hard to distinguish between intelligence and learning. A person who has taken many examinations will be likely to score higher than one of similar mental capacity who is taking such a test for the first time. The intelligence measurement resulting from these tests is not always an accurate indication of how well a student will do in school. Study habits and the desire to learn may enable students who rate only average in the tests to attain scholastic achievements surpassing those of fellow students with high I.Q. scores.

It is advantageous to measure the intellect as well as it can be done. Knowing what a student is apparently capable of learning makes it easier to prepare practical courses of study. But the factors of desire to learn and cultivated industriousness should not be forgotten. They can overcome severe handicaps.

Dog food purchases in the United States for one year total nearly $100,000,000, figures show. This is one expense, we are certain, which hurts not at all. The return in comradeship, protection and unwavering respect is priceless.

LEGISLATIVE VIEWPOINT

Legislators, said an authority, "seem sometimes to fancy that they are the people themselves, and betray strong symptoms of impatience and disgust at the least sign of opposition from any other quarter; as if the exercise of its rights by either the executive or judiciary were a breach of their privilege and an outrage to their dignity."

If you missed this statement in the recent reports from Washington, it is not surprising. This remark was not made on a recent day but is to be found in the "Federalist," that collection of papers written to urge the adoption of the federal Constitution. It was written by Alexander Hamilton, but might not need to be changed today.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE ROLE OF TOM DEWEY

Thomas E. Dewey, three times governor of the state of New York and twice defeated as the Republican candidate for President, travels the world as the "titular head of the Republican Party." This is neither a formal nor a realistic title. It has no meaning whatsoever.

Actually, Dewey is taking this trip for "Collier's" magazine as a reporter. Many public men are these days eking out their public existence as journalists, lecturers and such.

As a reporter, Dewey surely will achieve more than as a titular leader. If he tried to influence the votes of the Republican members of the United States Senate, it is doubtful whether more than five or six members would respond to his blandishments. If he attempted, as he has done in the past, to influence the election of the chairman of the Republican National Committee, he would fail.

This does not mean that Thomas E. Dewey is not a good governor; he is one of the most efficient. Nor is this a reflection on his character; his is an honest, straightforward personality. It is rather a cold, realistic appraisal of his position in his own party.

Perhaps it is for this reason that he has been picked up by the Truman administration as a substitute for the late Senator Vandenberg. Mr. Truman had hoped that John Foster Dulles might emerge as a catalyst between the Republicans and the State Department. This effort failed for two reasons: 1. Mr. Dulles has presently no realistic status in the Republican Party; 2. No official of the State Department, under Dean Acheson, would be followed by most Republicans.

Then Harold Stassen emerged as an elder statesman, advising all and sundry on major questions in the internatiocnal field. I cannot explain why Stassen petered out as a party leader. In the 1948 convention he was the most popular personality and the failure to nominate him resulted in such disappointments that it may have contributed to Dewey's defeat

Yet, in the year 1951, Stassen's influence is almost nil. He is regarded, at most, as a prospective cabinet officer should General Eisenhower be nominated and elected as a Republican.

The answer to this puzzle may be that Stassen, as president of the University of Pennsylvania, lacks the political platform from which to make his pronouncements. Also, when he was the young man out of Minnesota, he was a great middle western figure; in Pennsylvania he is lost in the multitude of east coast internationalists.

So now Mr. Truman has turned to Tom Dewey, in the hope that his great prestige can serve the administration.

No man was ever more disappointed by a defeat than Tom Dewey. He had expected to be elected. He undoubtedly felt, what may have been true, that the Republicans let him down, because so many of them stayed away from the polls. Whether this makes sense or not, the second defeat hurt.

His immediate reaction was that he was through with politics and would retire from public office. Restless, ambitious, he found such a decision irksome and, changing his mind, he got himself into the unfortunate Hanley scandal, which is not yet politically dead in New York state.

He had promised to support the candidacy for governor of New York of Lieutenant Governor Joseph R. Hanley; when he changed his mind, he got Hanley to withdraw, making certain promises which Hanley put into a letter to W. Kingsland Macy. That letter was published and created a cleavage in the party. Dewey was, however, re-elected, because apart from all this, he is a remarkably good governor .

Nevertheless, the job in Albany is now a bore. It had always, for Dewey, been a stepping stone to the presidency. In this ambition, Dewey has failed, and he is now a lieutenant of General Eisenhower, whose candidacy he has publicly endorsed. Should Eisenhower not be nominated, Dewey's future in his own party is of little prospect. Should Eisenhower be elected as a Republican, Dewey could be secretary of state; should Eisenhower be nominated and elected as a Democrat, then Dewey's endorsement would be meaningless.

Therefore, the logic of the situation is for Tom Dewey to use this year to establish himself as nonpartisan, which is euphemistically called "bipartisan." By this means, he may remain a factor in national affairs, with the approval of Truman.

Should Senator Benton of Connecticut be made secretary of state, as now seems likely, Tom Dewey could play an increasingly important role while remaining governor of New York.

INSENSITIVITY TO PAIN

Several years ago the captain of a university football team, who was also an intercollegiate heavyweight boxer, reported to me with an arm injury. I found the arm broken and suggested that we adjourn to the hospital and have the arm set under X-ray with anesthetic, so as to get a good result. The player asked me to go ahead and set the arm as he never felt any pain when he was hurt. I told him that it was great to be a hero but we'd get a perfect result at the hospital which I couldn't guarantee without the X-ray and anesthetic. I set the arm and he insisted that he felt no pain. I thought of course that the numbness which often follows injury had prevented him feeling any pain.

It is possible for some individuals to undergo injury and not feel any pain. In the American Medical Association's Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry, Dr. G. A. McMurray reports a 22-year-old patient who showed from birth a pronounced insensitivity to pain. Her past history showed no consistent response to pain. Examination showed no evidence of any distress of the nerves which would prevent her feeling pain. Psychological tests showed a superior intelligence thus refuting the argument of "where there is no sense there is no feeling."

Experimental studies showed a complete absence of physiological response to all stimuli used, such as recording blood pressure, heart rate, breathing rate, very cold water, very hot water, electric shock and other methods of causing pain.

Not only was the patient asked if she felt pain but she was also watched closely as to her behavior under these painful methods. As a check, all these methods of causing pain and pressure were used with a group of control persons. At no time during the experiment using these various methods did the insensitive person report a feeling or sensation of pain. She was always calm and collected under the most severe tests.

On the other hand, where there were changes in blood pressure, heart rate and breathing rate, but no pain present, the insensitive person and the control persons reacted alike.

There must be others who are insensitive to pain, so I am recording this case for my readers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The White House was considering a plan to send Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas to Iran as special mediator, when two published items suddenly knocked these plans into a cocked hat. One item was in Winchell's column, the other an article in Life Magazine.

The Winchell item read: "Personal memo to Tito of Yugoslavia, Nehru of India and other chiefs of foreign nations: When a 'Bill Douglas' (of Oregon and Washington, D. C.) calls on you soon—all courtesies extended will be appreciated by this column. Mr. Douglas will file copy exclusively to us. . . . It will be relayed to all INS clients under the byline: 'By Bill Douglas, special correspondent of the Daily Winchell.'"

This did not go down well at the White House. Nobody really believed that the Supreme Court Justice was going to send newspaper dispatches back from India and Yugoslavia where Douglas is now traveling, through Walter Winchell. Nevertheless, Winchell is not popular around the White House, and even a remote association between him and Douglas didn't help.

On top of this, the State Department learned that the Shah of Iran was blazing mad over a recent article in Life Magazine in which Justice Douglas portrayed Iran as a land of crooks and grafters. Though many agree with Douglas, the shah apparently doesn't. For last week an urgent cable sent to the State Department warned Douglas to stay out of Iran if he valued his life.

Obviously he was not the man to mediate in Iran.

King Farouk's Honeymoon

Bulbous King Farouk of Egypt got sore and cut short his honeymoon in Sicily the other day—for a most interesting reason.

He was gallivanting around with another woman — not his bride—and Italian photographers tried to take his picture.

Teh King's strange behavior on his honeymoon shocked even his most loyal followers. And when the Italian papers got wind of it, Farouk gave up his 24-room villa, boarded his yacht and sailed away.

The Egyptian press hinted at the escapades, and as a result the king ordered three of Cairo's biggest newspapers temporarily suppressed. Egyptian censors refused to allow any foreign reporters to cable word of this out of the country.

Iran and North Atlantic Pact—Field Marshal Montgomery has informed General Eisenhower that Britain will invoke the Atlantic Pact in case of fighting in Iran. The idea startled Eisenhower who looks on the Atlantic Pact as an instrument for warding off Russian invasion of western Europe, not a device for saving British oil in the Middle East. If Britain follows through on this, the rest of the Atlantic Pact nations will probably renege.

Acheson Humor—As the MacArthur hearings drew to a close, a friend asked Secretary of State Dean Acheson how he felt. Smiling broadley, the patrician secretary replied: "I'm like the story of the drunk who was thrown out of the bar by a tough bouncer. Soviet Arms to Italy—The Italian government has uncovered a gigantic Russian plot to send arms by the shipload to Communist in northern Italy. The navy has quietly built up a force of more than 5,000 marines in the Mediterranean, attached to the Sixth Fleet. They're ready to protect American interests in case of trouble in Iran . . . The Israeli government has offered to reopen its big oil refinery at Haifa to help the west when Iran's oil refineries shut down. Defense Mobilizer Wilson Frankly Confesses Price Controls Can Do Much Damage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 12—The great controversy over whether the power to impose economic controls is to be retained by the emergency agencies revolves almost wholly arqund the need of price and wage regulation to arrest inflation. This is also the main argument for higher and higher taxes. But it now develops that controls can backfire and do such serious damage to the defense program as to make it questionable where the advantages of restrictive action really lie.

Thus, the defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson—who is doing an earnest and impartial job in trying to stabilize the economy—frankly confesses that price controls can sometimes do considerable damage. Accordingly, he has ordered the relaxation of price controls on machine tools and the modification of other emergency restrictions so as to get more metalworking tools produced sooner for the defense program.

To several government agencies now has gone a directive from Mr. Wilson aimed at dissolving the bottleneck in machine tools which is said to be holding up the rearmament program in key industries, especially in the manufacture of jet aircraft.

First of all, the directive permits higher prices for machine-tool makers as well as providing help in manpower, materials and the financing of contracts.

Second, Mr. Wilson declares that adjustment of price ceilings is necessary so as to encourage increased production and to grant the industry "more equitable treatment." He states that the "cost of the delay in waiting for machine tools will far exceed the cost of the tools."

Third, the machine-tool industry, which is now operating at the rate of $675,000,000 a year, will have to be stepped up to make $2,900,000,000 of metal-working tools by July 1 of next year.

These considerations are serious enough to make exceptions in the government's price-control program, but the significant fact is that the government agencies are face to face with a reality—the need for encouragement of production.

Most of the officials hereabouts have been so busy placating labor-union demands for limitations on corporate income, restrictions on amortization of plant facilities, and price controls that they have allowed the defense program to lag behind.

This is not the only reason, of course, for past delays in the armament program, because there are others—such as failure of the government to get going soon enough, as is evidenced by the revelations before a congressional committee that the famous B-36's have not been produced in the quantities needed by the U. S. Air Force.

It is more important now to prevent future delays. The surest way to delay further the armament program is for Congress to listen to the "left wing" propaganda that all is lost unless unlimited power is given to impose controls on prices. Even in the matter of the rollback of cattle prices, the issue has been exaggerated. In due time there will be a scarcity of beef because it will be found that the price-control program has discouraged production. The argument that the housewife is being discriminated against and that members of Congress who are questioning the drastic control methods are voting against the interest of the consumer is one that will not be uttered so loudly a year from now if the production of beef to take care of expanding demand is found to be much less than anticipated. The rule works there as it does on machine tools—production must be encouraged.

To manage the economic system of the United States in such a way as to curb runaway inflation and at the same time not to discourage production requires a nonpolitical, dispassionate approach. Situations in different businesses and industries will vary. Hence a flexible power is more important than a rigid system. There would have been a grant of flexible power if many members of Congress and their constituents had not lost confidence in the handling of the control program. The dramatic defection by organized labor and the consequent approval of the escalator clauses in wage contracts, as demanded by the unions, led other groups to feel they, too, could exert pressure.

What is needed more than ever is a better understanding of incentives to production, and when the price-control officials take due account of the need for preserving incentive—and when the Congress also takes this into consideration in the making of tax rates—there will be a better chance to restrain all groups and curb such inflationary trends as present a real danger.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, July 11—A free press which wails over the cost of white paper and smears hundreds of thousands of tons of it with trash, gave very little space to Harry F. Byrd's implied threat in the name of the southern Democrats to secede from the northern pre-Communist Democratic party.

If Byrd's words were not intended as a threat to take a walk, as Al Smith put it in an earlier rebellion which Byrd did not join, he will have to be written off as a grandiloquent fourflusher. Politicians seldom commit themselves with binding declarations, but how else can Byrd ask those who give him their trust to interpret his warning that if Harry Truman is re-elected he will come to Congress claiming that he has a mandate from the people to enact the Civil Rights program? Byrd had already analyzed that program as a violation of the Constitution and in particular of the rights of the southern people and their states. Would he compromise with that? Can a man of Byrd's prtensions to conscience, patriotism and integrity find any excuse, even to himself, for quitting the fight after that dramatic damnation of the new scourge of carpet-baggers? What would he leave himself to live for?

To be able to oppose or endorse Byrd's statements one must know what he said. The occasion was a typical dress-up weenie-roast of the professional Democrats of the state of Georgia holden for the purpose of raising money. Governor Herman Talmadge was, in a manner of speaking, the host, a man who, like Congressman John Rankin, of Mississippi, has been hacked with countless nasty aggravations by the northern cult of Hiss, Frankfurter, the New York Herald Tribune and the Washington Post. The rebel yell was obligato all the way and, a few days later, on the fourth, more stars and bars than stars and stripes rippled by the roadsides in Virginia. Byrd made only one reference to the tragedy, and that one more proud than bitter. But his text and the situation which he attacked irresistibly raised the simile of the patriotic south again trampled and put to the torch by predatory rascals from afar.

The package-goods house which purveys my pear-shaped thoughts does a large trade in comics, but I have the gall nevertheless to say that the dailies across the south were remiss in failing to get the whole of Byrd's speech and to print most of it even if they had to drop out a half page of this traffic for one day and the Hollywood and Broadway columns, too. True, it may be that newspapers have a mission to entertain but they have a prior duty to inform, which, in this case, they defaulted badly.

Brainard Cooper, the editor of the Chattanooga News-Free Press, wrote in his editorial that "in our opinion" the speech was "inadequately reported by the press services." In its lead paragraph of a sketchy little story, the A.P. said Byrd had said the southern Democrats could "force repeal of the Civil Rights plank and force restoration of a States' Rights plank in the Democratic platform."

Mr. Cooper points out that Byrd said no such thing but only outlined "an excellent plan of action up to the Democratic convention of 1952." That plan is to demand restoration of the two-thirds rule, which would prevent the renomination of Truman, reaffirmation of states' rights and abandonment of unconstitutional Socialistic measures.

"But," his editorial said, "When the delegates from the south make the demands suggested by Senator Byrd and are voted down with derision and insult by the radical Democrats from other sections, as similar demands were treated by the convention in 1948—what then, Senator Bryd?"

John Temple Graves, who does a southern editorial "column" that is syndicated in representative papers below the line, ventured to doubt Byrd's courage.

"Ten million amens," Graves wrote, "but he left out half of the speech which we, his disciples, expect of him some day. What will he do when the south comes to the convention asking for the two-thirds rule and is laughed down as he knows it will be? What will he do when the south

THE EXPERT NEIGHBOR

Though less damaging than fire, pestilence and disease, the all-knowing neighbor rates high on the list of things a community can well do without. There is in almost every neighborhood a self-styled expert on every subject from paleontology to pinball machines. Start to make improvements around the house and he will appear out of nowhere with all sorts of dandy advice on how you should do them in the most efficient manner.

This is the neighbor who greets you as you move into a new house and asks you how much you paid for it or what rent you will be paying. If you tell him he will smile knowingly as if to say that some landlord or real estate man has recognized you for the simpleton you must be. If you are too polite to cut him short immediately he will have established a beachhead and you are in for real annoyance.

This is the sort of man who owns nothing that is inferior—just ask him. His three-year-old automobile is better than your new one, his children are brighter than yours, his wife is a better housekeeper and his dog would chew yours up if it came to a fight. He probably even owns a cigarette lighter which never fails to work.

There isn't much that can be done about him. Fortunately there are enough considerate, intelligent people in any neighborhood to over-balance this nuisance. Building a drawbridge and digging a moat around your property wouldn't discourage him. He would swim across and scale the wall to tell you that the wall could have been built better if you had asked his advice.

Learn to live with this sort of person and you will be better for it. Like the thorn that helps you to appreciate the rose, he will make you more aware of the fineness of good neighbors.

VALUE OF I. Q. TESTS

Many educators have said that there is danger in putting too much stress on intelligence tests, such as are often given in the schools. Dr. W. Allison Davis of the University of Chicago recently said that these tests are not always indicative of the child's real learning ability, because they are often couched in language which is familiar to some children but strange to others.

Measuring the intelligence of an individual, child or adult, is always an uncertain business. It is hard to distinguish between intelligence and learning. A person who has taken many examinations will be likely to score higher than one of similar mental capacity who is taking such a test for the first time. The intelligence measurement resulting from these tests is not always an accurate indication of how well a student will do in school. Study habits and the desire to learn may enable students who rate only average in the tests to attain scholastic achievements surpassing those of fellow students with high I.Q. scores.

It is advantageous to measure the intellect as well as it can be done. Knowing what a student is apparently capable of learning makes it easier to prepare practical courses of study. But the factors of desire to learn and cultivated industriousness should not be forgotten. They can overcome severe handicaps.

Dog food purchases in the United States for one year total nearly $100,000,000, figures show. This is one expense, we are certain, which hurts not at all. The return in comradeship, protection and unwavering respect is priceless.

LEGISLATIVE VIEWPOINT

Legislators, said an authority, "seem sometimes to fancy that they are the people themselves, and betray strong symptoms of impatience and disgust at the least sign of opposition from any other quarter; as if the exercise of its rights by either the executive or judiciary were a breach of their privilege and an outrage to their dignity."

If you missed this statement in the recent reports from Washington, it is not surprising. This remark was not made on a recent day but is to be found in the "Federalist," that collection of papers written to urge the adoption of the federal Constitution. It was written by Alexander Hamilton, but might not need to be changed today.

'These Days'

THE ROLE OF TOM DEWEY

Thomas E. Dewey, three times governor of the state of New York and twice defeated as the Republican candidate for President, travels the world as the "titular head of the Republican Party." This is neither a formal nor a realistic title. It has no meaning whatsoever.

Actually, Dewey is taking this trip for "Collier's" magazine as a reporter. Many public men are these days eking out their public existence as journalists, lecturers and such.

As a reporter, Dewey surely will achieve more than as a titular leader. If he tried to influence the votes of the Republican members of the United States Senate, it is doubtful whether more than five or six members would respond to his blandishments. If he attempted, as he has done in the past, to influence the election of the chairman of the Republican National Committee, he would fail.

This does not mean that Thomas E. Dewey is not a good governor; he is one of the most efficient. Nor is this a reflection on his character; his is an honest, straightforward personality. It is rather a cold, realistic appraisal of his position in his own party.

Perhaps it is for this reason that he has been picked up by the Truman administration as a substitute for the late Senator Vandenberg. Mr. Truman had hoped that John Foster Dulles might emerge as a catalyst between the Republicans and the State Department. This effort failed for two reasons: 1. Mr. Dulles has presently no realistic status in the Republican Party; 2. No official of the State Department, under Dean Acheson, would be followed by most Republicans.

Then Harold Stassen emerged as an elder statesman, advising all and sundry on major questions in the internaticnal field. I cannot explain why Stassen petered out as a party leader. In the 1948 convention he was the most popular personality and the failure to nominate him resulted in such disappointments that it may have contributed to Dewey's defeat

Yet, in the year 1951, Stassen's influence is almost nil. He is regarded, at most, as a prospective cabinet officer should General Eisenhower be nominated and elected as a Republican.

The answer to this puzzle may be that Stassen, as president of the University of Pennsylvania, lacks the political platform from which to make his pronouncements. Also, when he was the young man out of Minnesota, he was a great middle western figure; in Pennsylvania he is lost in the multitude of east coast internationalists.

So now Mr. Truman has turned to Tom Dewey, in the hope that his great prestige can serve the administration.

No man was ever more disappointed by a defeat than Tom Dewey. He had expected to be elected. He undoubtedly felt, what may have been true, that the Republicans let him down, because so many of them stayed away from the polls. Whether this makes sense or not, the second defeat hurt.

His immediate reaction was that he was through with politics and would retire from public office. Restless, ambitious, he found such a decision irksome and, changing his mind, he got himself into the unfortunate Hanley scandal, which is not yet politically dead in New York state.

He had promised to support the candidacy for governor of New York of Lieutenant Governor Joseph R. Hanley; when he changed his mind, he got Hanley to withdraw, making certain promises which Hanley put into a letter to W. Kingsland Macy. That letter was published and created a cleavage in the party. Dewey was, however, re-elected, because apart from all this, he is a remarkably good governor .

Nevertheless, the job in Albany is now a bore. It had always, for Dewey, been a stepping stone to the presidency. In this ambition, Dewey has failed, and he is now a lieutenant of General Eisenhower, whose candidacy he has publicly endorsed. Should Eisenhower not be nominated, Dewey's future in his own party is of little prospect. Should Eisenhower be elected as a Republican, Dewey could be secretary of state; should Eisenhower be nominated and elected as a Democrat, then Dewey's endorsement would be meaningless.

Therefore, the logic of the situation is for Tom Dewey to use this year to establish himself as nonpartisan, which is euphemistically called "bipartisan." By this means, he may remain a factor in national affairs, with the approval of Truman.

Should Senator Benton of Connecticut be made secretary of state, as now seems likely, Tom Dewey could play an increasingly important role while remaining governor of New York.

INSENSITIVITY TO PAIN

Several years ago the captain of a university football team, who was also an intercollegiate heavyweight boxer, reported to me with an arm injury. There must be others who are insensitive to pain, so I am recording this case for my readers.

Iran and North Atlantic Pact—Field Marshal Montgomery has informed General Eisenhower that Britain will invoke the Atlantic Pact in case of fighting in Iran. The idea startled Eisenhower who looks on the Atlantic Pact as an instrument for warding off Russian invasion of western Europe, not a device for saving British oil in the Middle East. If Britain follows through on this, the rest of the Atlantic Pact nations will probably renege.

Acheson Humor—As the MacArthur hearings drew to a close, a friend asked Secretary of State Dean Acheson how he felt. Smiling broadley, the patrician secretary replied: "I'm like the story of the drunk who was thrown out of the bar by a tough bouncer. When he came to, out on the sidewalk, he doubled his fist, shook it at the door, and shouted, 'I can lick any 10 of you guys.'"

Soviet Arms to Italy — The Italian government has uncovered a gigantic Russian plot to send arms by the shipload to Communist in northern Italy. Defense Mobilizer Wilson Frankly Confesses Price Controls Can Do Much Damage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 12—The great controversy over whether the power to impose economic controls is to be retained by the emergency agencies revolves almost wholly around the need of price and wage regulation to arrest inflation. This is also the main argument for higher and higher taxes. But it now develops that controls can backfire and do such serious damage to the defense program as to make it questionable where the advantages of restrictive action really lie.

Thus, the defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson—who is doing an earnest and impartial job in trying to stabilize the economy—frankly confesses that price controls can sometimes do considerable damage. Accordingly, he has ordered the relaxation of price controls on machine tools and the modification of other emergency restrictions so as to get more metalworking tools produced sooner for the defense program.

To several government agencies now has gone a directive from Mr. Wilson aimed at dissolving the bottleneck in machine tools which is said to be holding up the rearmament program in key industries, especially in the manufacture of jet aircraft.

First of all, the directive permits higher prices for machine-tool makers as well as providing help in manpower, materials and the financing of contracts.

Second, Mr. Wilson declares that adjustment of price ceilings is necessary so as to encourage increased production and to grant the industry "more equitable treatment." He states that the "cost of the delay in waiting for machine tools will far exceed the cost of the tools."

Third, the machine-tool industry, which is now operating at the rate of $675,000,000 a year, will have to be stepped up to make $2,900,000,000 of metal-working tools by July 1 of next year.

These considerations are serious enough to make exceptions in the government's price-control program, but the significant fact is that the government agencies are face to face with a reality—the need for encouragement of production.

Most of the officials hereabouts have been so busy placating labor-union demands for limitations on corporate income, restrictions on amortization of plant facilities, and price controls that they have allowed the defense program to lag behind.

This is not the only reason, of course, for past delays in the armament program, because there are others—such as failure of the government to get going soon enough, as is evidenced by the revelations before a congressional committee that the famous B-36's have not been produced in the quantities needed by the U. S. Air Force.

It is more important now to prevent future delays. The surest way to delay further the armament program is for Congress to listen to the "left wing" propaganda that all is lost unless unlimited power is given to impose controls on prices. Even in the matter of the rollback of cattle prices, the issue has been exaggerated. In due time there will be a scarcity of beef because it will be found that the price-control program has discouraged production. The argument that the housewife is being discriminated against and that members of Congress who are questioning the drastic control methods are voting against the interest of the consumer is one that will not be uttered so loudly a year from now if the production of beef to take care of expanding demand is found to be much less than anticipated. The rule works there as it does on machine tools—production must be encouraged.

To manage the economic system of the United States in such a way as to curb runaway inflation and at the same time not to discourage production requires a nonpolitical, dispassionate approach. Situations in different businesses and industries will vary. Hence a flexible power is more important than a rigid system. There would have been a grant of flexible power if many members of Congress and their constituents had not lost confidence in the handling of the control program. The dramatic defection by organized labor and the consequent approval of the escalator clauses in wage contracts, as demanded by the unions, led other groups to feel they, too, could exert pressure.

What is needed more than ever is a better understanding of incentives to production, and when the price-control officials take due account of the need for preserving incentive—and when the Congress also takes this into consideration in the making of tax rates—there will be a better chance to restrain all groups and curb such inflationary trends as present a real danger.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, July 11—A free press which wails over the cost of white paper and smears hundreds of thousands of tons of it with trash, gave very little space to Harry F. Byrd's implied threat in the name of the southern Democrats to secede from the northern pre-Communist Democratic party.

If Byrd's words were not intended as a threat to take a walk, as Al Smith put it in an earlier rebellion which Byrd did not join, he will have to be written off as a grandiloquent fourflusher. Politicians seldom commit themselves with binding declarations, but how else can Byrd ask those who give him their trust to interpret his warning that if Harry Truman is re-elected he will come to Congress claiming that he has a mandate from the people to enact the Civil Rights program? Byrd had already analyzed that program as a violation of the Constitution and in particular of the rights of the southern people and their states. Would he compromise with that? Can a man of Byrd's prtensions to conscience, patriotism and integrity find any excuse, even to himself, for quitting the fight after that dramatic damnation of the new scourge of carpet-baggers? What would he leave himself to live for?

To be able to oppose or endorse Byrd's statements one must know what he said. The occasion was a typical dress-up weenie-roast of the professional Democrats of the state of Georgia holden for the purpose of raising money. Governor Herman Talmadge was, in a manner of speaking, the host, a man who, like Congressman John Rankin, of Mississippi, has been hacked with countless nasty aggravations by the northern cult of Hiss, Frankfurter, the New York Herald Tribune and the Washington Post. The rebel yell was obligato all the way and, a few days later, on the fourth, more stars and bars than stars and stripes rippled by the roadsides in Virginia. Byrd made only one reference to the tragedy, and that one more proud than bitter. But his text and the situation which he attacked irrestistibly raised the simile of the patriotic south again trampled and put to the torch by predatory rascals from afar.

The package-goods house which purveys my pear-shaped thoughts does a large trade in comics, but I have the gall nevertheless to say that the dailies across the south were remiss in failing to get the whole of Byrd's speech and to print most of it even if they had to drop out a half page of this traffic for one day and the Hollywood and Broadway columns, too. True, it may be that newspapers have a mission to entertain but they have a prior duty to inform, which, in this case, they defaulted badly.

Brainard Cooper, the editor of the Chattanooga News-Free Press, wrote in his editorial that "in our opinion" the speech was "inadequately reported by the press services." In its lead paragraph of a sketchy little story, the A.P. said Byrd had said the southern Democrats could "force repeal of the Civil Rights plank and force restoration of a States' Rights plank in the Democratic platform."

Mr. Cooper points out that Byrd said no such thing but only outlined "an excellent plan of action up to the Democratic convention of 1952." That plan is to demand restoration of the two-thirds rule, which would prevent the renomination of Truman, reaffirmation of states' rights and abandonment of unconstitutional Socialistic measures.

"But," his editorial said, "When the delegates from the south make the demands suggested by Senator Byrd and are voted down with derision and insult by the radical Democrats from other sections, as similar demands were treated by the convention in 1948—what then, Senator Bryd?"

John Temple Graves, who does a southern editorial "column" that is syndicated in representative papers below the line, ventured to doubt Byrd's courage.

"Ten million amens," Graves wrote, "but he left out half of the speech which we, his disciples, expect of him some day. What will he do when the south comes to the convention asking for the two-thirds rule and is laughed down as he knows it will be? What will he do when the south

Q—What is meant by the magnitude of a star?

A—This is a measure of its brightness; the brighter the star the lower is the magnitude. A star of first magnitude is about 2½ times as bright as one of the second; and is exactly 100 times brighter than one of the sixth magnitude, which is the faintest that one can normally see with the naked eye under best conditions.

Nations Are Ready For Jap Peace Without Moscow

Washington, July 12 (AP) — The United States and Britain as co-sponsors formally unveiled today a "peace of reconciliation" with Japan they expect to be signed by some 50 nations.

Ambassador John Foster Dulles, in charge of negotiations for the U. S., said it was still hoped Soviet Russia would join in the settlement. But he gave notice the other nations otherwise will make peace without Moscow.

Treaty 'Unique'

The treaty, which Dulles termed "unique" in history, is due to be signed at San Francisco the week of Sept. 3. It strips Japan of its pre-World War Two overseas holdings, but permits the Japanese to rearm and in other major respects restores the former defeated empire to the status of a sovereign equal in the free world.

The signing is to be followed by a U. S.-Japanese pact permitting the U. S. to retain troops and military bases in and near Japan, pending the future creation of a system of collective security for the Pacific. A three-way security pact among the U. S., Australia, and New Zealand and a separate commercial treaty between this country and Japan are parts of the general settlement.

The revised draft is the product of more than a year's negotiation with the other principal Pacific allies in which Dulles took the lead as the U. S. representative. He predicted it will be "generally acceptable to the 50-odd nations at war with Japan."

"No one will be 100 per cent satisfied but almost everyone should be about 95 per cent satisfied," he said in a statement.

No General Conference

Dulles listed as unique the direct negotiations by which the terms were worked out without a general peace conference, the restoration of a free Japan without any attempt to impose permanent restrictions, and the principle of collective security under the United Nations. By this arrangement, he said, "there will be a combination of U. S. and future Japanese forces, and perhaps others, so that it would be materially impossible for Japan to wage a war of revenge."

Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, termed the widespread agreement on terms "striking evidence of unity" among the U. S., Britain and France.

Senate Approves Civil Service Raises

Washington, July 12 (AP) — President Truman today asked Congress for a seven per cent pay increase for government workers, and a Senate committee approved increases the members said would average 8.4 per cent.

The action by the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee came less than three hours after Mr. Truman's request, but was not directly responsive to it.

The committee has been studying the question of a pay raise for government workers for months.

About 2,000,000 government workers would be affected—500,000 in the postal service and 1,500,000 classified civil service workers.

The President proposed a seven per cent "across the board" increase—meaning the same percentage increase for all workers irrespective of their present pay.

The Senate committee plan, however, would not give all workers the same percentage increases.

Members of the group told reporters their plan would cost about $500,000,000 a year.

Would Keep Advantage

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The National Coal Association today urged the Senate Finance Committee to retain the tax advantage for coal included in the House-approved $7,200,000,000 tax increase bill. James W. Haley of Washington, representing the association, said coal is "easily the most important natural resource in the country." But, he added, it has been victimized by "a gross and aggravated inequity running against coal and in favor of coal's competitors."

But on this farm, near New Holland, Pa., four mules provide the "horsepower." In most parts of the country, mules and horses are rapidly disappearing from the farm scene, but Amish farmers still cling to traditional draught animals. This farmer added a wagon hitch, seat and handbrake and substituted steel wheels for rubber tires to convert the baler into a mule-drawn machine.

15 Reds Get Bail

New York, July 12 (AP)—Bail of 15 Communists, cancelled yesterday by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan, was reinstated today by Judge Learned Hand of the United States Court of Appeals.

The reinstated bail was posted by the bail fund of the Civil Rights Congress of New York. Ryan had ordered it revoked after describing the fund's trustee as "unworthy of trust."

Ryan had sentenced three of the trustees to jail for contempt of court when they refused to reveal records showing who contributed to the bail fund.

Judge Hand also set bail of $10,000 each, pending appeal, for Dashiell Hammett, mystery story writer, and Dr. W. Alphaeus Hunton, secretary of the Council of African Affairs, both trustees of the bail fund.

Ryan had sentenced them to six months for contempt.

Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a third trustee and secretary of the fund, sentenced to 90 days by Ryan, earlier had obtained $10,000 bail from his wife.

Ryan had specified that the Civil Rights Congress and Field personally would be ineligible to post bail in any case in his court.

Conference on Child Health Here Tuesday

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at 25 E. O'Reilly street, Tuesday, July 17, from 2 to 4 p. m.

These clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

The Turnpike Authority announced today it awarded a contract to Cities Service Oil Co., of New York to operate all service stations on the superhighway from the George Washington Bridge to Deepwater on the Delaware river.

Bread Runs Normal

New York, July 12 (AP)—Bread deliveries returned to normal today as drivers resumed their routes after a 10-day strike that left grocery bread counters virtually empty. The drivers, members of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, agreed to a settlement Tuesday night, but renewed deliveries were delayed until bakeries could get production going again. The drivers won work week reduction from six to five days, with no change in pay.

Fixer Pleads Guilty

General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit set Oct. 4 for sentencing. Sollazzo is liable to a maximum term of five to 10 years in prison on each of the 27 counts of bribery, and one year on the conspiracy count.

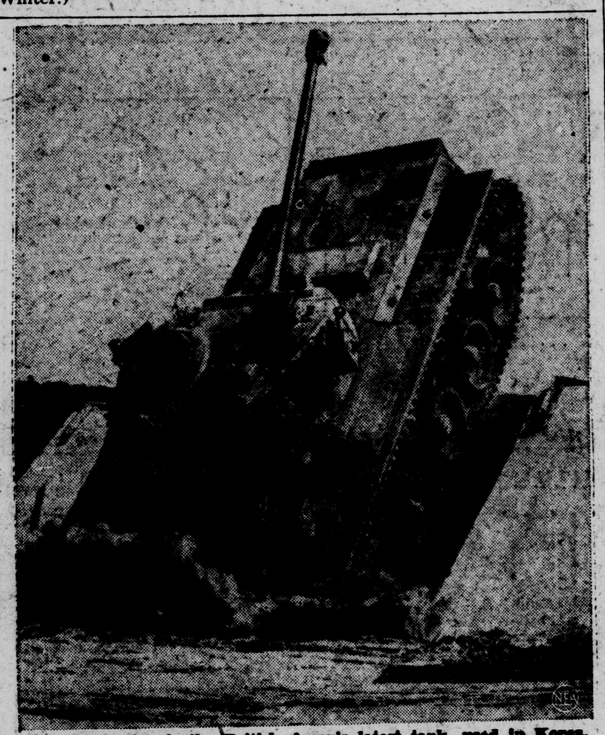
"Can" Plane Engines

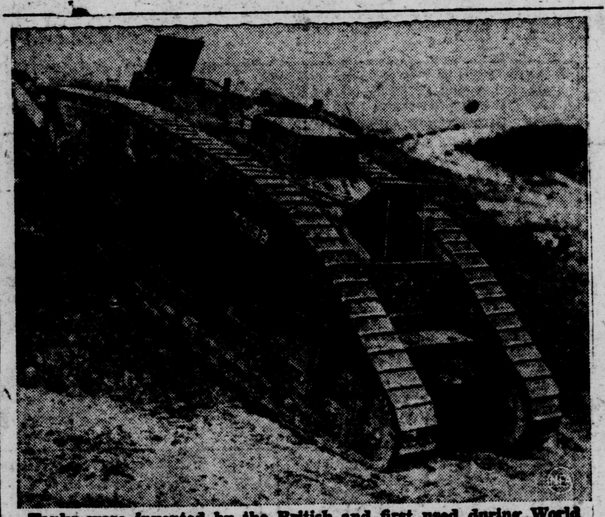
San Antonio, Tex. (AP)—"Kelly Katies" are helping build Air Force engines here. They are women employes of Kelly Air Force base. Women who a few months ago were baffled by vacuum cleaners are now installing engine valves, rewiring, ignition systems and operating lathes — after intensive training, of course. And they're "canning" engines. After final inspection, the engines, ranging from little ones for trainers to the huge power plants for the B-36, are "canned" for shipment or storage.

Hope in Iran

U. S. Ambassador to Iran Henry Grady (left) hands President Truman's letter to Iran's bed-ridden Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in Tehran. Mossadegh reportedly turned down the President's appeal for "careful consideration" of the World Court decision in the Iranian oil dispute, but he accepted the offer to send W. Averell Harriman to Iran to discuss the problem. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff photographer Max Winter.)



The Centurion is the British Army's latest tank, used in Korea, with firepower vastly greater than its predecessors. Here the 49-ton monster, nose pointed skyward and treads churning the ground, is going over a high tank obstacle at the Bovington school. Maximum speed is 21 miles an hour.



Tanks were invented by the British and first used during World War I at the battle of the Somme. Pride of the British armored forces was this Mark V tank, seen at the Royal Armored Corps' driving and maintenance school at Bovington, Dorset, Eng. Financial and Commercial

New York, July 12 (AP)—in another session of quiet and featureless trading on the stock market, prices today moved narrowly higher.

With few exceptions, stocks strayed less than a dollar a share either up or down from the previous close, but the upside had the edge.

Buying was on a selective basis all around. American Cyanamid, for instance, was up more than 2 points at times with demand insistent. Anchor Hocking was a buying favorite for a brief period and added a fraction.

United Corp. hit the tape in a huge block of 26,000 shares unchanged at 4½, and it traded later at that level.

There was no tendency in Wall street to rush to conclusions when Kaesong armistice talks were halted because armed Communists blocked United Nations correspondents enroute to the conference. Traders appeared to put more credence in dispatches from the spot stating the interruption appeared to be temporary than in informed reports from Washington that took a pessimistic view of the incident.

Stocks holding higher included Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Cities Service, U. S. Gypsum, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, and United Aircraft.

Curb prices were mixed. Higher were Consolidated Mining & Smelting, New Jersey Zinc, U. S. Foil "B," and Woodley Petroleum. Lower were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," du Mont Laboratories, and Northrop Aircraft.

Japanese dollar bonds moved up sharply in response to details of the Japanese Peace Treaty. Domestic corporate loans were irregularly higher. U. S. government securities in the over the counter market were fairly active at advancing prices.

Rejects Chance

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Maurice Braverman, Baltimore attorney identified by an FBI undercover agent as a Communist, today rejected a chance to affirm or deny the charge before the House Un-American Activities Committee. He appeared before the group in the role of counsel for Harold Round, a one-time Baltimore school teacher, who refused to answer any questions about the Communist party. Both Braverman and Round were named as Communists by Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, a Virginia housewife who spent several years keeping tab on Communists in the capital and Maryland for the FBI. Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) referred to Mrs. Markward's testimony of yesterday and asked Braverman if he would like to answer her charge. "I wouldn't have an answer for any stool-pigeon," said Braverman. "I am here as counsel and not as a witness." "You may regard her as a stool-pigeon," replied Walter, "but I think she is a great American."

Policeman Accused On Extortion Count

New York, July 12 (AP)—A policeman on the Brooklyn district attorney's rackets squad was suspended today and booked on a charge of attempted extortion.

The policeman, Paul Jones, 30, Negro plainclothesman, was arrested last night outside a Fulton street tavern after, police charged, he accepted an envelope from Roman Harrell, 40, containing slips of paper and a marked $5 bill.

Police said Jones thought it contained $400 for quashing a narcotics charge against Harrell, owner of the Decatur bar and grill in Brooklyn.

Jones denied the attempted extortion charge. He said he questioned Harrell about a policy racket and demanded the name of the policy boss. He said he thought the envelope contained the information he sought.

Harrell said he recalled no such conversation. Police said he told them Jones went to his tavern yesterday, claimed he had picked up 20 marijuana cigarettes behind a counter and asked for $400 to forget what he found.

Harrell said his wife advised him to see a lawyer, and the lawyer notified police. Harrell then talked with police, who had him give Jones the envelope containing the slips of paper and the marked $5 bill.

Nations Are Ready For Jap Peace Without Moscow

Washington, July 12 (AP) — The United States and Britain as co-sponsors formally unveiled today a "peace of reconciliation" with Japan they expect to be signed by some 50 nations.

Ambassador John Foster Dulles, in charge of negotiations for the U. S., said it was still hoped Soviet Russia would join in the settlement. But he gave notice the other nations otherwise will make peace without Moscow.

Treaty 'Unique'

The treaty, which Dulles termed "unique" in history, is due to be signed at San Francisco the week of Sept. 3. It strips Japan of its pre-World War Two overseas holdings, but permits the Japanese to rearm and in other major respects restores the former defeated empire to the status of a sovereign equal in the free world.

The signing is to be followed by a U. S.-Japanese pact permitting the U. S. to retain troops and military bases in and near Japan, pending the future creation of a system of collective security for the Pacific. A three-way security pact among the U. S., Australia, and New Zealand and a separate commercial treaty between this country and Japan are parts of the general settlement.

The revised draft is the product of more than a year's negotiation with the other principal Pacific allies in which Dulles took the lead as the U. S. representative. He predicted it will be "generally acceptable to the 50-odd nations at war with Japan."

"No one will be 100 per cent satisfied but almost everyone should be about 95 per cent satisfied," he said in a statement.

No General Conference

Dulles listed as unique the direct negotiations by which the terms were worked out without a general peace conference, the restoration of a free Japan without any attempt to impose permanent restrictions, and the principle of collective security under the United Nations. By this arrangement, he said, "there will be a combination of U. S. and future Japanese forces, and perhaps others, so that it would be materially impossible for Japan to wage a war of revenge."

Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, termed the widespread agreement on terms "striking evidence of unity" among the U. S., Britain and France.

Senate Approves Civil Service Raises

Washington, July 12 (AP) — President Truman today asked Congress for a seven per cent pay increase for government workers, and a Senate committee approved increases the members said would average 8.4 per cent.

The action by the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee came less than three hours after Mr. Truman's request, but was not directly responsive to it.

The committee has been studying the question of a pay raise for government workers for months.

About 2,000,000 government workers would be affected—500,000 in the postal service and 1,500,000 classified civil service workers.

The President proposed a seven per cent "across the board" increase—meaning the same percentage increase for all workers irrespective of their present pay.

The Senate committee plan, however, would not give all workers the same percentage increases.

Members of the group told reporters their plan would cost about $500,000,000 a year.

Would Keep Advantage

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The National Coal Association today urged the Senate Finance Committee to retain the tax advantage for coal included in the House-approved $7,200,000,000 tax increase bill. James W. Haley of Washington, representing the association, said coal is "easily the most important natural resource in the country." But, he added, it has been victimized by "a gross and aggravated inequity running against coal and in favor of coal's competitors."

Tibet is the highest country in the world, averaging 16,000 feet above sea level, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

"TODAY" FOLLOWS "YESTERDAY"—This automatic hay baler, one of the most advanced farm machines, is usually pulled by an equally modern tractor. But on this farm, near New Holland, Pa., four mules provide the "horsepower." In most parts of the country, mules and horses are rapidly disappearing from the farm scene, but Amish farmers still cling to traditional draught animals. This farmer added a wagon hitch, seat and handbrake and substituted steel wheels for rubber tires to convert the baler into a mule-drawn machine.

15 Reds Get Bail

New York, July 12 (AP)—Bail of 15 Communists, cancelled yesterday by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan, was reinstated today by Judge Learned Hand of the United States Court of Appeals.

The reinstated bail was posted by the bail fund of the Civil Rights Congress of New York. Ryan had ordered it revoked after describing the fund's trustee as "unworthy of trust."

Ryan had sentenced three of the trustees to jail for contempt of court when they refused to reveal records showing who contributed to the bail fund.

Judge Hand also set bail of $10,000 each, pending appeal, for Dashiell Hammett, mystery story writer, and Dr. W. Alphaeus Hunton, secretary of the Council of African Affairs, both trustees of the bail fund.

Ryan had sentenced them to six months for contempt.

Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a third trustee and secretary of the fund, sentenced to 90 days by Ryan, earlier had obtained $10,000 bail from his wife.

Ryan had specified that the Civil Rights Congress and Field personally would be ineligible to post bail in any case in his court.

Conference on Child Health Here Tuesday

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at 25 E. O'Reilly street, Tuesday, July 17, from 2 to 4 p. m.

These clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

One Kind of Gasoline

Trenton, N. J., July 12 (AP)—There will be only one kind of gasoline and oil for motorists on New Jersey's 118-mile turnpike. The Turnpike Authority announced today it awarded a contract to Cities Service Oil Co., of New York to operate all service stations on the superhighway from the George Washington Bridge to Deepwater on the Delaware river.

Bread Runs Normal

New York, July 12 (AP)—Bread deliveries returned to normal today as drivers resumed their routes after a 10-day strike that left grocery bread counters virtually empty. The drivers, members of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, agreed to a settlement Tuesday night, but renewed deliveries were delayed until bakeries could get production going again. The drivers won work week reduction from six to five days, with no change in pay.

Fixer Pleads Guilty

New York, July 12 (AP)—Salvatore T. Sollazzo, ex-convict and alleged master fixer in the college basketball scandal, today pleaded guilty to 28 counts of a 30-count indictment charging bribery and conspiracy. General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit set Oct. 4 for sentencing. Sollazzo is liable to a maximum term of five to 10 years in prison on each of the 27 counts of bribery, and one year on the conspiracy count.

Bradley Optimistic

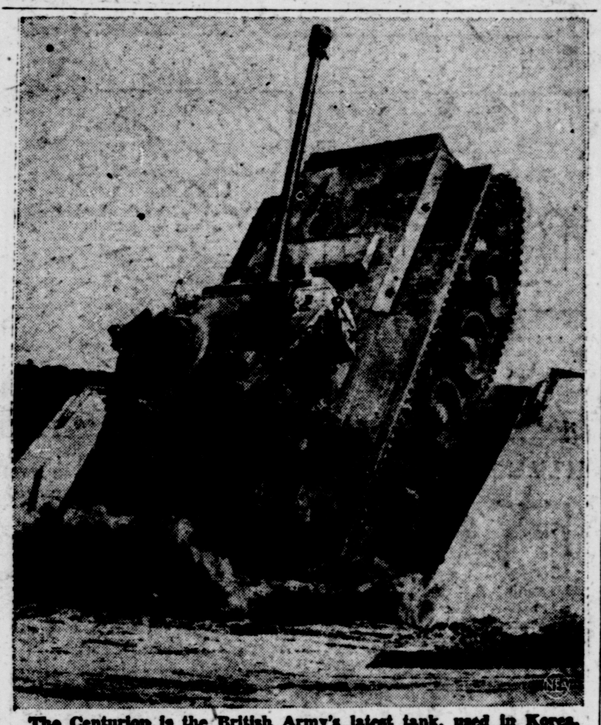
Washington, July 12 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley was reported to have told senators today he is optimistic a settlement of the Korean war can be reached in negotiations with the Communists. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told reporters after informal conferences with senators he can't add anything to what already has been in the news about the Kaesong conferences.

"Can" Plane Engines

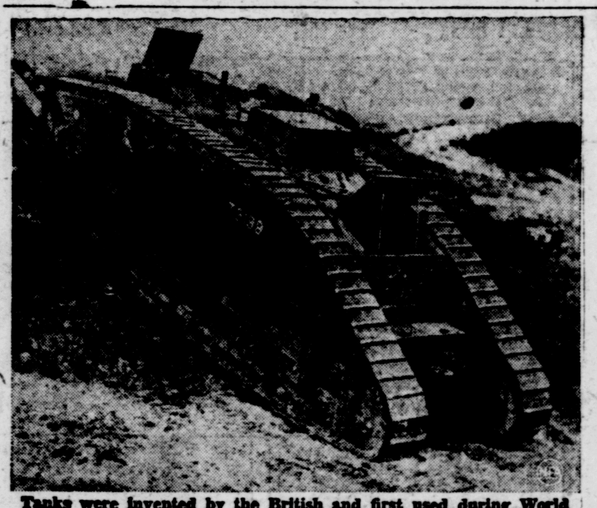
San Antonio, Tex. (AP)—"Kelly Katies" are helping build Air Force engines here. They are women employes of Kelly Air Force base. Women who a few months ago were baffled by vacuum cleaners are now installing engine valves, rewiring, ignition systems and operating lathes — after intensive training, of course. And they're "canning" engines. After final inspection, the engines, ranging from little ones for trainers to the huge power plants for the B-36, are "canned" for shipment or storage.

Hope in Iran

U. S. Ambassador to Iran Henry Grady (left) hands President Truman's letter to Iran's bed-ridden Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in Tehran. Mossadegh reportedly turned down the President's appeal for "careful consideration" of the World Court decision in the Iranian oil dispute, but he accepted the offer to send W. Averell Harriman to Iran to discuss the problem. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff photographer Max Winter.)



The Centurion is the British Army's latest tank, used in Korea, with firepower vastly greater than its predecessors. Here the 49-ton monster, nose pointed skyward and treads churning the ground, is going over a high tank obstacle at the Bovington school. Maximum speed is 21 miles an hour.



Tanks were invented by the British and first used during World War I at the battle of the Somme. Pride of the British armored forces was this Mark V tank, seen at the Royal Armored Corps' driving and maintenance school at Bovington, Dorset, Eng. The 33-year-old vehicle weighs 29 tons, carried a crew of eight and mounted two six-pounder guns and light machine guns.

TURTLES IN THE "SOUP"—Turtles like water, but they also like to come out once in a while and get some air and sun. Thanks to flood waters that cover many areas in Kansas, these turtles are having a tough time trying to find a dry place on the back porch of this Wichita house.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 12 (AP)—in another session of quiet and featureless trading on the stock market, prices today moved narrowly higher.

With few exceptions, stocks strayed less than a dollar a share either up or down from the previous close, but the upside had the edge.

Buying was on a selective basis all around. American Cyanamid, for instance, was up more than 2 points at times with demand insistent. Anchor Hocking was a buying favorite for a brief period and added a fraction.

United Corp. hit the tape in a huge block of 26,000 shares unchanged at 4½, and it traded later at that level.

There was no tendency in Wall street to rush to conclusions when Kaesong armistice talks were halted because armed Communists blocked United Nations correspondents enroute to the conference. Traders appeared to put more credence in dispatches from the spot stating the interruption appeared to be temporary than in informed reports from Washington that took a pessimistic view of the incident.

Stocks holding higher included Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Cities Service, U. S. Gypsum, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, and United Aircraft.

Curb prices were mixed. Higher were Consolidated Mining & Smelting, New Jersey Zinc, U. S. Foil "B," and Woodley Petroleum. Lower were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," du Mont Laboratories, and Northrop Aircraft.

Japanese dollar bonds moved up sharply in response to details of the Japanese Peace Treaty. Domestic corporate loans were irregularly higher. U. S. government securities in the over the counter market were fairly active at advancing prices.

Rejects Chance

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Maurice Braverman, Baltimore attorney identified by an FBI undercover agent as a Communist, today rejected a chance to affirm or deny the charge before the House Un-American Activities Committee. He appeared before the group in the role of counsel for Harold Round, a one-time Baltimore school teacher, who refused to answer any questions about the Communist party. Both Braverman and Round were named as Communists by Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, a Virginia housewife who spent several years keeping tab on Communists in the capital and Maryland for the FBI. Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.) referred to Mrs. Markward's testimony of yesterday and asked Braverman if he would like to answer her charge. "I wouldn't have an answer for any stool-pigeon," said Braverman. "I am here as counsel and not as a witness." "You may regard her as a stool-pigeon," replied Walter, "but I think she is a great American."

Policeman Accused On Extortion Count

New York, July 12 (AP)—A policeman on the Brooklyn district attorney's rackets squad was suspended today and booked on a charge of attempted extortion.

The policeman, Paul Jones, 30, Negro plainclothesman, was arrested last night outside a Fulton street tavern after, police charged, he accepted an envelope from Roman Harrell, 40, containing slips of paper and a marked $5 bill.

Police said Jones thought it contained $400 for quashing a narcotics charge against Harrell, owner of the Decatur bar and grill in Brooklyn.

Jones denied the attempted extortion charge. He said he questioned Harrell about a policy racket and demanded the name of the policy boss. He said he thought the envelope contained the information he sought.

Harrell said he recalled no such conversation. Police said he told them Jones went to his tavern yesterday, claimed he had picked up 20 marijuana cigarettes behind a counter and asked for $400 to forget what he found.

Harrell said his wife advised him to see a lawyer, and the lawyer notified police. Harrell then talked with police, who had him give Jones the envelope containing the slips of paper and the marked $5 bill.

Cry, Cry Again

Professor—Pardon me. He was exposed to it, but he did not take it.

A very rich man wanted to do something nice for the poor fellows in the asylum. So, after thinking it over, he had a swimming pool built for them. Soon after it was finished, he went out to look it over.

Rich Man—How do the poor fellows like the pool?

Guard—They're crazy about it. We can't keep 'em out of it. They'll like it even better when we put water in it.

He—I've got a hunch.
She — Zat so? I thought you were just round-shouldered.

A new finish that will keep wrinkles out of cotton and rayon is now available. If it would work on faces, there'd be quite a demand.

This would be a better world if it were as easy to arouse enthusiasm as it is to arouse suspicion.

He—What's the difference between a sigh, a car, and a donkey?
She—I give up.
He—Well, a sigh is 'Oh, dear!' A car is too dear.
She—And what's a donkey.
He—You, dear.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The art of propaganda has reached an almost frightening degree of perfection since the introduction of radio and other means of mass communication. Television is destined to further the power of propaganda.

As we know from our study of crowd psychology "repetition" and "contagion" are two of the many psychological forces that influence public opinion. As LeBon says in his classic study, The Crowd, "an orator wishing to move a crowd must make an abusive use of violent affirmations. To exaggerate, to affirm, to resort to repetitions, and never to attempt to prove anything by reasoning are methods of argument well known to speakers at public meetings." LeBon was writing this over 50 years ago. Yet, in the 1948 presidential electioneering campaigns we found Mr. Truman following this method precisely. At every whistle-stop he repeated the same comments ("the no-good 80th Congress," and other similar cracks against the Republicans and "privileged classes").

The art of propaganda also includes the strategical use of tricks so diabolically practiced by the Kremlin. The "surprise" and the "unexpected" are artful tricks of propaganda.

The Theory of Contrary Opinion becomes of increasing value as the power of propaganda spreads and multiplies. More and more it is essential to clear thinking to ruminate over the "opposites" of all public assertions and international policies. A newspaper acquaintance told this writer sometime ago that an overwhelming amount of news in our papers today originates from propaganda offices and government bureaus. While it is almost impossible for the average reader—indeed, for the analytical reader—to determine what is "planted" material and what is objective writing, if we make it a habit to think of what may lie behind the stories and what the "contrary" facts are, there is a better chance of our comprehending the true state of affairs.

A friend with whom the Ruminator exchanges ideas recently wrote that "the only reason the public thinks at all is because of the propaganda which comes from the politicians and advertisers who wish to gain power or sell something. Therefore, if one knows what propaganda is and how it is induced one can use "Contrary Opinion."

Take the Russian propaganda for a truce in Korea, as an example. When it was first announced by Malik, the universal opinion expressed was that Malik's proposal was a fake and a Russian "trick."

As we ventured to comment at the time, there would be no surprise or strategy in the proposal being trickery because that was what was expected.

About the only trickery possible in the proposal would be to gain time for a further build-up of Red Chinese and North Korean forces, but this seemed a bit far-fetched because the Red command could build up their armies north of the Yalu without molestation anyway (under our ridiculous policy of not bombing in Manchuria).

The strategy of Russian activity and propaganda has always been to start something here, stop something there, and continually to maintain confusion and fear among the anti-Communist nations. They certainly have done a masterful job and have grabbed off large slices of the world while protecting their own population.

It would seem that it is about time for some of us "capitalistic" nations to get in our propaganda also. General MacArthur has unquestionably done a great service to this country and our allies by his forthright statements of how we should adopt the brave, offensive, spirit and stop being afraid of the Russians. He is credited in some thoughtful circles for impressing the Russians with the idea that perhaps we are not as soft and timid as has been thought. Russia is undoubtedly just as much afraid of the allied nations becoming aggressive as we appear to be afraid of Russian aggressiveness.

So the battle of propaganda goes on. We appear to be learning more of the art, but we are still amateurs compared to Russia.

For example, it looks as if the next Russian propaganda moves will be to preach "peace" and peaceful intentions. The idea "co-existence" between communism and capitalism will be brought forward again and propagandized. Thus, the public will be swayed away from the need for defense and rearmament. But we had better be "contrary" and keep our mind on the Russian goal: to defeat us economically in the long run.

A newspaper acquaintance told this writer sometime ago that an overwhelming amount of news in our papers today originates from propaganda offices and government bureaus. While it is almost impossible for the average reader—indeed, for the analytical reader—to determine what is "planted" material and what is objective writing, if we make it a habit to think of what may lie behind the stories and what the "contrary" facts are, there is a better chance of our comprehending the true state of affairs.

A friend with whom the Ruminator exchanges ideas recently wrote that "the only reason the public thinks at all is because of the propaganda which comes from the politicians and advertisers who wish to gain power or sell something. Therefore, if one knows what propaganda is and how it is induced one can use "Contrary Opinion."

Take the Russian propaganda for a truce in Korea, as an example. When it was first announced by Malik, the universal opinion expressed was that Malik's proposal was a fake and a Russian "trick."

As we ventured to comment at the time, there would be no surprise or strategy in the proposal being trickery because that was what was expected.

About the only trickery possible in the proposal would be to gain time for a further build-up of Red Chinese and North Korean forces, but this seemed a bit far-fetched because the Red command could build up their armies north of the Yalu without molestation anyway (under our ridiculous policy of not bombing in Manchuria).

The strategy of Russian activity and propaganda has always been to start something here, stop something there, and continually to maintain confusion and fear among the anti-Communist nations. They certainly have done a masterful job and have grabbed off large slices of the world while protecting their own population.

It would seem that it is about time for some of us "capitalistic" nations to get in our propaganda also. General MacArthur has unquestionably done a great service to this country and our allies by his forthright statements of how we should adopt the brave, offensive, spirit and stop being afraid of the Russians. He is credited in some thoughtful circles for impressing the Russians with the idea that perhaps we are not as soft and timid as has been thought. Russia is undoubtedly just as much afraid of the allied nations becoming aggressive as we appear to be afraid of Russian aggressiveness.

So the battle of propaganda goes on. We appear to be learning more of the art, but we are still amateurs compared to Russia.

For example, it looks as if the next Russian propaganda moves will be to preach "peace" and peaceful intentions. The idea "coexistence" between communism and capitalism will be brought forward again and propagandized. Thus, the public will be swayed away from the need for defense and rearmament. But we had better be "contrary" and keep our mind on the Russian goal: to defeat us economically in the long run.

asks for a states' rights plank and gets a Humphrey Civil Rights plank?"

Humphrey is the Minnesota Socialist who forced the Marxian program on the Democratic convention of 1948, driving four southern states into the new Dixiecrat venture. Byrd didn't join that rebellion although, if he had, Truman would have lost.

"What will Byrd do." Graves asked further, "when, vowing never to accept Truman as the nominee, the south gets Truman as nominee? Byrd is the south's great leader. Unless he has a still greater defi, the defiance in Atlanta is sounding brass. There can be no sulking in tents this time if National Socialism and Cynicism go marching under democracy's banner. We who have been calling on him for 12 years and look to him as our great man, will remember what he said in Atlanta and believe he will live up to it all the way, not just up to the Democratic convention."

The people who believe most deeply in Byrd's principles are plainly convinced beforehand that the convention will turn down the south. They are convinced that if Truman be re-elected the land will come under another invasion of rascals from Washington bent on confiscating property by Socialism and humiliating the well-mannered whites and exalting again a predatory rabble.

This time Byrd has put himself on the spot with his own following.

Protest on Gas Ban

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The President of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association has protested a proposed government order which would ban the use of natural gas by new consumers in areas facing prospects of a gas shortage. Frederic O. Hess said in a statement yesterday that the ban proposed by the Petroleum Administration for Defense would make natural gas a "whipping boy." Instead, he suggested "taking a look at the whole fuel picture and considering how best each may serve the nation and the public, and then taking steps to eliminate duplicate uses and abuses."

Jury Must Say Whether Lady Can Make Dodgers Pay

Albany, N. Y., July 11 (AP)—New York's highest court says a jury must decide whether a lady fan, injured by a pop bottle at Ebbets Field, is entitled to collect damages from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Court of Appeals yesterday unanimously ordered a new trial of a $25,000 action by Sadie and Eugene Philpot against the National League baseball club.

The action originally was dismissed by a Kings county judge before the case went to a jury. His action was affirmed by the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

In briefs filed with the Court of Appeals, the Dodgers:

1—Conceded with an objection that Brooklyn fans sometimes show "shocking manners" at Ebbets Field.

2—Described Leo Durocher, former Dodger manager, as "querulous," which Webster defines as "habitually complaining, peevishly fretful."

3—Compared the loquacious leader—in a somewhat favorable sense—with soft-spoken, 88-year-old Connie Mack, retired manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

But the Court of Appeals did not pass on these points.

The seven judges merely reversed the decision of the lower courts in dismissing the Philpots' action.

The state's highest court, however, did affirm the lower courts in that part of their decision dismissing the action against the co-defendant, Harry M. Stevens, Inc., the concessionaire at the ballpark.

Mrs. Philpot claimed she was struck on the arm by a broken bottle "rolled, dropped or thrown" from the upper tier of the grand stand while she was watching the Dodgers play the Boston Braves on Memorial Day, 1946.

She sued for $20,000 and her husband for $5,000 to cover loss of his wife's services.

Treated Own Wound

Hoboken, N. J., July 12 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Joe Lawless knows all about penicillin. Yesterday he walked into St. Mary's Hospital with a bullet wound in his leg. As an interne tried to locate the slub, young Joe said: "You don't have to go digging in there, doc. I already dug it out with my penknife. Just put some penicillin in it." Joe explained he was shot accidentally when he and a friend fired a .32 caliber bullet from a toy pop gun.

Albany, N. Y., July 11 (AP)—New York's highest court says a jury must decide whether a lady fan, injured by a pop bottle at Ebbets Field, is entitled to collect damages from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Court of Appeals yesterday unanimously ordered a new trial of a $25,000 action by Sadie and Eugene Philpot against the National League baseball club.

The action originally was dismissed by a Kings county judge before the case went to a jury. His action was affirmed by the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

In briefs filed with the Court of Appeals, the Dodgers:

1—Conceded with an objection that Brooklyn fans sometimes show "shocking manners" at Ebbets Field.

2—Described Leo Durocher, former Dodger manager, as "querulous," which Webster defines as "habitually complaining, peevishly fretful."

3—Compared the loquacious leader—in a somewhat favorable sense—with soft-spoken, 88-year-old Connie Mack, retired manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

But the Court of Appeals did not pass on these points.

The seven judges merely reversed the decision of the lower courts in dismissing the Philpots' action.

The state's highest court, however, did affirm the lower courts in that part of their decision dismissing the action against the co-defendant, Harry M. Stevens, Inc., the concessionaire at the ballpark.

Mrs. Philpot claimed she was struck on the arm by a broken bottle "rolled, dropped or thrown" from the upper tier of the grand stand while she was watching the Dodgers play the Boston Braves on Memorial Day, 1946.

She sued for $20,000 and her husband for $5,000 to cover loss of his wife's services.

Treated Own Wound

Hoboken, N. J., July 12 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Joe Lawless knows all about penicillin. Yesterday he walked into St. Mary's Hospital with a bullet wound in his leg. As an interne tried to locate the slub, young Joe said: "You don't have to go digging in there, doc. I already dug it out with my penknife. Just put some penicillin in it." Joe explained he was shot accidentally when he and a friend fired a .32 caliber bullet from a toy pop gun.

15 Communists Returned To Jail, Bonds Canceled

New York, July 12 (AP)—Fifteen indicted Communist leaders were back in jail today after a federal judge cancelled their $176,500 bail.

Judge Sylvester J. Ryan disqualified the Civil Rights Congress, which had posted $171,000 of the bail, from further activity as bondsman in any case in his court.

The judge placed the same ban on Frederick Vanderbilt Field, leftist millionaire and secretary and trustee of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund. Field had personally posted bail for one defendant.

The 15 second string Red leaders lost their liberty after Judge Ryan made his ruling late yesterday on the ground that the bail fund is "irresponsible." There had been long argument on the government's motion for revocation of bail.

Unless Judge Ryan's ruling is upset on appeal, the 15 will remain in jail until they can obtain bail from other sources.

Can't Find Bondsmen

Defense counsel said it was impossible to get commercial bondsmen to go bail on the defendants because of their "political unorthodoxy."

There also were these developments slated for today:

1. The U. S. Senate's internal security committee subpoenaed Field to appear at a closed session here (1:30 p. m., EST). Among other things, the committee planned to question Field about the bail the Civil Rights Congress posted for four missing top Communist leaders. The committee, headed by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), shifted the site of the hearing from Washington to New York.

2. Two trustees of the bail fund — mystery writer Dashiell Hammett and W. Alphaeus Hunton—sought to get out of jail on bail. A hearing on their pleas was scheduled in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals (11 a. m., EST). Counsel for the two men, who have spent three nights in jail, sought bail pending appeal of six-month jail sentences imposed by Judge Ryan for contempt of court.

Bail Jumping Probe

3. Sen. McCarran, who also heads the Senate Judiciary Committee, ordered a study to determine whether new legislation is needed to deal with Communist bail jumping. The study is being made by the judiciary committee's staff. McCarran, riled by the Red bail jumpers, told reporters in Washington: "If we find that legislation is required, we shall bring the matter to the attention of Congress."

The judiciary committee staff study was prompted by failure of four top Communist leaders to show up in New York last week to begin prison sentences. They and seven other Red kingpins had been convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government. The four still at large are subjects of a wide manhunt. Their bail totalling $80,000 was ordered forfeited. The Civil Rights Congress had posted $260,000 bail for the eleven convicted top Red leaders.

McCarran praised Judge Ryan's action in revoking the bail of the second-string Communist leaders, and called it "entirely justified and proper."

Judge Ryan yesterday turned down a government request that new bonds for the second-string Red leaders be boosted four-fold to a total of $876,000.

Labor Says

vately that—with an anti-controls coalition in the saddle—it may be another full week yet before they are ready to risk a final conclusive vote. The Senate has voted an eight-month extension of economic controls which is far short of what Mr. Truman asked.

All-Day Squabble

For almost all of yesterday's session, the House engaged in a sectional squabble over granting the President authority to disperse new government-financed war plants for security purposes. Administration leaders made only half-hearted attempts to curb the oratory.

After nearly four hours of debate, the House voted 134 to 79 to kill the dispersal plan.

Eastern seaboard members of both parties, fearful of losing their industry to the south and west, voted solidly against it. McCormack was among them.

The House raised no objection to two other provisions offered as part of the administration bill.

The Provisions

One would give the government limited power to condemn property needed for defense purposes. The other provides a revolving fund of $2,100,000,000 for long-term contracting for metals and other commodities needed in the defense effort. The present law set aside $1,600,000,000 for this purpose.

With committee amendments out of the way, the farm state group is due to bring up today or tomorrow its proposal to kill the 10 per cent beef price rollback and ban future price rollbacks on all farm commodities.

A drive is also primed to enlarge the no-price-rollback plan to include all goods, industrial as well as farm.

Reds Make Claim

Tokyo, July 12 (AP)—The North Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang said Red anti-aircraft batteries shot down six allied planes today. Allied air officers in Tokyo said they had no reports of such action.

Reds Resist Drive On East-Central Front in Korea

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 12 (AP)—Attacking United Nations forces ran into stubborn Red resistance on the east-central fighting front today.

An Eighth Army communique said allied troops attacked southeast of Kumsong against light resistance but soon became "heavily engaged" with an undetermined number of Reds. The Communists used semi-automatic and automatic weapons and mortar fire. Kumsong is about ten miles east of the Reds' old "iron triangle" staging area.

The action was continuing in late afternoon.

To the east, allies threw back two light Red probing attacks.

Only light enemy contact was reported by Eighth Army patrols along the rest of the war front.

U.N. naval units kept up their strategic bombing along the east coast yesterday.

The American destroyers Blue and Evans and the destroyer escort Naifeh pounded targets at the long-besieged transportation hub of Wonsan.

through the grill and lodged in the radiator.

According to the trooper, Mrs. Hyer said that Mrs. Bangs then came toward the car brandishing the revolver and a stick. Mrs. Hyer told the woman to get out of the way, he said. She started the car and went to the summer home from where she notified the trooper.

Mrs. Bangs was arraigned before Peace Justice Joseph Thiel, of Hunter and later was released on the property bond fixed by Greene County Judge Paul Fromer.

Trooper Crommie said there had been "friction between the two families" growing out of "differences over property lines." The Hyer and Bangs properties, he said, are about a quarter of a mile apart.

of America" said yesterday Stalin was trying to make a "propaganda holiday" out of the armistice talks.

But then the "voice" asked Stalin: "What are you going to do with the one real fact everyone knows—that Malik had to cry 'enough' for both the Chinese volunteers and the North Koreans, because they were too busy dying under the withering fire power of the United Nations army to cry it for themselves?"

The "voice" also told Stalin to remember that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the UN commander, holds "the one ace in the hole: A victorious army in battle array with tremendous firepower, command of the skies above North Korea and a navy with ships on both flanks."

Costs Above Average

Hartford, Conn., July 12 (AP)—Connecticut's adult population spent an average of $150 per person for alcoholic beverages during the last 12 months. State Tax Commissioner William F. Connelly, in making this disclosure today, noted that this is about 75 per cent above the national average.

Fashion Plans Change

London, July 12 (AP) — Cool, cloudy, weather changed the fashion plans of many American women who attended the season's first mass tea and crumpets frolic at Buckingham Palace today. A majority of the ladies rejected with a sigh the filmy, cool dresses and floppy picture hats they had intended to wear and chose outfits more in keeping with the weather—mostly slim-fitting suits. The men had a choice of tailcoats and striped pants or conventional going-to-the-movies attire, which the British call lounge suits. Several hundred Americans—visitors to Britain for her festival year as well as members of the diplomatic corps and military and economic missions—were guests of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at the informal party in the palace gardens.

Allied Newsmen

voy, all vehicles were ordered back and talks were broken off.

May Be Temporary

The general impression here was that the break was temporary.

The opinion among many military men and some correspondents was that the whole situation was the result of a Communist misunderstanding, although delegates have been arguing over press representation since talks started Tuesday.

There was a feeling that talks might be resumed later in the week.

Admiral Joy's message, dispatched immediately after the convoy returned, read:

"Subject: Termination of recess of conference.

"To: General Nam Il, North Korean Army.

"1. At 0930 12 July 1951 (6:30 p. m. E.S.T. Wednesday) my motor convoy, proceeding along the Munsan-Kaesong road, bearing personnel desired by me at the conference site, was refused passage to pass your control post by your armed guards.

"2. I have ordered this convoy to return to the United Nations lines.

"3. I am prepared to return with my delegation and continue the discussions which were recessed yesterday upon notification from you that my convoy, bearing the personnel of my choosing, including such press representation as I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

Confer Three Hours

General Ridgway, Admiral Joy and Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British Commonwealth troops in Korea, spent three hours in conference after the convoy was halted. Their meeting ended 30 minutes after the helicopter returned from delivering Joy's message to General Nam.

There was no explanation of Robertson's presence.

At the time Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, whose powerful U. S. Eighth Army holds lines running 20 and 30 miles into Red Korea, was aboard the U. S. Flagship Eldorado off the west coast. He appeared surprised to learn that peace talks had been interrupted.

But Van Fleet declined comment. He said, "that's their business."

Thursday's developments brought to a head a request originally made by Admiral Joy Tuesday that 20 allied press representatives be allowed in Kaesong but not in the conference room itself.

Peiping Confirmation

Tokyo, Friday, July 13 (AP)—The Chinese Red radio in Peiping today confirmed the suspension of cease-fire talks in Korea and said there was no indication United Nations representatives would continue the negotiations.

loyalty, if through the safeguards of this method the newspapers are able to give them the truth in its fullest illumination. By the same token they naturally will better understand the problems of the people of other nations if they are not blinded by half truth which breeds prejudice and hatred, where the whole truth develops tolerance and fraternity. That, I suggest, is a groundwork for international peace.

"Antagonism toward this practical idealism exists only where the power to suppress the truth refuses to accept these statements as facts. And a barrier to such acceptance is that power that suppresses truthful news is power in fear. Confidence and loyalty thrive where the people have what I define as the right to know.

"When the Nazis decided to regiment German minds through party propaganda in the news, they simply took control of the main source of the news by secretly buying that country's great, privately-owned news agency. Exactly the same thing occurred in Italy. Denied the right to know, the people found the truth was not to be had! Without the truth they could not think straight. And when they could not think straight, they faced their fate in darkness, freedom's light being gone."

Attlee Pledges Support

Prime Minister Attlee, who also spoke at the dinner, pledged the support of the British government in the fight for freedom of information.

"A great hindrance to peace," Attlee declared, "is the ignorance of one people about another. Ignorance breeds suspicion. A great service performed by Reuters is that it lets us know what other people think."

Other speakers included Sir Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reuters; Sir Lloyd Dumas, chairman of the Australian Associated Press; and Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury. Approximately 1,000 guests attended the dinner.

Traffic Date Set

Trenton, N. J., July 12 (AP)—The New Jersey Turnpike Authority said today it believed all but six miles of its proposed 118-mile toll road would be ready for traffic Nov. 15. The authority said in a report to bondholders: "Barring unforeseeable delays * * * and with normal seasonal weather through the next several months, it is believed that the 107.7 miles of the turnpike south of the Raymond boulevard interchange (Newark) and the 4.5 miles north of the Lincoln tunnel connection will be ready for traffic on Nov. 15, 1951."

Reds Make Claim

Tokyo, July 12 (AP)—The North Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang said Red anti-aircraft batteries shot down six allied planes today. Allied air officers in Tokyo said they had no reports of such action.

Reds Resist Drive On East-Central Front in Korea

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 12 (AP)—Attacking United Nations forces ran into stubborn Red resistance on the east-central fighting front today.

An Eighth Army communique said allied troops attacked southeast of Kumsong against light resistance but soon became "heavily engaged" with an undetermined number of Reds. The Communists used semi-automatic and automatic weapons and mortar fire. Kumsong is about ten miles east of the Reds' old "iron triangle" staging area.

The action was continuing in late afternoon.

To the east, allies threw back two light Red probing attacks.

Only light enemy contact was reported by Eighth Army patrols along the rest of the war front.

U.N. naval units kept up their strategic bombing along the east coast yesterday.

The American destroyers Blue and Evans and the destroyer escort Naifeh pounded targets at the long-besieged transportation hub of Wonsan.

through the grill and lodged in the radiator.

According to the trooper, Mrs. Hyer said that Mrs. Bangs then came toward the car brandishing the revolver and a stick. Mrs. Hyer told the woman to get out of the way, he said. She started the car and went to the summer home from where she notified the trooper.

Mrs. Bangs was arraigned before Peace Justice Joseph Thiel, of Hunter and later was released on the property bond fixed by Greene County Judge Paul Fromer.

Trooper Crommie said there had been "friction between the two families" growing out of "differences over property lines." The Hyer and Bangs properties, he said, are about a quarter of a mile apart.

of America" said yesterday Stalin was trying to make a "propaganda holiday" out of the armistice talks.

But then the "voice" asked Stalin: "What are you going to do with the one real fact everyone knows—that Malik had to cry 'enough' for both the Chinese volunteers and the North Koreans, because they were too busy dying under the withering fire power of the United Nations army to cry it for themselves?"

The "voice" also told Stalin to remember that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the UN commander, holds "the one ace in the hole: A victorious army in battle array with tremendous firepower, command of the skies above North Korea and a navy with ships on both flanks."

Costs Above Average

Hartford, Conn., July 12 (AP)—Connecticut's adult population spent an average of $150 per person for alcoholic beverages during the last 12 months. State Tax Commissioner William F. Connelly, in making this disclosure today, noted that this is about 75 per cent above the national average.

Fashion Plans Change

London, July 12 (AP) — Cool, cloudy, weather changed the fashion plans of many American women who attended the season's first mass tea and crumpets frolic at Buckingham Palace today. A majority of the ladies rejected with a sigh the filmy, cool dresses and floppy picture hats they had intended to wear and chose outfits more in keeping with the weather—mostly slim-fitting suits. The men had a choice of tailcoats and striped pants or conventional going-to-the-movies attire, which the British call lounge suits. Several hundred Americans—visitors to Britain for her festival year as well as members of the diplomatic corps and military and economic missions—were guests of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at the informal party in the palace gardens.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The position of the treasury July 10: Net budget receipts, $151,735,403.84; budget expenditures, $258,921,645.33; cash balance, $6,100,507,297.41; customs receipts for month, $13,589,663.45; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $1,019,914,754.54; budget expenditures fiscal year, $1,459,760,495.31; budget deficit, $439,845,740.77; total debt, $254,710,759,275.49; increase over previous day, $10,073,224.05; gold assets, $21,756,959,591.76.

Allied Newsmen

voy, all vehicles were ordered back and talks were broken off.

May Be Temporary

The general impression here was that the break was temporary.

The opinion among many military men and some correspondents was that the whole situation was the result of a Communist misunderstanding, although delegates have been arguing over press representation since talks started Tuesday.

There was a feeling that talks might be resumed later in the week.

Admiral Joy's message, dispatched immediately after the convoy returned, read:

"Subject: Termination of recess of conference.

"To: General Nam Il, North Korean Army.

"1. At 0930 12 July 1951 (6:30 p. m. E.S.T. Wednesday) my motor convoy, proceeding along the Munsan-Kaesong road, bearing personnel desired by me at the conference site, was refused passage to pass your control post by your armed guards.

"2. I have ordered this convoy to return to the United Nations lines.

"3. I am prepared to return with my delegation and continue the discussions which were recessed yesterday upon notification from you that my convoy, bearing the personnel of my choosing, including such press representation as I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

Confer Three Hours

General Ridgway, Admiral Joy and Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British Commonwealth troops in Korea, spent three hours in conference after the convoy was halted. Their meeting ended 30 minutes after the helicopter returned from delivering Joy's message to General Nam.

There was no explanation of Robertson's presence.

At the time Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, whose powerful U. S. Eighth Army holds lines running 20 and 30 miles into Red Korea, was aboard the U. S. Flagship Eldorado off the west coast. He appeared surprised to learn that peace talks had been interrupted.

But Van Fleet declined comment. He said, "that's their business."

Thursday's developments brought to a head a request originally made by Admiral Joy Tuesday that 20 allied press representatives be allowed in Kaesong but not in the conference room itself.

Peiping Confirmation

Tokyo, Friday, July 13 (AP)—The Chinese Red radio in Peiping today confirmed the suspension of cease-fire talks in Korea and said there was no indication United Nations representatives would continue the negotiations.

AP Head Holds

loyalty, if through the safeguards of this method the newspapers are able to give them the truth in its fullest illumination. By the same token they naturally will better understand the problems of the people of other nations if they are not blinded by half truth which breeds prejudice and hatred, where the whole truth develops tolerance and fraternity. That, I suggest, is a groundwork for international peace.

"Antagonism toward this practical idealism exists only where the power to suppress the truth refuses to accept these statements as facts. And a barrier to such acceptance is that power that suppresses truthful news is power in fear. Confidence and loyalty thrive where the people have what I define as the right to know.

"When the Nazis decided to regiment German minds through party propaganda in the news, they simply took control of the main source of the news by secretly buying that country's great, privately-owned news agency. Exactly the same thing occurred in Italy. Denied the right to know, the people found the truth was not to be had! Without the truth they could not think straight. And when they could not think straight, they faced their fate in darkness, freedom's light being gone."

Attlee Pledges Support

Prime Minister Attlee, who also spoke at the dinner, pledged the support of the British government in the fight for freedom of information.

"A great hindrance to peace," Attlee declared, "is the ignorance of one people about another. Ignorance breeds suspicion. A great service performed by Reuters is that it lets us know what other people think."

Other speakers included Sir Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reuters; Sir Lloyd Dumas, chairman of the Australian Associated Press; and Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury. Approximately 1,000 guests attended the dinner.

Traffic Date Set

Trenton, N. J., July 12 (AP)—The New Jersey Turnpike Authority said today it believed all but six miles of its proposed 118-mile toll road would be ready for traffic Nov. 15. The authority said in a report to bondholders: "Barring unforeseeable delays * * * and with normal seasonal weather through the next several months, it is believed that the 107.7 miles of the turnpike south of the Raymond boulevard interchange (Newark) and the 4.5 miles north of the Lincoln tunnel connection will be ready for traffic on Nov. 15, 1951."

Two Bad Wrecks Cost $4 Million, Long Island Says

New York, July 12 (AP)—The Long Island Railroad reports it has incurred liabilities of more than $4,000,000—in addition to claims covered by $2,000,000 of liability insurance—as a result of two disastrous wrecks last year.

The figures are given by William H. Draper, Jr., federal court trustee in charge of the bankrupt line.

The report was filed with Federal Judge Harold M. Kennedy in Brooklyn yesterday.

Draper also presented the report on developments in the past six months to his fellow members of the newly-appointed Long Island Transit Authority at their first meeting.

The 1950 disasters were at Richmond Hill, Queens, where 79 were killed and about 300 injured, and at Rockville Centre, where 33 died and 100 were injured.

The Long Island had liability insurance of $1,000,000 for each accident but was required, as co-insurer, to pay the first $400,000 of damage settlements, Draper said.

Must Pay Balance

Since the total liability for each accident exceeds $1,400,000, the railroad has to pay the balance.

The report said the insurers already have paid the full amount of their obligation, $2,000,000.

The railroad has paid $2,883,983 for hospital and doctors' bills and for settlements or court judgments for death or injury.

There still is a total of $1,259,000 in unpaid settlements or judgments, including judgments on appeal.

Draper said that several million dollars of additional liability may be anticipated.

The report said the road's operations in the six months showed a deficit increase of about $702,000 over that of the like period of 1950. The total deficit of $3,989,469, however, was a little less than the deficits for similar periods of 1948 and 1949.

Draper's fellow members on the transit authority are George E. Roosevelt of Oyster Bay, N. Y., and Tracy S. Voorhees, of Brooklyn.

Correction Head Of State Dies, Started on Force

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP) — John A. Lyons, state commissioner of correction since 1939 and the only Democrat in Governor Dewey's cabinet, died early today in his sleep.

Lyons, who rose from a policeman on the New York city force to a cabinet post under two governors, was 63.

He was found dead about 6:30 a. m. (EST), by his wife, Margaret, at their home here.

James C. Hagerty, Governor Dewey's secretary, said Lyons apparently had died of a heart attack.

Lyons had awakened about 2:30 a. m. and complained of a gastric disturbance.

From Tokyo, Governor Dewey issued this statement:

"I am deeply shocked to learn of the sudden and tragic passing of John Lyons.

"For many years he served the people of New York city and then the State of New York with honesty, integrity and the highest degree of competence.

Fine Public Servant

"In his passing I have lost an old and dear friend and the State of New York has lost a truly fine public servant."

Lyons, who had been a deputy New York city police commissioner, was appointed state correction commissioner March 1, 1939, by then Governor Herbert A. Lehman, a Democrat.

He was reappointed by Dewey in 1943, 1947 and 1951.

Lyons, long had been associated with Dewey. In 1935 when Dewey was appointed special prosecutor in Manhattan, Lyons, then an inspector, was selected to head Dewey's squad of police investigators.

Lyons coordinated the efforts of New York city, New Jersey and federal police during the long manhunt that resulted in the arrest, conviction and execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnap-slaying of the infant son of Charles A. Lindbergh.

Shriners Slate Second Gigantic Parade Tonight

New York, July 12 (AP)—The Shriners will take over Times Square tonight.

They will parade through the heart of the theatre district, and the fun may last until 1 a. m. (EST).

It will be the second big parade of the annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. And it bids to be longer and funnier than the five-hour daylight parade on Tuesday.

The colorful procession will start at 7:45 p. m. (EST) at Fifth avenue and 85th street, move down Fifth avenue to 56th street, west to Broadway, down Broadway to 44th street and west to Eighth avenue where the units will fall out.

The head of the procession of 18,500 men is expected to enter the Times Square area about 9 p. m. (EST).

When the theatre crowds emerge around 10 p. m., there should be a real traffic jam.

MacArthur Ready

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a Shriner, has said he will be in the reviewing stand at 64th street and Fifth avenue. Beside him will be Imperial Potentate Hubert M. Poteat, Latin professor at Wake Forest College, N. C.

Before the parade gets under way, the Imperial Council will settle important business of the convention. There will be election and installation of officers.

Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., probate court judge of Boston, is scheduled to succeed Poteat as imperial potentate. Wilson is the imperial chief rabban.

At a business session yesterday the Shriners picked Miami as their 1952 convention city.

407 New Polio Cases Reported During Week

Washington, July 12 (AP)—A 19 per cent increase in the number of polio cases last week was reported today by the Public Health Service.

New cases totaled 407 compared with 341 for the preceding week. For the corresponding week a year ago, 478 cases were reported.

"No section of the country showed a marked increase during the week," the service said.

"In fact, three sections—New England, South Atlantic and Pacific regions — reported fewer cases."

The cumulative total since the seasonal low week this year is 2,026, compared with 2,525 for the corresponding period last year.

Correction Head Of State Dies, Started on Force

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP) — John A. Lyons, state commissioner of correction since 1939 and the only Democrat in Governor Dewey's cabinet, died early today in his sleep.

Lyons, who rose from a policeman on the New York city force to a cabinet post under two governors, was 63.

He was found dead about 6:30 a. m. (EST), by his wife, Margaret, at their home here.

James C. Hagerty, Governor Dewey's secretary, said Lyons apparently had died of a heart attack.

Lyons had awakened about 2:30 a. m. and complained of a gastric disturbance.

From Tokyo, Governor Dewey issued this statement:

"I am deeply shocked to learn of the sudden and tragic passing of John Lyons.

"For many years he served the people of New York city and then the State of New York with honesty, integrity and the highest degree of competence.

Fine Public Servant

"In his passing I have lost an old and dear friend and the State of New York has lost a truly fine public servant."

Lyons, who had been a deputy New York city police commissioner, was appointed state correction commissioner March 1, 1939, by then Governor Herbert A. Lehman, a Democrat.

He was reappointed by Dewey in 1943, 1947 and 1951.

Lyons, long had been associated with Dewey. In 1935 when Dewey was appointed special prosecutor in Manhattan, Lyons, then an inspector, was selected to head Dewey's squad of police investigators.

Lyons coordinated the efforts of New York city, New Jersey and federal police during the long manhunt that resulted in the arrest, conviction and execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnap-slaying of the infant son of Charles A. Lindbergh.

Shriners Slate Second Gigantic Parade Tonight

New York, July 12 (AP)—The Shriners will take over Times Square tonight.

They will parade through the heart of the theatre district, and the fun may last until 1 a. m. (EST).

It will be the second big parade of the annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. And it bids to be longer and funnier than the five-hour daylight parade on Tuesday.

The colorful procession will start at 7:45 p. m. (EST) at Fifth avenue and 85th street, move down Fifth avenue to 56th street, west to Broadway, down Broadway to 44th street and west to Eighth avenue where the units will fall out.

The head of the procession of 18,500 men is expected to enter the Times Square area about 9 p. m. (EST).

When the theatre crowds emerge around 10 p. m., there should be a real traffic jam.

MacArthur Ready

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a Shriner, has said he will be in the reviewing stand at 64th street and Fifth avenue. Beside him will be Imperial Potentate Hubert M. Poteat, Latin professor at Wake Forest College, N. C.

Before the parade gets under way, the Imperial Council will settle important business of the convention. There will be election and installation of officers.

Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., probate court judge of Boston, is scheduled to succeed Poteat as imperial potentate. Wilson is the imperial chief rabban.

At a business session yesterday the Shriners picked Miami as their 1952 convention city.

407 New Polio Cases Reported During Week

Washington, July 12 (AP)—A 19 per cent increase in the number of polio cases last week was reported today by the Public Health Service.

New cases totaled 407 compared with 341 for the preceding week. For the corresponding week a year ago, 478 cases were reported.

"No section of the country showed a marked increase during the week," the service said.

"In fact, three sections—New England, South Atlantic and Pacific regions — reported fewer cases."

Two Trainees Killed

Camp Pendleton, Calif., July 12 (AP)—A faulty mortar shell, exploded prematurely killed two marine trainees and injured 17 yesterday. Marine corps officers said all normal precautions had been take before the 18-mm. shell was fired in mortar practice. Maj. K. A. Angeli said the shell was faulty. Killed were Pfc. Haskel Graves, Jr., 19, of Oklahoma City, and Pfc. Wallace Duwayne Wherley, 20, of Minot, N. D.

Manpower Problem

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The Labor Department said yesterday that labor shortages are "more widespread and troublesome than at any previous time since Korea." Robert C. Goodwin, head of the department's bureau of employment security, said that while no overall labor shortage has developed so far, the employment situation seems to be tightening, especially for skilled and semi-skilled workers. At the same time, Goodwin said, workers in some areas are beginning to lose their jobs because the predominent industries—autos, for example—are running short of strategic materials going instead into defense.

Under Water Now

Worcester, Mass., July 12 (AP)—Talk about water in the cellar. . . . The Chamber of Commerce got a call recently from a man who wanted to know where the town of Enfield is located. The man said he thought he owned property there. Enfield is 15 feet under water. It was one of a few communities swept away when a reservoir was built more than 10 years ago.

Price Reductions Show In Vegetables, Fruits; Some Meat Slashes

(By The Associated Press)

Wholesale food prices continued their gentle, months-long decline this week. But in the retail stores, again as in the past several weeks, there were few if any general reductions except on seasonally-abundant fresh fruits and vegetables.

Changes in red meat prices were almost entirely confined to temporary advertised specials designed to attract customers, and these followed no general pattern.

One big competitive chain slashed prime rib roasts one to three cents a pound for the coming week-end. Another chain announced an 18-cents a pound price cut on sirloin steak in one city, but simultaneously boosted sirloin 18 cents in a large marketing area less than 150 miles away.

A New York supermarket chain which advertised frying chicken about seven cents a pound cheaper last week-end reported "practically a sell-out" and said it had to put the price back up seven to nine cents this week to pay for replacement stock.

Price movements in pork, lamb, eggs, butter were small and irregular, and reflected only local conditions.

Too Low for Farmers

In the produce departments, several vegetables were reported in the rockbottom price class at most places. These were headed by cabbage, fresh corn, snap beans and squash. "If they go lower the farmers won't bother bringing them to market," an Agriculture Department reporter said.

Plentiful new arrivals of topped carrots, celery, peppers, potatoes, onions and tomatoes hinted lower prices for those items by the week-end. Higher prices were expected for lettuce, mushrooms and strawberries.

The first Persian melons arrived in distant markets this week from California. Raspberries were expected to decline in price by next week in most places. Demand for peaches and cantaloupes was reported excellent and produce men said good cherries were about as cheap in most big cities as they'll get this season.

Plentiful Foods

The Agriculture Department stressed potatoes, lemons and limes as most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its special food index showed food retail prices in mid-June were three-tenths of one per cent lower than in mid-May, but 12 per cent above a year earlier. During the first two weeks of June there was no overall change, since increases for fish and eggs were offset by declines for poultry, fruits and vegetables, fats and oils.

The present level of red meat prices is helping stimulate demand for poultry meat, but chicken supplies have been climbing and probably will increase further in the next few months, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported.

"The short term outlook for large supplies of chicken is based on the expected continuation of the normal seasonal pattern of marketings of farm chickens, and the approach to marketing age of large number of broiler chicks placed since the first of May," a bureau report said.

Dairy Foods Up

In the nation's largest food market, New York, a survey of retail prices by the city Department of Markets showed that eggs this week were 31 per cent higher than a year ago, milk was up 23 per cent and butter 18 per cent. And nearly every other important food item of the 100 surveyed also showed increases. A major exception was pork—center cut pork chops were about 10 per cent cheaper. The department said its survey was based on the "most general" prices in the city—neither the top nor bottom prices found.

Wholesale food prices this week were at the lowest general level of the year to date, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index. At $6.92 it compared wtih $7.00 last week and $6.28 a year ago. The year's high so far was $7.31 on Feb. 20. The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each or 31 foods in general use.

Check Demonstrations Outside Red Building

United Nations, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—New York city police today investigated complaints of "Hooliganism" outside the Park avenue headquarters of the Russian delegation to the United Nations.

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik wrote U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin July 3 saying about 20 persons demonstrated there June 30. He said they shouted hostile remarks, scratched delegation limousines and accosted persons entering the building.

Acting Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin wrote Austin this week that a group of 60 to 80 persons repeated the demonstration last Saturday.

Both complaints said police failed to interfere.

Dr. Kalman Molnar said both demonstrations were staged by the Hungarian-American Foundation, of which he is district president, to call public attention to mass arrests in Communist Hungary.

He said the group shouted "the rope for Stalin" and "stop the deportations," booed Russians entering the building, but did not scratch cars or accost any of the Soviet staff.

Austin handed the complaints over to the police for investigation.

Dewey Visits Rice Farms

Tokyo, July 12 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, a farmer himself, today inspected rice and vegetable farms northeast of Tokyo for a first-hand glimpse of Japanese agriculture. Dewey operates a dairy farm at Pawling, N. Y. The Japanese farms he inspected were 20 miles from Tokyo in Saitama prefecture. He was accompanied by Ruutaro Nemoto, Japanese Minister of Agriculture.

On Tuesday night the budget for the ensuing year was approved and the district voted to discontinue the hiring of buses to transport students to school when the contract price for that service was increased close to $10,000. Wholesale food prices continued their gentle, months-long decline this week. But in the retail stores, again as in the past several weeks, there were few if any general reductions except on seasonally-abundant fresh fruits and vegetables.

Changes in red meat prices were almost entirely confined to temporary advertised specials designed to attract customers, and these followed no general pattern.

One big competitive chain slashed prime rib roasts one to three cents a pound for the coming week-end. Another chain announced an 18-cents a pound price cut on sirloin steak in one city, but simultaneously boosted sirloin 18 cents in a large marketing area less than 150 miles away.

A New York supermarket chain which advertised frying chicken about seven cents a pound cheaper last week-end reported "practically a sell-out" and said it had to put the price back up seven to nine cents this week to pay for replacement stock.

Price movements in pork, lamb, eggs, butter were small and irregular, and reflected only local conditions.

Too Low for Farmers

In the produce departments, several vegetables were reported in the rockbottom price class at most places. These were headed by cabbage, fresh corn, snap beans and squash. "If they go lower the farmers won't bother bringing them to market," an Agriculture Department reporter said.

Plentiful new arrivals of topped carrots, celery, peppers, potatoes, onions and tomatoes hinted lower prices for those items by the week-end. Higher prices were expected for lettuce, mushrooms and strawberries.

The first Persian melons arrived in distant markets this week from California. Raspberries were expected to decline in price by next week in most places. Demand for peaches and cantaloupes was reported excellent and produce men said good cherries were about as cheap in most big cities as they'll get this season.

Plentiful Foods

The Agriculture Department stressed potatoes, lemons and limes as most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its special food index showed food retail prices in mid-June were three-tenths of one per cent lower than in mid-May, but 12 per cent above a year earlier. During the first two weeks of June there was no overall change, since increases for fish and eggs were offset by declines for poultry, fruits and vegetables, fats and oils.

The present level of red meat prices is helping stimulate demand for poultry meat, but chicken supplies have been climbing and probably will increase further in the next few months, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported.

"The short term outlook for large supplies of chicken is based on the expected continuation of the normal seasonal pattern of marketings of farm chickens, and the approach to marketing age of large number of broiler chicks placed since the first of May," a bureau report said.

Dairy Foods Up

In the nation's largest food market, New York, a survey of retail prices by the city Department of Markets showed that eggs this week were 31 per cent higher than a year ago, milk was up 23 per cent and butter 18 per cent. And nearly every other important food item of the 100 surveyed also showed increases. A major exception was pork—center cut pork chops were about 10 per cent cheaper. The department said its survey was based on the "most general" prices in the city—neither the top nor bottom prices found.

Wholesale food prices this week were at the lowest general level of the year to date, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index. At $6.92 it compared wtih $7.00 last week and $6.28 a year ago. The year's high so far was $7.31 on Feb. 20. The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each or 31 foods in general use.

Check Demonstrations Outside Red Building

United Nations, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—New York city police today investigated complaints of "Hooliganism" outside the Park avenue headquarters of the Russian delegation to the United Nations.

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik wrote U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin July 3 saying about 20 persons demonstrated there June 30. He said they shouted hostile remarks, scratched delegation limousines and accosted persons entering the building.

Acting Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin wrote Austin this week that a group of 60 to 80 persons repeated the demonstration last Saturday.

Both complaints said police failed to interfere.

Dr. Kalman Molnar said both demonstrations were staged by the Hungarian-American Foundation, of which he is district president, to call public attention to mass arrests in Communist Hungary.

He said the group shouted "the rope for Stalin" and "stop the deportations," booed Russians entering the building, but did not scratch cars or accost any of the Soviet staff.

Austin handed the complaints over to the police for investigation.

Woman Is Missing After Boat Sinks

Norwalk, Conn., July 12 (AP)—The honeymooning wife of a New York jeweler was reported missing here today after the 28-foot cabin cruiser "At Ease" had foundered off the ledge known as Old Baldy in Long Island Sound.

The missing bride was identified by her husband as Mrs. Ben Gelber, 33, of 1680 York avenue, New York city.

The husband, Ben Gelber, proprietor of Gelber's Jewelry Exchange, 82 Bowery, New York, told police his wife was missing a short while before a resident of nearby Shenfield Island reported seeing the boat sink and hearing a woman scream.

State Police Trooper George Boston said that Gelber told this story:

The Gelbers had chartered the boat for a honeymoon trip from Frank Ward of Mamaroneck, N. Y., on July 1. Last night after putting in at the Rex Marine Basin here, Gelber complained of an earache. His wife advised him to go to a hospital and have it treated while she remained on the boat.

Gelber said he went to the hospital, had the ear treated and returned to the basin only to find his wife and the boat missing.

Gelber said that he remained at the basin until early today when he decided to call police. This he did from a phone near the pier.

According to Boston, Gelber's first words were "is my wife dead or alive?"

Shortly afterward the officer said, Edward Nolan of Sheffield Island reported the sinking of the cruiser.

Coast Guardsmen, who went to the scene, found two seat cushions and a life preserver marked with the name "At Ease." Preparations were made to use a plane from Bridgeport to search for the sunken craft.

Returns to Stand

Bridgeport, Conn., July 12 (AP)—Dr. Donald F. Gibson returned to the witness stand today to tell a Superior Court grand jury more about his relations with Miss Elizabeth M. Ayers, well-to-do Danbury spinster. Dr. Gibson, accused by a former coroner of having "cause or precipitated" Miss Ayres' death to get her property and become free to marry another woman, testified for almost two hours yesterday in his first appearance before the jury.

Housing Project Plans Await State Approval

Arthur A. Davis, Jr., chairman of the local housing authority, said today that the commission is awaiting word from the office of the New York State Division of Housing on preliminary plans for the Kingston low-rent housing project, which have been submitted.

The next move of the local authority is dependent upon state approval of the plans which were submitted by Architect Harry Halverson.

The authority has taken title to the land on which the 100-unit housing project will be built in the Flatbush avenue area.

Less Meat Eaten Early This Year

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Consumers ate less meat during the first half of this year than in the same period for 1950, according to the Agriculture Department.

A department report yesterday said slaughter records show that supplies averaged 1.4 pounds less for each consumer than they did a year ago.

In earlier estimates of livestock production, the department had predicted sufficient 1951 meat output to give consumer three pounds more than was available in 1950.

Iran Makes Move For U. S. Loan

Tehran, Iran, July 12 (AP)—Iran, hard-pressed financially because of her dispute with Britain over the vast Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, moved today to obtain a $25,000,000 loan from the United States Export-Import Bank.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh introduced a bill in the Majlis (Parliament) urging ratification of the loan, which was first discussed last September. At that time, Iranian officials and newspapers complained that the $25,000,000 was insufficient and far below economic assistance given other Communist menaced nations.

Mossadegh's government is now living on a hand-to-mouth budget because its oil royalties from the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Company stopped several weeks ago, when it passed the law to nationalize the oil industry.

Acceptance of the loan follows Mossadegh's decision of yesterday to accept President Truman's offer to send W. Averell Harriman, special presidential assistant, to Iran in an attempt to assist in settling the oil dispute.

Mossadegh also introduced a bill authorizing an internal bond issue to raise 2,000,000,000 rials (about $62,500,000) for governmental expenses.

42 More Aliens

New York, July 12 (AP)—Forty-two more aliens were seized yesterday as government agents continued a roundup of seamen suspected of entering the country illegally by jumping ship. Twenty-one seamen were seized in the Newark, N. J., area and the rest on the New York waterfront. The arrests by immigration and naturalization service officers raised to 178 the week's total in the New York harbor area. About 675 have been seized in the past month. Deportation proceedings will start soon. Most of those arrested are free in bond.

Will Use Air Fields

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The aid force announced today it will have the use of seven air fields in French Morocco, at the northwest corner of North Africa. Three bases are now under construction and preliminary work is under way at two others. In addition a command headquarters for strategic bombers will be set up at one coastal city and interim use of another base is provided.

Heinz Free Booklets on Vinegar, Chilled Soups

The H. J. Heinz Company announces the publication of two new booklets — Which Vinegar Shall I Use and Chilled Soups for Warm Weather Meals.

The first is an eight-page leaflet chock-full of information on the main types of vinegars, their uses, flavors and methods of manufacture.

The second publication is filled with recipes for taste-tempting iced and jellied soups. The ones included are all easy to prepare and they are cool and refreshing, perfect for summer entertaining, the home economics department of the company declares.

Readers of The Freeman, who desire free copies of these booklets, may send their requests to "Home Economics Department, H. J. Heinz Company, Box 57, Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

In top photo, Governor and Mrs. Youngdahl are seen re-enacting that proposal at St. Peter, Minn. Young Paul Youngdahl liked the idea so much that he used his own rowboat 32 years later to ask for the hand of Catherine Mary Martin. Writer Sues Mother Of Ginger Rogers For Red Accusation

Los Angeles, July 12 (AP)—Screen writer Emmett Lavery complains that Mrs. Lela Rogers said such uncomplimentary things about one of his plays that it was a complete loss to him—$1,000,000 worth.

Mrs. Rogers, mother of actress Ginger Rogers, is being sued for that amount, along with eight other because, Lavery contends, she accused him of being a Communist during a radio broadcast she made in 1947.

Lavery's lawyer, Max Fink, said in his opening statement to the jury yesterday that he will prove the playwright's works are "staunch Americana."

The play in question, called "The Gentleman from Athens" was so maligned by Mrs. Rogers that it died," Fink declared.

The slander suit arose from a radio debate in which Lavery and Mrs. Rogers were on opposing sides. The topic was: "Is there really a Communist menace in Hollywood?"

Lavery charges that Mrs. Rogers said on the radio: "The Communists in Hollywood are busy as termites and the Screen Writers Guild, of which Mr. Lavery is president, is loaded with them."

The inference, Lavery contends, greatly damaged his reputation and also the play.

A jury of 10 women and two men was selected yesterday. Both, attorney and Mrs. Rogers' questioned prospective jurors closely as to their attitude toward Communists and Communism.

Also defendants to the suit are the writer-producer Morris Ryskind, film producer Robert Arthur, novelist Ayn Rand and her husband, Frank O'Connor, and the estates of producer James McGuinness and Sam Wood, all on the ground that they helped Mrs. Rogers prepare her material. Other defendants are the American Broadcasting Company and Town Hall, Inc.

Publishers Are Accused of Being Unfair to Stores

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Six of the nation's biggest book publishers have been accused by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) of unlawfully giving book clubs an unfair advantage over retail stores.

Two of the firms promptly denied it, one said it was studying FTC's complaint and three declined comment.

The commission complaint, issued last night, said it has reason to think anti-monopoly and fair trade laws have been violated and that it started proceedings "to determine whether the publishers' alleged practices are illegal."

The companies were allowed 20 days in which to answer. A commission hearing was called for Sept. 10.

The commission said such clubs as the Book of the Month Club and the Literary Guild benefited from what it said was a practice of the six companies of leasing some printing plates and of allowing the clubs to sell at lower prices than the fixed minimum retail levels.

In New York, a Simon and Schuster attorney said the firm takes the position it has not violated any law or fair trade practice. A. Milton Runyon, executive vice president of Doubleday & Co. at Garden City, L. I., N. Y., issued a similar denial.

Harper and Brothers and Random House, both of New York, and Houghton Mifflin Co. of Boston declined comment. An official of the sixth firm, Little Brown & Co., of Boston, said the firm was studying the complaint.

In the first room West took three top clubs and then led a diamond. Declarer put up the ace of diamonds, got to his hand with the ace of hearts, and led the queen of spades.

West naturally covered with the king of spades, and dummy took the ace. Declarer next cashed the king and queen of hearts to get rid of his losing diamond. Then he led a trump to his jack, only to discover that he still had to lose a trump trick. Down one.

In the second room the defense began in the same way. West took his three top clubs and then led a diamond. South put up dummy's ace of diamonds and then got to his hand with the ace of hearts for a trump play. But he didn't lead the queen of spades.

The second declarer made the key play by leading the ten of spades. West had to play his king, of course, but now the situation was quite clear. It was obvious to South that West wouldn't dream of playing the king of spades if he had any other spades in his hand. Therefore it was perfectly safe to win the first trump with dummy's ace and then return the low trump from dummy to finesse through East's nine.

For the purpose of finessing, the ten of spades was every bit as useful as the queen. For the purpose of discovering the complete trump situation, the ten was a great deal better than the queen.

Four Burn to Death In Car Hit by Truck

Bridgeport, N. J., July 12 (AP)—Four members of a Rhode Island family, two of them small children, burned to death last night in their car which had been rammed by a truck and set aflame by explosion of a gasoline tank.

A 15-year-old girl, fifth passenger in the automobile, was thrown clear of the blazing wreckage, but suffered serious burns.

The crash occurred at the entrance to the Bridgeport-Chester, flames shooting upward 30 feet as a spare gasoline tank on the big tractor-trailer exploded, trapping the four victims.

In Underwood Hospital, Woodbury, N. J., June McBride, of Hopkington, Mass., told authorities those killed were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Karch and their daughters, Deborah, 5, and Susan, 3, of (19 Hornet Avenue) East Greenwich, R. I.

She said the Karches had been visiting her parents in Massachusetts and were taking her to an aunt in Annapolis, Md.

The truck, owned by the Kent Transfer Company, Elkton, Md., was driven by Michael Sharick, Elkton, who was not seriously hurt. Police said Sharick told them the brakes failed to hold as he moved into the line at the ferry toll gates.

London, July 12 (AP)—A head-on collision between two trains on Britain's version of the Toonerville Trolley killed a woman and injured 11 other persons at a Festival of Britain carnival last night. Harriman to Try Rescue of Iran Oil Situation

Washington, July 12 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman will leave for Iran in a day or so to see whether there is any possibility of salvaging an Anglo-Iranian settlement out of a situation which most officials here regard as little short of desperate.

The White House announced late yesterday that President Truman's diplomatic trouble shooter would leave within 48 hours; Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh had accepted Mr. Truman's offer to send Harriman out to discuss the dispute over oil nationalization.

Highly placed officials said Harriman will carry no instructions that would serve as a magic key to end the impasse and restore harmonious Iranian-British relations. Instead, they said, Harriman's initial task will be to try to determine whether there is any possibility of working out an arrangement at this late date.

The most hopeful thing about the mission, it was said, is the fact that he will be what diplomatic authorities call a "new element" in the situation. A fresh viewpoint, a different personality, a man with Harriman's prestige and special relationship to the President may perhaps turn up an approach which no one else could have opened. That at least is official Washington's hope.

Grady to Retire

In the meantime it was learned from wholly reliable sources that Henry F. Grady, U. S. ambassador to Iran, is retiring and will be succeeded in six or eight weeks by Ambassador Loy Henderson, present envoy to India. Henderson is considered to be one of the nation's best qualified career diplomats for middle eastern service.

Actually however, in responsible quarters of the American government there is considerably more pessimism than hope. The dispute, which Russia has helped to aggravate when possible through the Communistic Tudeh party inside Iran, is regarded here as having aroused bitterly nationalistic feelings in both Iran and Britan.

This poses a spiny problem for the U. S. in its middle-man role. If the row should reach the point where oil production stopped and economic ruin threatened to throw the Iranians into the lap of communism, the U. S. might have to decide whether to try to man and run the oil fields denied to Britain.

Opens Feed Office

C. H. Padgham, former assistant Ulster county agricultural agent, has opened a feed dealership office at 113 North Front street, at the rear of McSpirit Motors. Padgham, who has obtained the local franchise for Ralston Purina Company, producers of poultry and livestock feed, for the present will keep the office open from 8 to 10 a. m. daily and all day Saturday. He will be on the road the remaining time. Free delivery service is offered, and Padgham plans to establish a regular delivery route in the near future.

Health Is Blamed

Paris, July 12 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol's office announced today that Premier Henri Queuille has refused to succeed himself for reasons of health. He resigned Tuesday as a part of the formality of organizing a new government in the wake of the June 17 elections. Queuille had been premier four months. He is a member of the middle-of-the-road Radical Socialist party and led a coalition of center parties in the government.

Pay Boost Asked For U. S. Workers

Washington, July 12 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to vote a seven per cent "across the board" pay increase for the government's postal and civil service workers.

Mr. Truman said the present emergency "demands prompt and adequate adjustment of federal compensation levels as a practical matter so that the government may continue to attract and retain skilled employes of the highest competence."

The President made his request in identical letters to Senator Olin D. Johnston (D.-S. C.) and Rep. Murray (D.-Tenn.), chairmen of the Post Office and Civil Service committees of the Senate and House.

Mr. Truman said that in general pay scales in the higher ranks of federal employment are too low in relation to the lower grades. He added:

"I urge most strongly that any increase enacted be on an across the board percentage basis rather than on a uniform dollar or sliding scale basis, so that disproportionately lower adjustments for the middle and upper grades may be avoided."

Harriman to Try Rescue of Iran Oil Situation

Washington, July 12 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman will leave for Iran in a day or so to see whether there is any possibility of salvaging an Anglo-Iranian settlement out of a situation which most officials here regard as little short of desperate.

The White House announced late yesterday that President Truman's diplomatic trouble shooter would leave within 48 hours; Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh had accepted Mr. Truman's offer to send Harriman out to discuss the dispute over oil nationalization.

Highly placed officials said Harriman will carry no instructions that would serve as a magic key to end the impasse and restore harmonious Iranian-British relations. Instead, they said, Harriman's initial task will be to try to determine whether there is any possibility of working out an arrangement at this late date.

The most hopeful thing about the mission, it was said, is the fact that he will be what diplomatic authorities call a "new element" in the situation. A fresh viewpoint, a different personality, a man with Harriman's prestige and special relationship to the President may perhaps turn up an approach which no one else could have opened. That at least is official Washington's hope.

Grady to Retire

In the meantime it was learned from wholly reliable sources that Henry F. Grady, U. S. ambassador to Iran, is retiring and will be succeeded in six or eight weeks by Ambassador Loy Henderson, present envoy to India. Henderson is considered to be one of the nation's best qualified career diplomats for middle eastern service.

Actually however, in responsible quarters of the American government there is considerably more pessimism than hope. The dispute, which Russia has helped to aggravate when possible through the Communistic Tudeh party inside Iran, is regarded here as having aroused bitterly nationalistic feelings in both Iran and Britan.

This poses a spiny problem for the U. S. in its middle-man role. If the row should reach the point where oil production stopped and economic ruin threatened to throw the Iranians into the lap of communism, the U. S. might have to decide whether to try to man and run the oil fields denied to Britain.

He will be on the road the remaining time. Free delivery service is offered, and Padgham plans to establish a regular delivery route in the near future.

To Probe Bridge Fire

Newark, N. J., July 12 (AP)—Traffic on the Pennsylvania Railroad's main line between Newark and New York moved at a snail's pace today over the fire-wracked Hackensack river drawbridge. A five-mile-per-hour speed limit was in force on the span as a safety measure although both long distance and local traffic were approaching normal following yesterday's five-hour blaze. At a late hour last night, Fire Chief William Wandras of nearby Kearny said he had appealed to the FBI to investigate the fire. He said its origin was "suspicious." The 296-foot bridge—described by railroad men as 'the busiest two-track span on earth"—caught fire at about 1 p. m. (EST). It is located about six miles from New York and four miles from Newark.

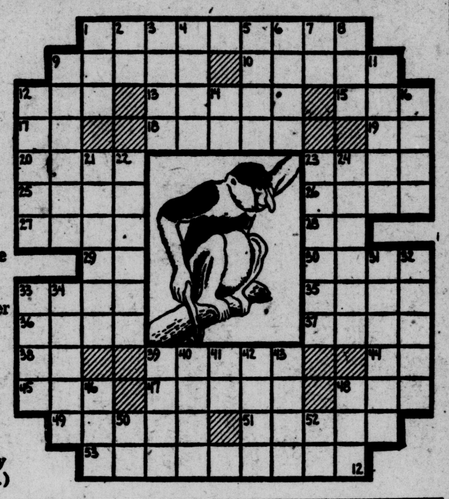
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Plans for Giant Carrier Are Under Way by Navy

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The navy hopes to have laid shortly the keel of its giant carrier of radically new design, and already there is unofficial speculation that one or two more of the craft may be built.

So far, that is no more than talk in navy circles. Congress would have to authorize any navy proposal to construct more than one of the super carriers.

The craft about to be started will have a disappearing "island," or superstructure, which will enable it to handle big planes capable of carrying atomic bombs.

The navy probably will sign a contract or issue a letter of intent—a preliminary form of contract—to a shipbuilding firm within the next ten days for the first carrier. Cost of the 60,000-ton ship is estimated around $235,000,000.

The craft may be named the James Forrestal after the first secretary of defense.

Pilgrimage Near End

Ste. Anne De Beaupre, Que., July 12 (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman and 300 American pilgrims planned visits to nearby Orleans and other historic sites today before returning home. The group has just completed a three-day pilgrimage to this St. Lawrence river shrine.

EAT WELL for Less

COOL OFF WITH ICED COFFEE

ICED COFFEE is a real tonic for wilting spirits.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

All iced coffee starts with good strong hot coffee, remember. I asked Ellen Saltenstall of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau for the top know-how. Here's her tonic answer. There are two ways to prepare it:

Pre-Cooled Method

Make coffee regular strength—one standard coffee measure (or its equivalent, two level measuring tablespoonsful) of coffee to each three-quarters of a measuring cup of freshly drawn water.

Cool in a non-metallic container for not more than three hours, or, if the container is tightly covered, chill in refrigerator. Serve in tall glasses with ice, adding simple syrup or sugar and cream to taste.

Quick Method—and the One We Like Best

Make coffee double strength, by using half the amount of water to the usual amount of coffee. Pour hot over ice cubes in tall glasses.

The extra strong coffee allows for the dilution caused by the melting syrup or sugar and cream to taste.

Coffee Float
(5 servings)

One and one-half cups cold double-strength coffee, 1 cup light cream, few grains salt, ½ cup sugar syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 pint coffee ice cream.

Combine coffee, cream, salt, sugar syrup and vanilla. Pour into tall glasses; add scoop of coffee ice cream to each glass.

Coffee-Colas

Fill tall glasses with ice. Pour double-strength coffee over ice, filling glasses 1/3 full. Add cola, filling glasses to top. Garnish with twists of lemon peel.

Iced Coffee Valencia

Dilute one can concentrated quick-frozen orange juice as directed on can; pour into ice cube tray; freeze; place cubes in tall glasses. Fill glasses with hot, double-strength coffee. Add one drop almond extract to each glass; stir gently to mix.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe with blueberries, scrambled eggs, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, toasted peanut butter sandwiches, radishes, canned applesauce, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Creamed tuna and peas on rice, buttered carrots, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, watercress and cucumber salad, French dressing, lemon meringue pie, iced coffee, milk.

Indictments Returned Against 3 for Holdups

New York, July 12 (AP)—A first degree robbery indictment was returned by the Bronx grand jury yesterday against three men alleged to have been responsible for about 12 holdups in Bronx grocery and liquor stores since April.

The indictment named Anthony Lanzo, 25, of 2363 Southern Boulevard; Vincent Liguori, 21, same address, and Paul Peluso, 18, of 2295 Crotona avenue, the Bronx.

Informed that the three had been indicted, Magistrate Ambrose J. Haddock in Bronx Magistrate's Court dismissed charges pending against them there.

Detectives of the Bronx Park Station arrested the men on July 2 on the specific charge of robbing John Malkonian of $97 in his grocery store at 175 East Gun Hill road, the Bronx, on June 30.

Tossed Green Salad

Make use of escarole, as well as lettuce, in a tossed green salad. This crisp and delicious green is an excellent source of vitamin A, the food nutrient that helps prevent respiratory diseases.

A three-to-four-pound piece of corned beef will need about three hours' cooking. Cover the beef with water and simmer slowly, do not boil, until tender.

To Probe Bridge Fire

Newark, N. J., July 12 (AP)—Traffic on the Pennsylvania Railroad's main line between Newark and New York moved at a snail's pace today over the fire-wracked Hackensack river drawbridge. A five-mile-per-hour speed limit was in force on the span as a safety measure although both long distance and local traffic were approaching normal following yesterday's five-hour blaze. At a late hour last night, Fire Chief William Wandras of nearby Kearny said he had appealed to the FBI to investigate the fire. He said its origin was "suspicious." The 296-foot bridge—described by railroad men as 'the busiest two-track span on earth"—caught fire at about 1 p. m. (EST). It is located about six miles from New York and four miles from Newark.

Ruth E. Hasbrouck, Woodstock, Is Wed To LeRoy W. O'Brien

Woodstock, July 12—Miss Ruth Elizabeth Hasbrouck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, this village, and LeRoy Wesley O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley O'Brien, Glenford, were married Sunday, July 8, at 2 p. m., with the Rev. Charles L. Wharton of the Woodstock Methodist Church officiating.

Traditional organ selections were played by Miss Marlene Moore of Glenford, while Mrs. Alfred Nussbaum of West Hurley sang Because, and I Love Thee. A wide, rose covered archway against a hemlock background was arranged for the ceremony, which took place in the garden of the bride's home.

Mr. Hasbrouck gave his daughter in marriage. She wore an imported white Swiss organdy floor-length gown, designed with a horseshoe neckline, short full sleeves, and a bouffant skirt trimmed with tiny Val lace. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a seed pearl headpiece, and she wore short mitts. Her bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley, and ivy.

The bride's attendant was Miss Audrey Sherriff of Glenford, who was dressed in a light green organdy floor-length gown, with a matching sash, and an ivy headband. Miss Sherriff carried a garden hat filled with shasta daisies and ivy. Carol McCormack as flower girl was dressed in a long yellow organdy gown, and carried a basket of garden flowers.

John C. Port of Kingston was best man. Richard Sutton and William Gray, both of Glenford, ushered.

A reception for 125 guests followed in the Hasbrouck garden. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien then left for a tour of the Adirondacks, and New England. The bride wore a brown shantung dress for traveling, with a white eyelet embroidery jacket, white accessories, and a yellow rose corsage. The couple will make their temporary home with the bride's family.

Mrs. O'Brien was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '46, and from the Moran-Spencerian School of Business, Kingston. She is an employe of the Upstate Loan Company, Kingston.

Mr. O'Brien is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '46, and is owner of the Mohican Auto Express. He served for two years with the U. S. Army.

Period Clocks in Reproduction

Retired Mailman Turns Leisure Time Into Making Clocks

There aren't many men, we're willing to bet, who can make an authentic period-piece "grandfather clock" out of a tuneless and discarded piano, or from an old, knocked-down bed. And, by the same token, there aren't many men with the patience, having once made one, to go ahead and piece out, carve, and refinish a half-dozen more.

The only man we know of with this remarkable hobby is C. Augustus Raschke of 29 Shufeldt street, a retired letter carrier (he started working in the Kingston post office as a substitute before the turn of the century in 1895), an enthusiastic hobbyist, and a collector.

Mr. Raschke first began making his clocks about 20 years ago, after visiting a friend who had also made one.

"I figured if he could do it, why so could I." And, turning his talents to cabinet work, he did.

That first clock, like a discarded relic, is in the Raschke basement now.

Couldn't Get Parts

"You see," Mr. Raschke explains, "when World War 2 broke out, I couldn't get any more works from the American Chime and Clock Co., in Philadelphia because the works I was using were made abroad. But at that particular time I needed a set of works, because I was making a new clock for a wedding present."

Of the four tall, Federal-design clocks in the Raschke home, the newest, and one of the loveliest, is made from bird's eye maple. It, like its mahogany twin on the other wall, was once a piano. Beneath the piano's dark veneer, Mr. Raschke unearthed light, smooth maple. If you open the fitted door in the clock's long base, you can still see part of the original sounding board. The clock's simple face is carved out of ivory from the piano's keys.

Designs a Mixture

Mr. Raschke's designs are a thorough mixture. They are partially dictated by the material he has on hand. Sometimes he deviates from the conventional blueprint which come with each set of works, to follow "my own idiosyncrasy." Many of his ideas come from that faithful standby, Wallace Nutting's Clock Book.

Mr. Raschke, who his wife describes as "one of those people who never seem to get tired," can fix almost anything, from a broken chair, to a lamp or a clock. Very little is wasted in the Raschke's newly painted home. The library table, for instance, started out in life as a pair of carved piano legs. Although left over from one of the "clock pianos," they were still much too handsome to be thrown out.

Always Busy

Although he isn't in the throes of building a new clock at present, the veteran letter carrier is still a busy man. He wants to refinish the bird's-eye maple beauty which stands in the corner of his living room, and he's fixing over one of those antique rarities, a clock with wooden parts. He's also contemplating with a gleam in his eye, some new designs in Nutting's book.

Stamp collecting, Mr. Raschke's other hobby, also keeps him busy. Oddly enough, all the years he was working in the post office, he never showed much interest in stamps. It wasn't until 1928, when the Colonial City Stamp Club started up, that he began his first collections. Now, through the Ki Wi Club, he corresponds with other stamp enthusiasts spread from Java to Germany. But that is, in itself, another story.

Elizabeth Page Engaged to Wed

Woodstock, July 12—Dr. and Mrs. Harold Rugg of this village and New York have announced the engagement of Mrs. Rugg's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Perkins Page, to John Tyler Miller of East Setauket, L. I., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willard Miller of East Setauket.

Miss Page was graduated from the Woodstock Country School, Woodstock, Vt., and attended Vassar College, Poughkeepsie. She is now a student at Reed College, Portland, Ore. She is the daughter of David Perkins Page, Mamaroneck, and the granddaughter of Mrs. David Perkins Page, and the late Mr. Page, Newburyport, Mass., and of Mr. and Mrs. William Delancy, Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. Miller is a graduate of the Woodstock Country School, and is a student at Grinnel College, Grinnell, Ia. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tyler Miller, Detroit, Mich., and the late Dean Herbert Edwin Hawkes of Columbia College, and Mrs. Hawkes.

French Artist Joins Playhouse Staff; Is Student of Picasso

Jean Laurain is a good looking young Frenchman, with eloquent hands, eager eyes, and a rapid tongue. To the average American, the years behind him seem as fabulous as his enthusiasm is catching.

When Jean Laurain arrived in Woodstock two weeks ago, he was the answer to a lot of people's prayers. The apprentices hammering busily away in the playhouse barn needed a man with his sort of energy, and technical know-how. John Macgregor was very capable when it came to designing, and the apprentices equally so about building, but it takes a professional like Jean to paint a set.

Judging from the gleam in his eye, Jean had a lot of fun with this week's creation for A Sound of Hunting. Some of the most difficult effects, like the broken, jagged stage walls, were achieved with the aid of burlap, sandbags, and two pounds of tissue paper.

"Some sets," Jean explained yesterday during an interview on the playhouse's comparatively cool back steps, "should be very simple. Others should be made to carry out the message of the play. That is what we did this week . . . we tried to carry out the play's dynamic message."

"One thing you must never forget," he added, fingering a fistful of king sized brushes," a set has a terrific reaction on the actors."

No Newcomer

Jean is no newcomer to either the theatre, or the art world. His work runs the gamut from set designing, through murals and sculpture. A graduate of L'ecole des Arts et Metiers, he also studied at the Paris art Mecca, La Grande Chaumiere. In his native France he worked with men like Picasso and Christian Berard.

Questioned about Picasso he describes him as "a nice guy, very human, and very dynamic. He may be 90 or 100 but he's young always, because he has a capacity to grow."

Jean, before coming to this country two years ago (since his arrival he has married, and is now the proud father of a son, Jeannot) traveled extensively. He has visited every country in the world except Russia, and has even seen the upper reaches of the Nile. In 1939, he was a member of the French army. In 1940 he was discharged. His homeland's disastrous war with Germany over, he returned to the south of France where he had lived prior to Poland's invasion. Before long, like many another young Frenchman, he was a member of the resistance movement.

Learns Seamanship

Jean Laurain treats the next four years of his life with great economy and understatement. His own feats, he feels, were "really very simple." They began when a group of his underground friends gave him a book on seamanship. He studied the book, learned its lessons, and shipped with a Nazi crew plying the Mediterranean. The eve of the Allied invasion in Africa found him in Casablanca. Later he was able to reach London, and a much needed month's rest. The next few years he traveled wherever Free French interests carried him. It was during those later years he came to America. Now he intends to make this country his home. Asked why, he smiles and shrugs. "I like it."

The young Frenchman has covered a good deal of theatre territory during the past two years. He's painted scenery for The King and I, A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, and Mister Roberts' second company. He's done work for New York's Ballet Theatre, and for the Metropolitan Opera. A versatile young man, he's even invaded, brush in hand, moviedom and the TV channels.

Marriage Announced

Woodstock, July 12 — Mrs. Chester F. Gaede of Euclid, O., the former Jean Lasher of Woodstock, announces the marriage of her sister, Eileen, to John C. Powers, June 12. The ceremony was performed in Sparta, Mich., at the home of the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gaede attended the couple.

Mr. Powers is a graduate of Michigan State College, and is now managing the flight school at Cook Cleland Airport, Willoughby, O. Mr. and Mrs. Powers will make their home at 13 Erie street, Willoughby.

TWO-PURPOSE TOPPER—This novelty black Summer hat serves two purposes. Self-sustaining untrimmed crown becomes evening turban-cloche when garlanded brim is removed.

SERIOUS WAR AFTERMATH

A worried wife writes: "When a husband loses a leg in the war, is it necessary to tell everybody? Isn't just telling them he was injured sufficient? That's all I've done because I thought maybe my husband would be sensitive about it when he came home. But my sister thinks I should tell people the extent of the injuries."

It is not necessary to go into detail but I do think it is best to say that your husband lost his leg and trust that friends will have tact enough not to speak about it when they see him.

Accommodations for Relatives

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it acceptable to put relations up in the houses of neighbors and friends who offer rooms for them? Could these out-of-town people feel that we should have taken accommodations for them in the hotel?

Answer: You should give your appreciative thanks to the neighbors, but it would be much better for everyone concerned to put them in the hotel.

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a firm be addressed when a woman's name is the name of the company? It is also well known that there are men connected with it.

Answer: Dear Madam:

Ruth E. Hasbrouck, Woodstock, Is Wed To LeRoy W. O'Brien

Woodstock, July 12—Miss Ruth Elizabeth Hasbrouck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, this village, and LeRoy Wesley O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley O'Brien, Glenford, were married Sunday, July 8, at 2 p. m., with the Rev. Charles L. Wharton of the Woodstock Methodist Church officiating.

Traditional organ selections were played by Miss Marlene Moore of Glenford, while Mrs. Alfred Nussbaum of West Hurley sang Because, and I Love Thee. A wide, rose covered archway against a hemlock background was arranged for the ceremony, which took place in the garden of the bride's home.

Mr. Hasbrouck gave his daughter in marriage. She wore an imported white Swiss organdy floor-length gown, designed with a horseshoe neckline, short full sleeves, and a bouffant skirt trimmed with tiny Val lace. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a seed pearl headpiece, and she wore short mitts. Her bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley, and ivy.

The bride's attendant was Miss Audrey Sherriff of Glenford, who was dressed in a light green organdy floor-length gown, with a matching sash, and an ivy headband. Miss Sherriff carried a garden hat filled with shasta daisies and ivy. Carol McCormack as flower girl was dressed in a long yellow organdy gown, and carried a basket of garden flowers.

John C. Port of Kingston was best man. Richard Sutton and William Gray, both of Glenford, ushered.

A reception for 125 guests followed in the Hasbrouck garden. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien then left for a tour of the Adirondacks, and New England. The bride wore a brown shantung dress for traveling, with a white eyelet embroidery jacket, white accessories, and a yellow rose corsage. The couple will make their temporary home with the bride's family.

Mrs. O'Brien was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '46, and from the Moran-Spencerian School of Business, Kingston. She is an employe of the Upstate Loan Company, Kingston.

Mr. O'Brien is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '46, and is owner of the Mohican Auto Express. He served for two years with the U. S. Army.

Period Clocks in Reproduction

Retired Mailman Turns Leisure Time Into Making Clocks

There aren't many men, we're willing to bet, who can make an authentic period-piece "grandfather clock" out of a tuneless and discarded piano, or from an old, knocked-down bed. And, by the same token, there aren't many men with the patience, having once made one, to go ahead and piece out, carve, and refinish a half-dozen more.

The only man we know of with this remarkable hobby is C. Augustus Raschke of 29 Shufeldt street, a retired letter carrier (he started working in the Kingston post office as a substitute before the turn of the century in 1895), an enthusiastic hobbyist, and a collector.

Mr. Raschke first began making his clocks about 20 years ago, after visiting a friend who had also made one.

"I figured if he could do it, why so could I." And, turning his talents to cabinet work, he did.

That first clock, like a discarded relic, is in the Raschke basement now.

Couldn't Get Parts

"You see," Mr. Raschke explains, "when World War 2 broke out, I couldn't get any more works from the American Chime and Clock Co., in Philadelphia because the works I was using were made abroad. But at that particular time I needed a set of works, because I was making a new clock for a wedding present."

Of the four tall, Federal-design clocks in the Raschke home, the newest, and one of the loveliest, is made from bird's eye maple. It, like its mahogany twin on the other wall, was once a piano. Beneath the piano's dark veneer, Mr. Raschke unearthed light, smooth maple. If you open the fitted door in the clock's long base, you can still see part of the original sounding board. The clock's simple face is carved out of ivory from the piano's keys.

Designs a Mixture

Mr. Raschke's designs are a thorough mixture. They are partially dictated by the material he has on hand. Sometimes he deviates from the conventional blueprint which come with each set of works, to follow "my own idiosyncrasy." Many of his ideas come from that faithful standby, Wallace Nutting's Clock Book.

Mr. Raschke, who his wife describes as "one of those people who never seem to get tired," can fix almost anything, from a broken chair, to a lamp or a clock. Very little is wasted in the Raschke's newly painted home. The library table, for instance, started out in life as a pair of carved piano legs. Although left over from one of the "clock pianos," they were still much too handsome to be thrown out.

Always Busy

Although he isn't in the throes of building a new clock at present, the veteran letter carrier is still a busy man. Petticoats Back In Fashion Again

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

New York, July 12 (AP)—The rustling, flirtatious petticoats of grandmother's day are with us again, as even the most ardent devotees of blue jeans and bobby sox soon will be aware.

No less a designer than Jane Derby, noted for elegance and conservative good taste, is showing full-skirted suits for fall, accompanied by petticoats not only beruffled and stiffened with horsehair hems but also quilted.

A sensation of her collection, shown today to the visiting fashion press, is a suit of mauve tweed with plum velvet collar and cuffs. The skirt flares like a morning glory at the bottom and there is petticoat of plum-colored quilted satin, designed to peek out in a beguiling manner when the wearer mounts a high step or crosses her knees.

Startling after a year of straight-line, skin-tight skirts, the new silhouette may be all to the good. It may make girls study up on the feminine arts and graces once more, learn how to swish a petticoat and flirt a fan and stop borrowing all the clothes from their brothers' wardrobes.

Petticoats Go With All

While most designers are showing one or two full-skirted suits for fall, Mrs. Derby shows a majority of her styles with flaring hemlines and makes petticoats to go with all of them.

Also in today's fashion lineup was Christian Dior, the Parisian credited with fathering the "new look" of several years ago. Dior now appears to prefer the pared-down look, showing suits with skirts still straight and narrow and even deserting his beloved hip-padding. He does, however, achieve a rounded feminine line in suits by means of pockets, peplums and such, and keeps the shoulders in natural dimensions.

This year Dior calls it the "arched silhouette"—and it's all done without benefit of pads, bones or hidden girders.

Stone Ridge Library Completes Fair Plans

Final plans have been completed for the Stone Ridge library fair, scheduled for Saturday, July 21, from 2 to 6 p. m., it was announced today. The fair is the only fund raising project the community employs to maintain library service.

Latest recruits to help staff tables at the fair are Mrs. Leon Chambers and Mrs. Larry Bogert, assisting Mrs. Kenneth Davenport at the quality table; Mrs. Clarence Miller, Mrs. William Schwarz, Mrs. William Mills and Mrs. William Larsen, assisting Mrs. William Strong at the refreshment table; Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt and Miss Alberta Davis, assisting Mrs. Charles Walden, Jr., at the miscellaneous table.

The library committee has urged that all articles for donation be left at the library with the librarian as soon as possible. The library is open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 3 to 5, and 7 to 9 p. m.

Miss Katherine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge, past president of the library's board of trustees, will preside as hostess during the fair.

Petticoats Back In Fashion Again

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

New York, July 12 (AP)—The rustling, flirtatious petticoats of grandmother's day are with us again, as even the most ardent devotees of blue jeans and bobby sox soon will be aware.

No less a designer than Jane Derby, noted for elegance and conservative good taste, is showing full-skirted suits for fall, accompanied by petticoats not only beruffled and stiffened with horsehair hems but also quilted.

A sensation of her collection, shown today to the visiting fashion press, is a suit of mauve tweed with plum velvet collar and cuffs. The skirt flares like a morning glory at the bottom and there is petticoat of plum-colored quilted satin, designed to peek out in a beguiling manner when the wearer mounts a high step or crosses her knees.

Startling after a year of straight-line, skin-tight skirts, the new silhouette may be all to the good. It may make girls study up on the feminine arts and graces once more, learn how to swish a petticoat and flirt a fan and stop borrowing all the clothes from their brothers' wardrobes.

Petticoats Go With All

While most designers are showing one or two full-skirted suits for fall, Mrs. Derby shows a majority of her styles with flaring hemlines and makes petticoats to go with all of them.

Also in today's fashion lineup was Christian Dior, the Parisian credited with fathering the "new look" of several years ago. Dior now appears to prefer the pared-down look, showing suits with skirts still straight and narrow and even deserting his beloved hip-padding. He does, however, achieve a rounded feminine line in suits by means of pockets, peplums and such, and keeps the shoulders in natural dimensions.

This year Dior calls it the "arched silhouette"—and it's all done without benefit of pads, bones or hidden girders.

Stone Ridge Library Completes Fair Plans

Final plans have been completed for the Stone Ridge library fair, scheduled for Saturday, July 21, from 2 to 6 p. m., it was announced today. The fair is the only fund raising project the community employs to maintain library service.

Latest recruits to help staff tables at the fair are Mrs. Leon Chambers and Mrs. Larry Bogert, assisting Mrs. Kenneth Davenport at the quality table; Mrs. Clarence Miller, Mrs. William Schwarz, Mrs. William Mills and Mrs. William Larsen, assisting Mrs. William Strong at the refreshment table; Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt and Miss Alberta Davis, assisting Mrs. Charles Walden, Jr., at the miscellaneous table.

The library committee has urged that all articles for donation be left at the library with the librarian as soon as possible. The library is open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 3 to 5, and 7 to 9 p. m.

Miss Katherine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge, past president of the library's board of trustees, will preside as hostess during the fair.

Rotary President Dykstra Discusses 'Ideal of Service'

Presiding as president of the Kingston Rotary Club for the first time at the luncheon Wednesday, the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra in a forceful message discussed Rotary's program of fostering the "Ideal of Service" and its application by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life and also the Rotary motto, "Service Above Self."

In his initial remarks as presiding officer of the local service club, the newly elected president paid tribute to retiring President James P. Byrne and called upon E. Frank Flanagan to make the presentation in connection with a gift. Flanagan referred to the interest and activity manifested by the retiring president and recalled the days when the past president's father was similarly active in Rotary.

Joseph J. Morgan offered a resolution for the Rotary Club to join in a movement to bring about the ultimate release of William N. Oatis, Associated Press reporter, who is now a prisoner of Communistic Czechoslovakia. Following the unanimous adoption of the resolution, he was assigned to express the club's sentiment to the Marion, Indiana Club, the hometown of the imprisoned newspaperman.

Program Chairman John Henry Martin outlined proposed activities for the year.

Announcement was made that the Board of Directors will meet on Tuesday.

Visiting Rotarians were present from Los Angeles, Perth Amboy, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

Would Exempt Utilities

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—The State Public Service Commission urged Congress today to exempt public utilities from any retroactive provisions in the pending federal tax bill. PSC Chairman Benjamin F. Feinberg said any retroactive tax would make it "extremely difficult" for the commission to establish rates now that would be fair to the public and the utilities.

French Plane Crashes

Paris, July 12 (AP)—A French army transport plane crashed today just after taking off from an airport at Gao in French West Africa, killing eight persons and injuring nine others, the French news agency said. Gao is 1,200 miles east of Dakar.

GERMAN ENVOY — After a 10-year lapse, diplomatic relations between the U. S. and Germany were formally re-established with the arrival in Washington of Hein L. Krekeler, newly-appointed charge d'affairs for the West German Republic. Since Germany is still an occupied country, Krekeler can not have the title of ambassador or minister.

The house will be occupied as a summer home by Mr. and Mrs. James Judge, Bryn Athyn, Pa., son-in-law and daughter of the Raymond Pitcairns. The work of laying up the brick and stone-block sidewalls of the big Onteora schoolhouse is coming along good. Several local men are employed on this job.

Mr. and Mrs. Stirling Baker and daughter, Anne, of Kingston were callers here Sunday. Stirling is an extensive collector of books and his wife is interested in historical and genealogy research.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Monaco of Brooklyn have bought a building lot of the Benjamin VanSteenburghs. He is a grandson of Emma Holden who resides in the rapidly developing VanSteenburgh Lane section of Shokan.

Birthdays falling Sunday, July 15, include that of Mrs. Roy Ransom, High Falls woman who was born and brought up in the Tongore sector of Olive. The former Ida Mae Bishop moved to High Falls from Binghampton 28 years ago. A member of the Stone Ridge Methodist Church, she belongs to the WSCS and has been church organist for many years. The Ransoms have two daughters, Mrs. Edmond O'Hara and Mrs. Robert Hornbeck, both of High Falls.

Morton Hendrickson, mountain road farmer who enlisted in the armed forces last winter has received his air force wings following completion of a course at a school in Kentucky. Morton reportedly has been assigned to a station in Wisconsin.

FALSE TEETH
- That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Rotary President Dykstra Discusses 'Ideal of Service'

Presiding as president of the Kingston Rotary Club for the first time at the luncheon Wednesday, the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra in a forceful message discussed Rotary's program of fostering the "Ideal of Service" and its application by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life and also the Rotary motto, "Service Above Self."

In his initial remarks as presiding officer of the local service club, the newly elected president paid tribute to retiring President James P. Byrne and called upon E. Frank Flanagan to make the presentation in connection with a gift. Flanagan referred to the interest and activity manifested by the retiring president and recalled the days when the past president's father was similarly active in Rotary.

Joseph J. Morgan offered a resolution for the Rotary Club to join in a movement to bring about the ultimate release of William N. Oatis, Associated Press reporter, who is now a prisoner of Communistic Czechoslovakia. Following the unanimous adoption of the resolution, he was assigned to express the club's sentiment to the Marion, Indiana Club, the hometown of the imprisoned newspaperman.

Program Chairman John Henry Martin outlined proposed activities for the year.

Announcement was made that the Board of Directors will meet on Tuesday.

Visiting Rotarians were present from Los Angeles, Perth Amboy, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

Would Exempt Utilities

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—The State Public Service Commission urged Congress today to exempt public utilities from any retroactive provisions in the pending federal tax bill. PSC Chairman Benjamin F. Feinberg said any retroactive tax would make it "extremely difficult" for the commission to establish rates now that would be fair to the public and the utilities.

French Plane Crashes

Paris, July 12 (AP)—A French army transport plane crashed today just after taking off from an airport at Gao in French West Africa, killing eight persons and injuring nine others, the French news agency said. Gao is 1,200 miles east of Dakar.

GERMAN ENVOY — After a 10-year lapse, diplomatic relations between the U. S. and Germany were formally re-established with the arrival in Washington of Hein L. Krekeler, newly-appointed charge d'affairs for the West German Republic. Since Germany is still an occupied country, Krekeler can not have the title of ambassador or minister.

Colonials Will Open Series in Oneonta With New Player-Manager

John Sosh, Ex-Ogdensburg Skipper, Due To Start First Game; Is Power Hitter

The Colonials hit the road tonight under a brand new playing manager—John Sosh—of the late Border League, with high hopes of becoming a factor in the second round of the Can-Am League race.

A veteran minor league star with a power-hitting reputation, Sosh, a 32-year-old catcher, officially took over the reins from Sam Piacentino about 5 p. m. yesterday.

A few hours later the Colonials ran into a classic pitching performance by Gloversville's rugged Gul Coleman to suffer a 6-0 shutout. Sosh appeared on the coaching lines but did not play. He had expressed a desire to watch the club for one game from the bench.

Power Hitter

Sosh's signing brings to Kingston an established long ball hitter, who was leading the Border League with 12 round trippers, and a player of valuable experience.

Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. officials expressed themselves as highly pleased with Sosh. New player help is also expected in the next few days, particularly in the pitching department and perhaps a left handed hitting outfielder.

Sosh led the border league in batting with a robust .348 in 1950. He showed a good slugging percentage with 29 doubles, six triples and 26 home runs, only two

Member of four pennant winning clubs in four different classifications, he has the championship touch and is expected to lift the Colonials by the bootstraps.

A native of Reading, Pa., Sosh is married but has no children.

Long Career

He broke into organized ball with Rocky Mount, N. C., in 1936 and has since played in the Southern League, International League with Montreal; Texas, Piedmont, Southeastern, Florida State. He was manager at Daytona Beach in the Florida State; played in Grand Rapids in the Central circuit; Hazelton, Scranton and Elmira in the Eastern; Durham, N. C.

Sosh, who has no off season trade, says he expects to make managing a lifetime job. His baseball career was interrupted by the war and he served four years in the air force.

He played with pennant winning teams at Scranton in the Eastern League; Durham, N. C., in 1941; Mobile of the Southern Association in 1947 and Montgomery of the Southern in 1948. He also played in the Dixie series and won a playoff title with Ogdensburg.

There isn't a finer pitcher in the Can-Am League than Guy Coleman of the Glovers when he is right. The veteran had it last night and came up with the classic pitching performance of the season, two-hitter in which the two safeties were spaced in the first and ninth innings.

Coleman, who racked up his ninth victory of the season, yielded a leadoff single to Joel Kern, a clean hit to right, and then didn't allow another safety until Sam Piacentino blooped one over shorstop with two out in the ninth.

The Glover ace struck out 10 and walked four. Tony Piacente, the Mighty Mite of the Colonial staff, pitched commendably for eight innings and left the game trailing 3-0.

When Jack Ormison relieved Piacente in the ninth after the southpaw had bowed out for a pinch hitter, the roof fell in. Big Jack faced only six men, walked three and three hit safely before Sam Piacentino came in from left field to stop the rally.

Coleman had only one bad inning—the sixth—when Kingston loaded the bases on two walks and a catcher's error with two out. Piacentino then lined sharply to Manager Barillari in left field.

The Colonials meet the powerful Oneonta Red Sox in a two game set tonight and Friday, then return to municipal stadium to open a four-day stand against Pittsfield and Oneonta.

Saturday night's contest will be followed by fireworks.

The Scoreboard

(By The Associated Press)

Major League baseball, after taking time out for three days to settle the annual All-Star game, swings back into action today with most of the interest centered on four teams battling for the American League lead.

The next two weeks in the American race will go a long way toward settling the pennant, and the Chicago White Sox, Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians well know it.

Boston, one game back of the leading White Sox, tackles Chicago in the main dish as hostilities resume with a twi-night doubleheader at Comiskey Park. Chicago has a 14-game home stand, meeting all four of the Eastern clubs on their western tour.

The other top drawer attraction is a night game at Cleveland, where the New York Yankees hope to get back on the victory trail after their disastrous experience at Boston where they dropped three straight last week-end. New York is two games behind Chicago, while the Indians are four.

Dodgers vs. Cubs

Meanwhile, the high-stepping Brooklyn Dodgers, riding on an eight and one-half game edge over the second place New York Giants in the National loop, open a 12-game home stand. The Chicago Cubs, beaten seven times in 11 games this year by the Bums, start the Ebbets Field festivities tonight.

Over in the Polo Grounds, the Giants are prepared to defend their second place against the St. Louis Cardinals in an afternoon encounter. The Cards are in third, one game back of the Giants.

Boston's Red Sox, moving at a torrid clip of late, plan to send Mel Parnell (10-5) and Leo Kieley (1-0) against the White Sox in the first games of their four-game series. The teams clash again Friday night and Saturday afternoon. Chicago has Saul Rogovin (5-4) and Joe Dobson (6-3) ready to shoot at Boston, and the management looks for a crowd of some 50,000 for the opening fireworks.

The White Sox have won 7 of 11 games from Boston this year, four out of five in Comiskey Park.

Allie for Yanks

Allie Reynolds (9-5) is the Yankee hurling choice against the Indians' Booby Feller (12-2). New York's pitching staff is shaky, and the once great Joe DiMaggio is riding the bench with torn tendons behind his left knee. Joe was forced to skip the All-Star game, and may be out 10 days or more.

The Indians and Yankees have played 15 games this year, and Cleveland has won eight. Cleveland also entertains the other three eastern clubs in a 13-game home stand, then moves east July 24 to start the whole thing over again in Yankee Stadium. After departing Cleveland, New York has a pair of three-game series at Detroit and Chicago; then winds up the trip with four at St. Louis.

Ralph Branca (7-2) has been assigned the Brooklyn hurling chore against Paul Minner (4-7) of the Cubs tonight.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

Major League baseball, after taking time out for three days to settle the annual All-Star game, swings back into action today with most of the interest centered on four teams battling for the American League lead.

The next two weeks in the American race will go a long way toward settling the pennant, and the Chicago White Sox, Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians well know it.

Boston, one game back of the leading White Sox, tackles Chicago in the main dish as hostilities resume with a twi-night doubleheader at Comiskey Park. Chicago has a 14-game home stand, meeting all four of the Eastern clubs on their western tour.

The other top drawer attraction is a night game at Cleveland, where the New York Yankees hope to get back on the victory trail after their disastrous experience at Boston where they dropped three straight last week-end. New York is two games behind Chicago, while the Indians are four.

Dodgers vs. Cubs

Meanwhile, the high-stepping Brooklyn Dodgers, riding on an eight and one-half game edge over the second place New York Giants in the National loop, open a 12-game home stand. The Chicago Cubs, beaten seven times in 11 games this year by the Bums, start the Ebbets Field festivities tonight.

Over in the Polo Grounds, the Giants are prepared to defend their second place against the St. Louis Cardinals in an afternoon encounter. The Cards are in third, one game back of the Giants.

Boston's Red Sox, moving at a torrid clip of late, plan to send Mel Parnell (10-5) and Leo Kieley (1-0) against the White Sox in the first games of their four-game series. The teams clash again Friday night and Saturday afternoon. Chicago has Saul Rogovin (5-4) and Joe Dobson (6-3) ready to shoot at Boston, and the management looks for a crowd of some 50,000 for the opening fireworks.

The White Sox have won 7 of 11 games from Boston this year, four out of five in Comiskey Park.

Allie for Yanks

Allie Reynolds (9-5) is the Yankee hurling choice against the Indians' Booby Feller (12-2). New York's pitching staff is shaky, and the once great Joe DiMaggio is riding the bench with torn tendons behind his left knee. Joe was forced to skip the All-Star game, and may be out 10 days or more.

The Indians and Yankees have played 15 games this year, and Cleveland has won eight. Cleveland also entertains the other three eastern clubs in a 13-game home stand, then moves east July 24 to start the whole thing over again in Yankee Stadium. After departing Cleveland, New York has a pair of three-game series at Detroit and Chicago, then winds up the trip with four at St. Louis.

Ralph Branca (7-2) has been assigned the Brooklyn hurling chore against Paul Minner (4-7) of the Cubs tonight.

Beicherts Win 12th Straight City Softball League Contest

Rout Barclays, 20-0 To Stay Unbeaten

Scoring runs in a fashion that resembled your favorite blonde's telephone number, the undefeated Beichert's extended their City Softball League winning streak to 12 straight with a resounding 20 to 0 pasting of the hapless Barclay Knitwear.

Conversely, it was the 12th straight setback for the cellar occupants.

Joe Enright pitched four-hit ball and his teammates made it a romp for him with 20 hits, including a homer by Joe Woods and three hits each by Joe Fautz and Form Coughlin.

American Legion choked off a Hoppey rally at three runs in the seventh, then pushed across the winning marker in the bottom half of the frame to win, 7 to 6.

The victory kept the Legion in second place, a game and a half behind the pace-setting Beicherts.

Bob Sickler walked to open the Legion seventh, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on Angie Corrado's two-out single. Mike Milano homered for the Legion and Corrado had a triple in addition to his game-winning single.

Subway Grill notched its eighth victory in a dozen games, overpowering Central Lunch, 10 to 4, with a five-run fifth inning.

Joe Amato scattered eight hits and breezed through the last four innings after Subways went ahead, 5-4, in the fourth. Central Lunch's reversible battery of Hyatt and Scheffel yielded only seven hits but Ken Hornbeck's base-clearing triple proved the big blow of the game.

Sickler's Delivery put all their eggs in one basket but it was enough to shade Chez Emile, 4 to 3, to keep the Deliverymen in fourth place.

Jack Kozlowski pitched five scoreless innings, before Chezzies picked two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh. The winners scored four times in the second off Ben Freer. Both pitchers gave up seven hits. Bud Smith, "Wing" Mahoney and George Glaser each hit safely twice.

Races, Fireworks At Rhinebeck Track

Thrills and speed should be at a premium Saturday night at Rhinebeck Speedway, when a large field of United pilots meet during eight events of stock car racing. Sparks and smoke from battered fenders will get underway at 8:30 p. m. with the crash buggies and after the final 25-lap feature ends, the long awaited fireworks display goes on.

Bright sparkling ground props and various aerial bombs of the latest designs have been on Rhinebeck's bill of fare and postponed since June 12. This Saturday night, however, fans will get to see the fireworks.

A large entry list of the fastest cars and foremost drivers in the east will provide plenty of racing thrills throughout all eight events and fans will see their favorites back in action.

Prices have not been increased for this special program at Rhinebeck Saturday night.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Speculation centering around the eventual winner of the Father Herdegen Memorial golf tournament, an exacting 54-hole test over the Twaalfskill, Woodstock and Wiltwyck layouts, is bound to furnish considerable controversy among the county's golfing gentry.

Bill Van Aken, the reigning city and Wiltwyck champion; Alvin Boice, the dogged match game competitor who sports the Twaalfskill crown; and Leon Randall, ex-Wiltwyck kingpin, will have strong support.

George Hughes, the sweet-swinging Twaalfskill young star who rates as the "Sam Snead" of local golf, will have plenty of backers. And you can't overlook such tried and tested performers as Roy Vogt and Maurice Davenport of Wiltwyck. Dick Davenport, if he is around, will be a threat.

Woodstock's home contingent of big Allen Waterous, Boyer Gonzales and Frank McCahill rate serious consideration. J. Watson Bailey, perhaps the hottest and most consistent golfer of the Wiltwyck season, could win it with a couple of good days. Ditto for the long-hitting Clarence "Dubby" Raichle. The Ellenville contingent headed by Frank Bilyeu, Carroll Schipp, Jr., and Frank Eck is small but sturdy.

Public response to our proposal for such a tournament to honor one of the grandest persons ever to trod an Ulster county fairway has been overwhelming and gratifying. We think it will be a great tournament and furnish a tremendous lift to competitive golf in the area.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Leon Randall has indicated his recovery of a razor-sharp touch with a record-equalling 67 open play at Wiltwyck. This tied the competitive mark for an amateur set by Bill Van Aken in championship play against Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., who never tires of telling how he played about a dozen straight holes of par golf and either halved or lost the holes. Think No. 7 hole at Wiltwyck is a tough par-4 hole? Then, how about Bill Costello, who works just across the way, clipping it for an eagle-2 and cracking 80 for the first time in his career with a neat 75! As one wag remarked, Dr. John Larkin plays only in fast company on the golf courses and Dr. Douw S. Meyers will assure you that the old doc can be pretty rough when you least expect it.

Hoax of the Week: Two judges and sports writer took Fritz Bruhn to Woodstock for one of this friendly outings last week. You know the routine, stroke a hole for a poor duffer just to make it a match. Alas, the poor duffer shoots a net 34 on the back nine and a judge and sports writer are extremely embarrassed by the proceedings.

Quip of the Week: "Are you scoring any birdies these days?" the caddie needled Harold Van Aken.

"Only those I'm shooting with my BB gun," cracked Harold, who can always come up with the right barb.

Wiltwyck members make their annual trek to beautiful Williamstown, Mass., on Sunday. Williamstown is a beautiful, scenic layout where pars don't come cheaply. "Leafy" LeFevre, who has had a few bad days of recent vintage, clouted an iron shot among the trees bordering the approach to No. 9 hole at Twaalfskill. As yet, the ball has not come down to earth, believe it or not. Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Squire, is on an exhibition tour through the middle west. Twaalfskill has a big member-guest tournament coming up on August 4.

Danny The Duffer: A long putt on the 18th green brings them back the next time, even when they wouldn't reveal the actual score to their wife.

Layne Choice Over Marciano

New York, July 12 (AP)—Rex Layne and Rocky Marciano, each hopeful of injecting young blood into the heavyweight championship picture, trade punches tonight in what promises to be 10 rounds or less of real slugging at Madison Square Garden.

A shot at the heavyweight title awaits the winner and the man who make the betting odds figure it'll be Layne. He is the 8½ to 5 choice.

The experts like Layne because of the caliber of opponents he has met. They like the way the chunky, aggressive youngster outgamed ageing Jersey Joe Wolcott and came off the floor to stop hard-hitting Bob Satterfield.

Marciano, a crude fighter with a fair left and a power right, has been fighting on the New England circuit since his surprise split decision over previously undefeated Roland La Starza in the Garden a year ago last March.

Both fighters have trained to a fine edge. Layne was expected to weigh in today at 192 pounds and Marciano seven pounds lighter or thereabouts. There will be no home television or radio broadcast.

Play Begins Today

Schenectady, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—The New York State Junior and Boys' tennis championships got underway today with 16 first-round junior singles matches. The junior division is comprised of boys between 16 and 18. Boys under 16 play in the boys' division.

Clair Bee, Other Quintet Coaches Highly Impressed

Features of the new Kaye Sportwair DXL basketball divided the spotlight with sessions of the eastern basketball all clinic held last week in Woodridge.

Lou Kantrowitz, of the local uptown store, met with Clair Bee, basketball coach of Long Island University, and explained some of the features of the new ball.

According to Kantrowitz, arrangements are practically completed for Bee to personally represent Kaye Sportwair in the national introduction of the new DXL ball.

Bee and several other famous court coaches were impressed with the handling and unusual playing qualities of the ball and later placed orders for the 1951-52 season.

Besides the LIU cage mentor, Kantrowitz conferred with Everett Cast of North Carolina State and Ky Loeffler and all expressed interest in the new ball.

Also while at the Woodridge clinic, Kantrowitz talked with Eddie Gottlieb of the Philadelphia Warriors who lectured on the finer points of the game. Gottlieb formerly operated the Philly Sphas. Another well-known pro cager, Mac Kinsbrunner, who is now the resident manager of the Concord Hotel, also attended the clinic.

Kantrowitz also announced today that Bunny Leavitt, known as the greatest exhibition foul shot in the nation, will use the DXL ball in his exhibitions throughout the country.

Turnesa, Billows and Ribner Eliminated In State Amateur Golf Tourney Upsets

White Plains, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—Only defending champion Mike Dudik of Endicott and three-time winner Tommy Goodwin of Rye were left from the pre-tournament favorites as the New York State Amateur Golf championship swung into the quarter-final round today at the Knollwood Country Club.

Willie Turnesa, Ray Billows and Lloyd Ribner, who ranked along with Dudik and Goodwin as favorites at the start of play Monday, were knocked out of running in one of yesterday's two rounds.

The four semi-finalists play 36 holes tomorrow with the two survivors going into Saturday's 36-hole championship round.

Dudik came close to missing today's action and for a while he was out of it as Bob Kumtz, of Larchmont, his eventual victim was listed as the winner, 1 up, after 18 holes.

Both had come to the seventeenth and halved that hole and the next. Before they teed off for eighteenth, however, tournament officials announced Dudik had been penalized on the seventeenth for grounding his practice swings in a hazard.

After lengthy discussion, followed by a trip to the spot in question, the officials reversed themselves, and the match picked up all even on the nineteenth. Dudiq and Kuntz went five holes before Dudik won it on the 23rd with a birdie four.

The day's major upset came in the second round when Larry Murphy of the Yahnudais Club, Utica, knocked off Turnesa, former U. S. and British champ, 1 up, in 20 holes. Murphy, who lives in Charlotte, N. C., but retains his Utica club membership, is becoming something of the sentimental favorite of the tournament, for his endurance if nothing else.

In upsetting Turnesa, Murphy had to come from behind four times to down the Walker Cup team captain. Down two as Turnesa got birdie three on the tenth and 12th, Murphy held on with successive birdie threes on the next two holes. He lost the 16th going one over par but evened it again with a birdie on the following hole.

They halved the 18th and 19th and Murphy ended matters on the 20th, sinking a 25-foot putt for his final birdie.

Billows, seven-time winner of this title, was eliminated by 20-year-old Jerry Cole of White Plains, 5 and 4, and Ribner was upset by 20-year-old Paul Kelly of Scarborough, 2 up.

Beicherts Win 12th Straight City Softball League Contest

Rout Barclays, 20-0 To Stay Unbeaten

Scoring runs in a fashion that resembled your favorite blonde's telephone number, the undefeated Beichert's extended their City Softball League winning streak to 12 straight with a resounding 20 to 0 pasting of the hapless Barclay Knitwear.

Conversely, it was the 12th straight setback for the cellar occupants.

Joe Enright pitched four-hit ball and his teammates made it a romp for him with 20 hits, including a homer by Joe Woods and three hits each by Joe Fautz and Form Coughlin.

Beichert's	4	4	5	0	2	1	—	20
Barclay Knitwear	0	0	0	0	—	0	4	5

Joe Enright and Walt Matheus; Art Carpouzis and Phil Mandel.

American Legion choked off a Hoppey rally at three runs in the seventh, then pushed across the winning marker in the bottom half of the frame to win, 7 to 6.

The victory kept the Legion in second place, a game and a half behind the pace-setting Beicherts.

Bob Sickler walked to open the Legion seventh, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on Angie Corrado's two-out single. Mike Milano homered for the Legion and Corrado had a triple in addition to his game-winning single.

Hoppey's	0	1	1	0	0	1	3—6	7	1
Legion	0	0	3	1	0	2	1—7	7	2

Andy Lewis and Mickey Edwards; Bill Ferguson and Mike Milano.

Subway Grill notched its eighth victory in a dozen games, overpowering Central Lunch, 10 to 4, with a five-run fifth inning.

Joe Amato scattered eight hits and breezed through the last four innings after Subways went ahead, 5-4, in the fourth. Central Lunch's reversible battery of Hyatt and Scheffel yielded only seven hits but Ken Hornbeck's base-clearing triple proved the big blow of the game.

Sickler's Delivery put all their eggs in one basket but it was enough to shade Chez Emile, 4 to 3, to keep the Deliverymen in fourth place.

Jack Kozlowski pitched five scoreless innings, before Chezzies picked two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh. The winners scored four times in the second off Ben Freer. Both pitchers gave up seven hits. Bud Smith, "Wing" Mahoney and George Glaser each hit safely twice.

Races, Fireworks At Rhinebeck Track

Thrills and speed should be at a premium Saturday night at Rhinebeck Speedway, when a large field of United pilots meet during eight events of stock car racing. Sparks and smoke from battered fenders will get underway at 8:30 p. m. with the crash buggies and after the final 25-lap feature ends, the long awaited fireworks display goes on.

Bright sparkling ground props and various aerial bombs of the latest designs have been on Rhinebeck's bill of fare and postponed since June 12. This Saturday night, however, fans will get to see the fireworks.

A large entry list of the fastest cars and foremost drivers in the east will provide plenty of racing thrills throughout all eight events and fans will see their favorites back in action.

Prices have not been increased for this special program at Rhinebeck Saturday night.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Speculation centering around the eventual winner of the Father Herdegen Memorial golf tournament, an exacting 54-hole test over the Twaalfskill, Woodstock and Wiltwyck layouts, is bound to furnish considerable controversy among the county's golfing gentry.

Bill Van Aken, the reigning city and Wiltwyck champion; Alvin Boice, the dogged match game competitor who sports the Twaalfskill crown; and Leon Randall, ex-Wiltwyck kingpin, will have strong support.

George Hughes, the sweet-swinging Twaalfskill young star who rates as the "Sam Snead" of local golf, will have plenty of backers. And you can't overlook such tried and tested performers as Roy Vogt and Maurice Davenport of Wiltwyck. Dick Davenport, if he is around, will be a threat.

Woodstock's home contingent of big Allen Waterous, Boyer Gonzales and Frank McCahill rate serious consideration. J. Watson Bailey, perhaps the hottest and most consistent golfer of the Wiltwyck season, could win it with a couple of good days. Ditto for the long-hitting Clarence "Dubby" Raichle. The Ellenville contingent headed by Frank Bilyeu, Carroll Schipp, Jr., and Frank Eck is small but sturdy.

Public response to our proposal for such a tournament to honor one of the grandest persons ever to trod an Ulster county fairway has been overwhelming and gratifying. We think it will be a great tournament and furnish a tremendous lift to competitive golf in the area.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Leon Randall has indicated his recovery of a razor-sharp touch with a record-equalling 67 open play at Wiltwyck. This tied the competitive mark for an amateur set by Bill Van Aken in championship play against Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., who never tires of telling how he played about a dozen straight holes of par golf and either halved or lost the holes. Think No. 7 hole at Wiltwyck is a tough par-4 hole? Then, how about Bill Costello, who works just across the way, clipping it for an eagle-2 and cracking 80 for the first time in his career with a neat 75! As one wag remarked, Dr. John Larkin plays only in fast company on the golf courses and Dr. Douw S. Meyers will assure you that the old doc can be pretty rough when you least expect it.

Hoax of the Week: Two judges and sports writer took Fritz Bruhn to Woodstock for one of this friendly outings last week. You know the routine, stroke a hole for a poor duffer just to make it a match. Alas, the poor duffer shoots a net 34 on the back nine and a judge and sports writer are extremely embarrassed by the proceedings.

Quip of the Week: "Are you scoring any birdies these days?" the caddie needled Harold Van Aken.

"Only those I'm shooting with my BB gun," cracked Harold, who can always come up with the right barb.

Wiltwyck members make their annual trek to beautiful Williamstown, Mass., on Sunday. Williamstown is a beautiful, scenic layout where pars don't come cheaply. "Leafy" LeFevre, who has had a few bad days of recent vintage, clouted an iron shot among the trees bordering the approach to No. 9 hole at Twaalfskill. As yet, the ball has not come down to earth, believe it or not. Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Squire, is on an exhibition tour through the middle west. Twaalfskill has a big member-guest tournament coming up on August 4.

Danny The Duffer: A long putt on the 18th green brings them back the next time, even when they wouldn't reveal the actual score to their wife.

Layne Choice Over Marciano

New York, July 12 (AP)—Rex Layne and Rocky Marciano, each hopeful of injecting young blood into the heavyweight championship picture, trade punches tonight in what promises to be 10 rounds or less of real slugging at Madison Square Garden.

A shot at the heavyweight title awaits the winner and the man who make the betting odds figure it'll be Layne. He is the 8½ to 5 choice.

The experts like Layne because of the caliber of opponents he has met. They like the way the chunky, aggressive youngster outgamed ageing Jersey Joe Wolcott and came off the floor to stop hard-hitting Bob Satterfield.

Marciano, a crude fighter with a fair left and a power right, has been fighting on the New England circuit since his surprise split decision over previously undefeated Roland La Starza in the Garden a year ago last March.

Both fighters have trained to a fine edge. Layne was expected to weigh in today at 192 pounds and Marciano seven pounds lighter or thereabouts. There will be no home television or radio broadcast.

Clair Bee, Other Quintet Coaches Highly Impressed

Features of the new Kaye Sportwair DXL basketball divided the spotlight with sessions of the eastern basketball all clinic held last week in Woodridge.

Lou Kantrowitz, of the local uptown store, met with Clair Bee, basketball coach of Long Island University, and explained some of the features of the new ball.

According to Kantrowitz, arrangements are practically completed for Bee to personally represent Kaye Sportwair in the national introduction of the new DXL ball.

Bee and several other famous court coaches were impressed with the handling and unusual playing qualities of the ball and later placed orders for the 1951-52 season.

Besides the LIU cage mentor, Kantrowitz conferred with Everett Cast of North Carolina State and Ky Loeffler and all expressed interest in the new ball.

Also while at the Woodridge clinic, Kantrowitz talked with Eddie Gottlieb of the Philadelphia Warriors who lectured on the finer points of the game. Gottlieb formerly operated the Philly Sphas. Another well-known pro cager, Mac Kinsbrunner, who is now the resident manager of the Concord Hotel, also attended the clinic.

Kantrowitz also announced today that Bunny Leavitt, known as the greatest exhibition foul shot in the nation, will use the DXL ball in his exhibitions throughout the country.

Turnesa, Billows and Ribner Eliminated In State Amateur Golf Tourney Upsets

White Plains, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—Only defending champion Mike Dudik of Endicott and three-time winner Tommy Goodwin of Rye were left from the pre-tournament favorites as the New York State Amateur Golf championship swung into the quarter-final round today at the Knollwood Country Club.

Willie Turnesa, Ray Billows and Lloyd Ribner, who ranked along with Dudik and Goodwin as favorites at the start of play Monday, were knocked out of running in one of yesterday's two rounds.

The four semi-finalists play 36 holes tomorrow with the two survivors going into Saturday's 36-hole championship round.

Dudik came close to missing today's action and for a while he was out of it as Bob Kuntz, of Larchmont, his eventual victim was listed as the winner, 1 up, after 18 holes.

Both had come to the seventeenth and halved that hole and the next. Before they teed off for eighteenth, however, tournament officials announced Dudik had been penalized on the seventeenth for grounding his practice swings in a hazard.

After lengthy discussion, followed by a trip to the spot in question, the officials reversed themselves, and the match picked up all even on the nineteenth. Dudiq and Kuntz went five holes before Dudik won it on the 23rd with a birdie four.

The day's major upset came in the second round when Larry Murphy of the Yahnudais Club, Utica, knocked off Turnesa, former U. S. and British champ, 1 up, in 20 holes. Murphy, who lives in Charlotte, N. C., but retains his Utica club membership, is becoming something of the sentimental favorite of the tournament, for his endurance if nothing else.

In upsetting Turnesa, Murphy had to come from behind four times to down the Walker Cup team captain. Down two as Turnesa got birdie three on the tenth and 12th, Murphy held on with successive birdie threes on the next two holes. He lost the 16th going one over par but evened it again with a birdie on the following hole.

They halved the 18th and 19th and Murphy ended matters on the 20th, sinking a 25-foot putt for his final birdie.

Billows, seven-time winner of this title, was eliminated by 26-year-old Jerry Cole of White Plains, 5 and 4, and Ribner was upset by 20-year-old Paul Kelly of Scarborough, 2 up.

DOG-LEG—The topographical layout of most courses makes mastering a right to left hook shot a necessity. (NEA)

Twenty-seventh of a series by members of the P. G. A.

By E. J. (DUTCH) HARRISON
Former Canadian Open Champion

The main difference between a good golfer and a poor one is that the more proficient performer can place his shots just where he wants them most of the time.

Dutch Harrison

There are natural hazards, such as trees.

Dog-leg holes often prove to be a real headache, since they require the player to bend a shot.

A good player will play a hook or a slice, whereas the vast majority will have to sacrifice a shot to get around the obstacle, or try a lucky shot.

These lucky shot should have no place in the game, for more often than not fortune will not smile.

I would like to discuss the proper manner in which the player should go about playing a hook shot that bends from right to left.

The most important consideration is the manner in which you set your feet when addressing the ball. The stance is closed.

The ball should be lined up almost opposite the right foot. It is imperative to have the ball in position to receive impact at the earliest possible moment and be in contact with the club face as long as posible.

The backswing involve an alteration of changing from an upright swing to a flatter plane. The deviation is accomplished by turning the right hip away from the ball as you start the backswing. Thus, you bring the club back more abruptly and in a flatter plane than normally is the case.

Take the club as far as you can to generate power.

The downswing is going to be changed, too. As you start the club down, turn the body around to face the ball. This will cause you to pull the clubhead through with the left side and arm. Keep the club out from the body and as you come through the ball, let your wrists roll over.

Thus, as you give the ball impetus, you are causing it to spin to the left while still aloft.

NEXT: Dutch Harrison tells more about the hook.

DOG-LEG—The topographical layout of most courses makes mastering a right to left hook shot a necessity. (NEA)

Twenty-seventh of a series by members of the P. G. A.

By E. J. (DUTCH) HARRISON
Former Canadian Open Champion

The main difference between a good golfer and a poor one is that the more proficient performer can place his shots just where he wants them most of the time.

Dutch Harrison

There are natural hazards, such as trees.

Dog-leg holes often prove to be a real headache, since they require the player to bend a shot.

A good player will play a hook or a slice, whereas the vast majority will have to sacrifice a shot to get around the obstacle, or try a lucky shot.

These lucky shot should have no place in the game, for more often than not fortune will not smile.

I would like to discuss the proper manner in which the player should go about playing a hook shot that bends from right to left.

The most important consideration is the manner in which you set your feet when addressing the ball. The stance is closed.

The ball should be lined up almost opposite the right foot. It is imperative to have the ball in position to receive impact at the earliest possible moment and be in contact with the club face as long as posible.

The backswing involve an alteration of changing from an upright swing to a flatter plane. The deviation is accomplished by turning the right hip away from the ball as you start the backswing. Thus, you bring the club back more abruptly and in a flatter plane than normally is the case.

Take the club as far as you can to generate power.

The downswing is going to be changed, too. As you start the club down, turn the body around to face the ball. This will cause you to pull the clubhead through with the left side and arm. Keep the club out from the body and as you come through the ball, let your wrists roll over.

Thus, as you give the ball impetus, you are causing it to spin to the left while still aloft.

NEXT: Dutch Harrison tells more about the hook.

Red Guns, Not Writers Halted Korean Parley

Tokyo, July 12 (AP)—It wasn't the correspondents. It was Communist guns barring the way to a United Nations truck that halted cease-fire talks in Korea.

The UN command broke off armistice negotiations after Red guards tried to cull one truck out of an allied convoy of 17 vehicles headed for Kaesong, the conference site.

The truck carried 20 newsmen. The fact the correspondents wanted to get to Kaesong to report armistice discussions was only incidental. They were an "integral part of the United Nations command delegation."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN commander, told the Communists that yesterday through Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, his chief delegate at the cease-fire talks.

The basic issue was: Who has the right to say who can enter Kaesong?

Is There Equal Basis

Are the Reds "playing host" at armistice talks, as some Communist newspapers have boasted? Or are the two parties on an equal basis?

Ridgway and Joy left no question how they feel about it.

The UN isn't going to play second fiddle at the peace talks, as some commentators have suggested they were doing.

Red propaganda has been trying to develop the second fiddle idea, and to imply that the U.N., and especially the United States, were coming to the Reds asking for peace.

They haven't used the word "surrender." They put it, as the Red Koreans' Pyongyang radio did yesterday: "American peace overtures are an indication that the country has lost the war in Korea."

Communist propaganda took the view that it was a Red show. A Hong Kong Communist newspaper said: "We named the place, made all the necessary preparations" and directed and guided the UN delegation when it reached Kaesong.

Reds Won't Say

Maybe so. But the Reds are not going to say who is to be on the delegation, nor what that delegation's task shall be.

That is the point at issue.

Ridgway said the presence of professional newsmen "at a conference of such major importance to the entire world is considered an inherent right by members of the United Nations."

And, unable to get the Reds to agree voluntarily to the presence of correspondents, Ridgway announced he was going to exercise that right.

He made the newsmen "an integral part of the United Nations command delegation."

Tried to Dictate

The Communists knew that when they halted the press truck today. They were, in effect, trying to say who could be in the UN delegation.

Well, they can't.

Joy underscored that when he told the chief Red delegate, Gen. Nam Il that UN negotiators would return when the Reds guaranteed—"that my convoy, bearing the personnel of my choosing, including such press representation as I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

The 20 correspondents who tried to enter Kaesong today for the principle of a free press are only emblematic of the real reason the conferences have come to a stalemate.

Only 27 Bombers Ready for Atomic War if It Comes

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Some House members were reported greatly surprised today at testimony that the nation's fleet of giant B-36 bombers (a) numbers only 87 and (b) may already be obsolete.

Legislators said air force officials testified at a closed session of the Armed Services Committee yesterday that it has just 27 of the huge intercontinental bombers ready to strike atomic counterblows in event of war.

Some House members had apparently believed the number ran into several hundred. An air force official was quoted as saying another 65 are in the process of being modernized for jet-assisted takeoffs.

The air force said it had ordered or received delivery of a total of 170 B-36s. Deliveries were halted for a time to change over from all piston type engines to a combination of four jet and six piston engines.

Other committee members, also asking not to be named, said current model atom bombs may be considerably smaller — although more powerful—than the bulky models used in World War II.

If that is true, they speculated, smaller and less expensive planes than the $3,500,000 B-36s might be used to deliver the bombs.

The B-36 went into production in 1941.

House Stands Pat On Cutting Jobs

Washington, July 12 (AP)—The House stood pat today in its insistance that as a general rule only one out of every four vacancies in federal jobs be filled during this fiscal year.

It sent back to a Senate-House conference the $2,510,000,000 Labor Department-federal security appropriation bill with instructions to its conferees to insist on retaining the job-cutting plan in the final version.

The Senate had junked the House proposal in favor of one of its own, and Senate-House conferees recommended that the House provision, known as the Jensen amendment, be left out of the bill.

The Jensen amendment, sponsored by Rep. Jensen (R.-Iowa) and added by the House to most appropriation bills this year, generally forbids the filling of more than one out of every four civil service vacancies during the present fiscal year. There are some exceptions, mainly in key positions and in job transfers within agencies.

The labor-federal security bill was the first of the regular appropriation measures to get through a Senate-House conference and today's House vote indicated that the House will insist on retention of the Jensen amendment in all the bills.

The roll-call vote that sent the measure back to conference was 222 to 169.

Calls for Meeting

United Nations, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—Israel charged today that Egypt is endangering the peace of the Middle East by interfering with shipping through the Suez Canal and called for an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council to consider the matter.

Between one-fourth and one-third of the population of the world is not included in official census counts.

Alleged Receiver Of Stolen Jewels Arrested at Resort

New York, July 12 (AP)—Police today reported the arrest in a Catskills summer resort of a man they described as the key receiver of $120,000 in jewelry allegedly stolen in two Manhattan hold-ups by dapper Arthur Chesler.

They said the arrested man was Abraham Garber, 51, of (65-74 Saunders street), Forest Hills, Queens, and that he had paid Chesler $7,500 for the jewels through a middleman.

Garber was identified as a diamond setter with a jewelry business in the Jewelers Exchange in Manhattan.

Police said he was taken into custody in Wingdale and that he had been staying at the Wingdale Country Club. They said that some of the jewels had been sold to Catskill vacationists.

Also arrested, in New York, was Louis Berg, 39, also known as Louis Goldberg, a truck driver.

Garber and Berg both were charged with criminally receiving stolen property. Both denied the charges.

Chesler is charged with robbing the Schlumberger, Inc., jewelry shop on the upper east side in two hold-ups and is awaiting grand jury action.

Police Tell Story

Police told this story:

Morris Glasner, 39, of Brooklyn, already under arrest and awaiting grand jury action on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property, was a "go-between."

Glasner knew Berg, and Berg took Glasner to Garber's home where Garber viewed the jewels last April 17.

Garber offered to pay $7,500 and Glasner took the message back to Chesler. Chesler hesitated, feeling he should get more, but finally accepted.

Glasner again het Berg, who took him to Garber's home once more. Garber gave Glasner the $7,500.

Chesler then gave Glasner $750 as a commission, and Glasner gave Berg $100 for his contact services.

Berg was picked up last night. Police learned Garber's identity and notified state police, who picked him up at Wingdale. New York detectives took him into custody at the state police barracks at Hawthorne.

Suspension Ordered

Tokyo, July 12 (AP)—The attorney general's office today ordered the Communist-backed news agency Rengo to suspend operations indefinitely. Japanese police immediately raided more than 40 offices of the agency. Results were not reported. Rengo was established in September, 1948, with the backing of Socialist and Communist parties in Japan and several labor organizations. The agency later came under sole Communist domination. Rengo distributes news supplied by three Communist agencies: the Russian Tass, British Telepress and New China News.

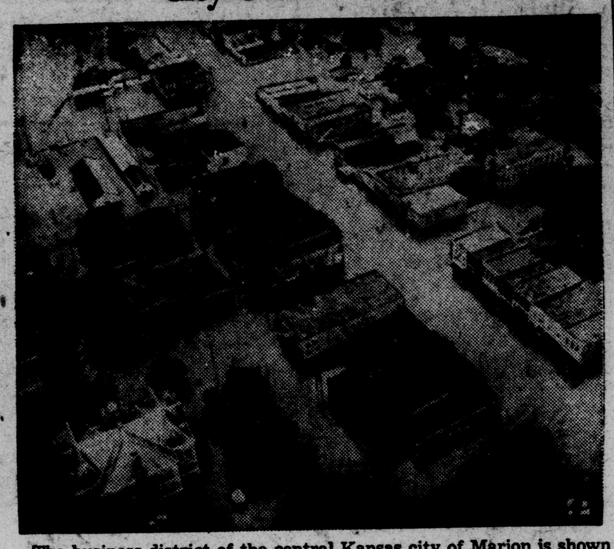
City Under Water



The business district of the central Kansas city of Marion is shown under water after the Cottonwood river overflower 10 feet deep in Main street, July 11. The river, swollen by a 4.5 inch rainfall overnight, swept into the city for the third time in a month. Neighboring cities sent in rescue crews, boats and supplies. Meanwhile, Northern and Central Kansas braced for the worst flood since the disastrous overflow of 1903 which paralyzed all of the cities along the Kansas river from its source to Kansas City. (AP Wirephoto).

Kansas Has Worst Flood, Thousands Are Homeless

Topeka, Kas., July 12 (AP)—High waters swirled over Kansas today in the state's most disastrous flood, leaving at least five persons dead and thousands homeless.

Five, and possibly eight persons, were missing.

Swollen rivers surged far beyond their banks into scores of communities.

The waters swept many areas in eastern and central Kansas that have been flooded and reflooded during the last two months of heavy rains.

The army engineers office at Kansas City estimated damages at $85,000,000 from the present and recent floods along the Kansas and its tributaries.

Trains were stranded. Motorists were marooned. The National Guard, the Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard and Red Cross all joined volunteers in aiding evacuees and patroling dikes.

Boats were flown to some flooded areas and dropped by parachute.

The majority of 10,000 residents of North Topeka, across the river from this state capital, evacuated the area.

Breaks in dikes sent flood waters of the Kansas River pouring into North Topeka early today. Water stood knee-high in the business district and deeper in some areas close to the river.

The river—the state's greatest—is expected to reach 33 feet at Topeka tonight.

Towns Under Water

Flooding already has inundated large sections of many towns. Ottawa, Council Grove, Manhattan, Marion, Strong City and Florence are among the hardest hit.

This was the picture in just one small town—Marion:

Muddy waters 16 feet deep flowed over 15 blocks of Main street. The town's water supply was cut off. Windows in virtually every building in the business district were shattered.

Cows and pigs floated down the streets, occasionally bumping against boats, merchandise and tree limbs.

In addition to damages suffered by towns, farmers have lost millions of dollars in crops and the use of rich bottomland for the remainder of the growing season. The wet weather has bogged down the wheat harvest.

Six Trains Stranded

At Emporia, 130 miles southwest of Kansas City, six Santa Fe trains were stranded with more than 1,000 passengers. Passenger trains and freights were halted in other sections also.

In addition to the Kansas, rivers causing severe flooding included the Cottonwood, Neosho, Marais Des Cygne.

The neighboring state of Missouri, which suffered from floods last month, also fought high waters again.

There was little optimism at the weather bureau.

Showers and thunderstorms were forecast for both states today and tomorrow.

And the forecaster indicated worst flooding is yet to come.

Rains End 5 Days Of 90 Temperature

Rains today and yesterday ended a five-day spell of weather in which area temperatures remained in the 90's.

The city engineer's office reported a high for the month of 95 on July 7, 92 on the 8th, 91 on the 9th and 93 on the 11th.

Readings on the rainfall to date were not taken pending the end of today's rain, but it was reported at the headworks of the Ashokan reservoir that .41 inches of rain had fallen in a 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today. The rainfall there to date this month was 1.16 inches, which is not considered above average.

The city engineer's office reported that July has an average of 13 days of 90-degree temperatures and above and June has eight. The total last month was eight. The local record for July temperatures in the 90's was in 1949 when there were 22 days. The same year had 16 days in June.

In 1945, the low record was set with only four days in June and 10 in July.

Four of Jupiter's nine satellites are named: Callisto, Europa, Io, and Ganymede. The five smallest are unnamed.

Red Guns, Not Writers Halted Korean Parley

Tokyo, July 12 (AP)—It wasn't the correspondents. It was Communist guns barring the way to a United Nations truck that halted cease-fire talks in Korea.

The UN command broke off armistice negotiations after Red guards tried to cull one truck out of an allied convoy of 17 vehicles headed for Kaesong, the conference site.

The truck carried 20 newsmen. The fact the correspondents wanted to get to Kaesong to report armistice discussions was only incidental. They were an "integral part of the United Nations command delegation."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN commander, told the Communists that yesterday through Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, his chief delegate at the cease-fire talks.

The basic issue was: Who has the right to say who can enter Kaesong?

Is There Equal Basis

Are the Reds "playing host" at armistice talks, as some Communist newspapers have boasted? Or are the two parties on an equal basis?

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS of OUR Business

A Customer	is the most important person in any business.
A Customer	is not dependent on us—we are dependent on him.
A Customer	is not an interruption of our work—he is the purpose of it.
A Customer	does us a favor when he calls—we are not doing him a favor by serving him.
A Customer	is part of our business—he is not an outsider.
A Customer	is not a cold statistic — he is a flesh-and-blood human being with feelings and emotions like our own.
A Customer	is not someone to argue or match wits with.
A Customer	is a person who brings us his wants — it is our job to fill those wants
A Customer	is deserving of the most courteous and attentive treatment we can give him.
A Customer	is the life blood of this and every other business.

You have convinced us that devotion to these ten commandments is good policy. You have given us your confidence and support. This support, in turn, has made possible our outstanding growth during the past 19 years!
